FINAL PARLEY COUNCIL HELD BY PRESIDENT

Delegates, Ready to Sail, Go Over Naval Plans at Breakfast.

HOOVER MAKES PLEA FOR PUBLIC PATIENCE

Appeal Says Conference Is Most Important One of Years.

GENERAL GOOD WILL TO MARK BEGINNING

Real Accomplishment Seen in Battleship Field; Envoys Are Optimistic.

President Hoover had a last talk with the American delegation to the London naval conference at a White House breakfast yesterday and issued a statement appealing to the country for encouragement and patience toward the difficult task ahead which, he emphasized, deeply concerns the peace of the world.

Secretary of State Stimson, as the head of the American mission, added a farewell message of his own, laying the heaviest stress upon the importance of continuing the holiday in big battleships and subordinating the more problematical issues over cruisers, destroyers and submarines upon which "a mutually satisfactory arrangement" for limitation is to be sought as a means of increasing "that sense of security essential to international good-will."

Voice Reflects Feeling.

Mr. Hoover's voice and manner reflected an unusual degree of emotion as he read to the press at noon his prepared statement which said:

"I am sure the whole Nation bids Godspeed to the American delegation that leaves tomorrow for the London naval arms conference. The people and the governments of the five nations assembling at this meeting are sincerely desirous that agreements should be brought about by which competition and construction of naval arms is brought to an end, and by which actual reduction in naval burdens of the world shall be accomplished. The difficulties of finding a basis that will be acceptable to five different nations are great, but they are not insuperable.

Security Must Be Result.

"The conclusions of the conference must be such as to give a sense of security and satisfaction to each of the nations. Permanent peace is never based on either taking advantage of or accepting a position of prejudice.

"The technology and the complexities of the problem are such that we need hope for no immediate and quick results. To complete the conference in three or four months would be in itself a great accomplishment, and we should not expect any hurried conclusions. It is the most important of international conferences of a great many years, and probably the most important for many years to come. The progress of peace for the world rests in a great measure upon the shoulders of the five delegations. There is good will toward the conference on the part of every nation. The importance and the gravity of the occasion have been recognized in the dispatch to London of the leading men of every country. They have the will to succeed.

Atmosphere Is Auspicious.

"I hope that the people of our country will cooperate in the progress of the conference by patience, encouragement, and freedom from criticism. We go to London in a fine atmosphere of international good will, and it is the duty of our country to preserve that atmosphere so far as lies within our power."

Secretary Stimson, who read his statement to the sound movie men, after introducing the four other delegates now here—Secretary of the Navy Adams, Dwight W. Morrow and Senators Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, and Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas—also pointed out that the five powers who are to sit around the London conference table approach the conference in the most friendly atmosphere.

The White House breakfast was attended by the delegates and Undersecretary of State Cotton, who will be Acting Secretary while Mr. Stimson is away; Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke; Rear Admiral Jones, who, with Admiral Pratt, heads the naval advisors; Rear Admirals Moffett, Yarnell and Hepburn, and other experts and advisors in the American group. The two other delegates, Ambassadors Dawes and Gibson, are now abroad.

Discussion Is General.

There was only general discussion at the breakfast, and the President gave no specific instructions to his delegates. They are to have wide latitude to exercise their own discre-

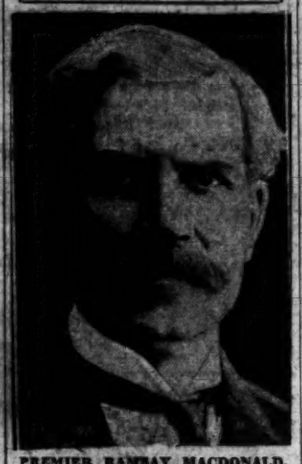
KEEPS SILENT



PREMIER RAMSAY MACDONALD.

SECRECY ON NAVAL POLICY IRKS LONDON

Fear Is Felt That Premier May Have No Clear-Cut Proposal to Make.

FRENCH STIR DISQUIET

London, Jan. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Uneasiness has been growing here at the secrecy maintained in official quarters regarding British plans and intentions at the five-power naval conference, which convenes in a fortnight, in view of the more or less authoritative indications from the other four capitals as to the general policies of France, Japan, Italy and the United States.

This disquiet is caused by fear that Premier Ramsay MacDonald, handicapped by the great complications which the naval problem presents for the British and by the involved technical difficulties raised by the admiralty, has no clear-cut policy and no important suggestions to put forward beyond the tentative and conditional agreement as to cruiser strengths approximated between himself and President Hoover.

There was hope that some statement of British policy might be made following today's visit by the Japanese delegates to the foreign office, where they were officially received by Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson.

The conference lasted for an hour, but at its conclusion it was stated that no outline of the conversations between Henderson and former Premier Wakatsuki, head of the Japanese delegation, and his colleagues would be made public.

When Premier MacDonald returns to London from Scotland problems facing the conference will be discussed between him and Japanese spokesmen in the comprehensive manner in which they were taken up between the Japanese and Secretary of State Stimson.

The Japanese delegates were introduced formally to Foreign Secretary Henderson today by Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent secretary to the foreign office, who accompanied Premier MacDonald on his historic trip to Washington.

Alarm is felt in naval circles here at the reported French intention to claim the right to build ten 10,000-ton Washington cruisers. If this is persisted in, it is now scarcely open to question that Great Britain will feel unable to content herself with about fifteen ships of this class against, say, nineteen American ones

BLEASE QUOTES PROFANITY AND WOMEN DEPART

Feminine Visitors Desert Gallery When Senator Cites Book Pages.

REFORMER ROLE QUIT BY SOUTH CAROLINIAN

SALACIOUS VOLUMES IN LIBRARIES, CLAIM

'Dirtiest Thing He Ever Read' Available to Children, Speaker Declares.

Unless a blue pencil has been used in the meantime, the Congressional Record will come out this morning with as choice a collection of profanity as has ever appeared on its pages.

It tumbled on to a stenographer's note pad yesterday while Senator Cole L. Blease, Democrat, of South Carolina, was washing his hands of local crime conditions.

Senator Blease quoted the "cuss words" from a book which he said he had turned over to District Attorney Leo A. Rover, "the dirtiest thing," he said, which he had ever read. Copies of it, he said, were in the libraries and available to children.

Women Walk Out.

Several women walked out of the gallery as Blease read the profanity. Other spectators snickered, and this made Blease angry.

"This is nothing to laugh at, you gallery people!" he shouted. "You had better go home and take your children and have family prayer."

Not a single protest was raised on the floor as Blease read from the book, whether there will be any today remains to be seen.

Former Representative Thomas L. Blanton, of Texas, very nearly was expelled once for quoting profanity from a letter. The motion to expel him having failed by just a few votes, the House then adopted one reprimanding him. The House members held that the fact that Blanton had quoted the language was no excuse.

He's Through With Reform.

Senator Blease arose yesterday to tell the Senate and the world that he was through trying to reform Washington. Previously he had charged that the city was "rotten, rotten to the core," and he sponsored a Senate investigation of the police and other departments.

"I will have no more to do with it," he roared. "I wash my hands of the whole affair. But I want those who read the Congressional Record to know that the newspapers are lying, and that the grand jury is lying, and others are lying, when they repeat that there is no crime, that there is no liquor selling, and that there is no gambling in the City of Washington."

Picking up the "dirtiest book," Senator Blease said he had seen a young lady reading it.

She Missed "Dirty" Part.

"She had not gotten far enough into it, thank God," he said, "to see the dirty part of it."

Then Blease began to quote so that the Senate and the spectators might know what the young lady had escaped.

Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, who spent the Christmas holidays perusing salacious books in order to determine whether they should be admitted into the country,

Committee Post Row Widens Rift in G. O. P.

Progressives Attempt to Place La Follette on Finance Group.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

With the congressional campaigns getting under way in a few months, the breach in the Senate Republican ranks, instead of narrowing, yesterday gave indications of widening to the break that followed the ousting of four senators in 1924.

The fight at that time revolved around Senator La Follette and today it revolves around his son.

The Old Guard, it developed, is determined that the younger La Follette shall not get on the finance committee and the Progressives are determined that he shall.

Following a meeting of the committee on committees in the morning at which an attempt was made by the Old Guard to substitute Senator Thomas, of Idaho, for Senator La Follette, the Progressives met in the afternoon and determined if necessary to take the fight to the floor. There is to be another meeting of the

BUILDING PROGRAM TOLD

Georgetown University received official approval from Rome yesterday for the immediate erection of a new students' dormitory at an estimated cost of $600,000 as the first unit of a general building program for the expansion of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of the university, who started the movement for a "Greater Georgetown" five years ago and has been pushing it rapidly since returning here as the head of the institution, made the announcement last night at a "get-together" dinner given by him for the college faculty.

At the same time, President Nevils disclosed plans for the establishment of a new quadrangle on the present athletic field, the dormitory being the first of four college structures to be built on that site.

RUTH SPURNS WAGE OF $75,000 YEARLY

Rejects Two-Year Contract and Demands $85,000 for Three Years.

IS YANKS' "TOP OFFER"

By BRIAN BELL.

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Ten years to the day after he signed his first Yankee contract, calling for $10,000, Babe Ruth today nonchalantly rejected an offer of $75,000, the salary paid the President of the United States. At a conference with Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York American League baseball club, and E. G. Barrow, its secretary, the home run hitter shook his head when it was suggested that the club would be willing to pay him $150,000 for a two-year crop of home runs.

Ruth countered with a proposal that he affix his well-known signature to a contract calling for $85,000 annually for three years. This suggestion Col. Ruppert emphatically vetoed, declaring that the club would not agree to a three-year contract at any terms, although Ruth pointed out that he had just closed a three-year contract at $70,000 a year.

The matter rested with a difference

CRIME REPORT TO AIR CAPITAL DRY SITUATION

COMMISSION POLICY ON HEARINGS IS HIT

PROHIBITION DEBATE BREAKS LOOSE ANEW

Maine Dry Upholds Shootings as Treasury Proceeds to Tighten Border.

(Associated Press.)

The Law Enforcement Commission expects today or tomorrow to issue a statement bearing directly upon some of the controverted prohibition questions that have wracked the Capital recently.

Chairman Wickersham indicated last night at the end of a protracted meeting of the commission that prohibition and reports of dissension on the commission had been discussed, and that the commission expects to make its first public utterance of the New Year shortly.

Speculation on Statement.

Last night, in the face of the silence that continued to cloak activities of the commission, there was speculation as to how far its statement would go.

Since its last meeting early in December, the most heated controversy yet has involved wet and dry leaders of the Capital.

The commission itself has been attacked and defended in Congress for its failure to deal publicly with the prohibition and enforcement question and its failure to hold open hearings.

LaGuardia Assails Killings.

The congressional dispute over prohibition, which was presaged by quarrels among the drys during the holidays over the enforcement situation, materialized yesterday in a scathing House debate.

Reference by Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, a wet, to the shooting of three men by coast guardsmen off the New England coast as a "bloody murder" brought a vigorous reply from Representative Beedy (Republican), of Maine, a dry. Beedy insisted LaGuardia had not given the facts and upheld the Coast Guard.

At the same time, Senator Blease (Democrat), South Carolina, reopened the dry controversy in the Senate with the charge that the Nation's Capital was "reeking with vice and corruption." He said the responsibility for enforcing the prohibition law rested upon President Hoover and the Republican party in Congress.

Border Control to Be Stiffened.

With these developments on Capitol Hill informal negotiations went forward between American and Canadian government officials to strengthen the border barriers by closing a large number of entry roads and increasing the ports from 100 to 600, with officials stationed at each.

The Treasury received reports that Canadian exports of alcoholic beverages to the United States in November amounted to 205,486 gallons, as compared with 520,903 gallons for the same month in 1928.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced a little later that authority had been granted Prohibition Administrator Pennington, at Pittsburgh, to issue permits to three dis-

ARRAIGNMENT SET FOR COUNTY COURT

Swamp at Brady Home Combed by Officers for Dynamite.

SECRET CONTAINER IS FOUND IN AUTO

Widower's Brother Is Said to Admit Running Liquor to City.

A charge of first degree murder will be placed today in connection with the New Year's bombing at Seat Pleasant, Md.

This announcement was made last night by detectives investigating the triple murder, following further questoning of Herman Brady, 22-year-old farmer, of Mitchellville, who, with his brother, Lawrance Leroy Brady, 26, a Washington automobile mechanic, has been held in the Prince Georges County Jail at Upper Marlboro since Sunday.

The warrant will charge the murder of one, two or three persons, and may be supplemented by a bombing charge.

Will Be Arraigned Today.

The man, or men, will be brought before Justice of the Peace Harry W. Gore, of Upper Marlboro, this morning for a preliminary hearing in connection with the charges, it was announced.

Herman Brady was the husband of pretty Naomi Hall Brady, 18, who was killed almost outright by the explosion of the bomb which was camouflaged as a Christmas present.

Two others died as the result of injuries they suffered in the explosion. They were 18-month-old Samuel Hall and Dorothy Hall, 4, who died in Washington hospitals subsequent to the blast.

Three Still in Hospital.

Mrs. Nora Hall, the mother, and her two sons, Leslie, 16, and Thomas, 8, are still in Providence Hospital as a result of their injuries.

Lieut. Joseph Itzel and Sergt. Charles Schalter, crack Baltimore detectives, together with County Policeman Frank Prince and State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, have been investigating the bombing.

Confer With State's Attorney.

The detectives early yesterday went to the county jail to question the Brady brothers, and then to the courthouse, where they conferred for some time with State's Attorney Parran.

Sheriff Charles S. Early yesterday sent several deputies to search a swamp near the Brady home at Mitchellville, following the receipt of information that dynamite had been hidden there. The search did not reveal any dynamite.

A search of the Brady home at Mitchellville yesterday revealed a set of automobile license tags, which were apparently of much interest to Lieut. Itzel, but he would not say what bearing they had on the case.

Secret Container Found.

It also was revealed that Leroy Brady's automobile was fitted with a secret container under the floor boards of the car, which measured 18 by 4 inches. In the receptacle was found a quart bottle of alleged liquor.

Leroy told police, they said, that he had been running liquor from southern Maryland to Washington.

Special Prosecutor Rumored.

Rumors were current yesterday that special legal aid would be asked in the prosecution, if either of the two men is held at the hearing today. It is understood, however, that State's Attorney Parran is of the

ARMY LIFE TO BE CITED

Boston, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, retired, war-time commander of the Twenty-sixth (Yankee) Division, today agreed to address the Associated Organizations against the Prohibition Amendment at a meeting called for the purpose of launching a Nation-wide demonstration against prohibition. Preliminary plans provide for simultaneous parades in many cities and the casting of episodes attributed to the enforcement of the dry laws.

Gen. Edwards' agreement was reached during a conference today with A. Fritz Roy Anderson, of the Associated Organizations Against the Prohibition Amendment, who came here from New York to enlist the aid of the general. The meeting will be held during a luncheon attended by interested organizations on January 15 at a place to be announced later.

Gen. Edwards, in announcing that he would address the luncheon, said: "I have served 50 years in the Army and I have had as much experience with youth as any man. I have brief for our youths as the most patriotic and self-sacrificing. I think they have vision, greater than the average. But I am convinced that this prohibition law is the saddest thing that ever happened to America. I think it is making us a Nation of hypocrites and that it is proving a cancerous growth to youth.

"I feel sorry for the Coast Guard. I feel that if the same duties were placed upon the Army they would ruin its morale. I think the service of the United States Army and Navy are about the noblest professions, and we are able to obtain such fine officers only for duty's sake. They are willing to give their lives that the country may endure, and may such duty as this of the Coast Guard be put upon them, as many advocate. I think it would break down the morale of the Army and the most valuable officers would resign rather than perform a duty which is stifling the liberty of their own fellows.

"I had 60,000 men in France, the most temperate lot of men I ever saw. I urged them to drink wine, because the water was bad, and my division had less than a sixth the average number of court-martials for the army."

Final Brilliant Fete Precedes Royal Rites

2,000 Guests Greet Princess Marie Jose Who Today Becomes Bride of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

Rome, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, was the center of a final brilliant reception tonight at the Quirinal Palace before her marriage with Crown Prince Humbert, of Italy, tomorrow morning.

The princess, who spent a crowded and colorful day, received about 2,000 guests, including high army and navy officers, government officials and the members of the so-called Roman "white aristocracy"—those who have been signalized by their devotion to the Kingdom of Italy.

The princess was dressed in pink and wore a beautiful pearl necklace, which was the gift of Crown Prince Humbert. The officers were in full dress uniform and the rest of the men in full evening dress.

At the wedding ceremony tomorrow all the ladies will wear lace veils, and long sleeves and high necked dresses will be the rule. The ladies attached to the Belgian and Italian courts will wear mantles of Savoy blue.

Crown Prince Humbert, unlike American bridegrooms, is not giving a bachelor dinner this evening. He gave such a dinner some time ago in Turin to his brother officers of the Ninety-second Infantry, all of whom toasted the bride in sparkling Asti wine.

Princess Maria Jose spent a busy day on the eve of her wedding. In addition to the reception tonight, she had an audience with Pope Pius in the morning and reviewed a colorful procession of peasants in the afternoon.

The Pauline chapel of the Quirinal has been draped in deep red velvet for the wedding tomorrow morning. The velvet is fringed with gold. Workmen were busily engaged from an early hour this morning in putting the final touches to the decorations.

Twenty-five priceless tapestries, including four Gobelins, have been hung in the chapel. The altar is surmounted with a Baldaquin, and on the left side thrones have been placed for the Italian sovereigns and their royal guests. The thrones are covered with red velvet and the floors carpeted with red.

It will be the fourth time that a royal marriage has taken place in the chapel. In September, 1861, Pope Pius IX himself officiated at the wedding of Princess Maria Immacolata Clementina, eldest daughter of King Ferdinand II of Naples, to the Archduke Carlo Salvatore of Tuscany.

The big chamber in which the wedding will be witnessed tomorrow by one of the largest galaxies of kings and queens, princes and princesses, assembled in Europe in a number of years, was built by the Architect Carlo Maderno on the order of Pope Paul V, who consecrated it himself January 25, 1618. Except for the 1870-1929 period, when it was under interdict, the chapel has been a Christian church for nearly 313 years.

New York, Jan. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Seeking indictments against seven members of the investment brokerage firm of the F. H. It is charged that the stock concern has defrauded hundreds of persons in the sale of real estate bonds.

Chief among those named by Mr. Dodds is Daniel R. Mr. Crissinger and the other six named with him were previously indicted in Washington in connection

State Chief Justice Holds Buyer Can Not Be Made to "Squeal."

Montpelier, Vt., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The disclosure provision of Vermont's prohibition enforcement law requiring those found guilty of intoxication to tell where they procured their liquor was pronounced unconstitutional by Chief Justice George M. Powers in an opinion handed down in Vermont Supreme Court here today.

The act was passed as an amendment to the enforcement law by the legislature in 1921. In declaring it unconstitutional today Chief Justice Powers stated "the Legislature of Vermont, in its zeal to add strength to the Vermont prohibitory law, attempted to take from a citizen a part of the privileges guaranteed to him under the constitution of Vermont."

The Brady brothers were placed in the county jail following an intensive grilling of both Sunday by the Baltimore detectives and Parran. Their detention followed the signing of a statement by Herman Brady which declared that Leroy had asked him the location of the Hall home in Seat Pleasant after he had told him of his secret marriage to Naomi Hall in November.

Hinted Brother Had Knowledge.

Herman informed the detectives that he had told Leroy that the Hall home was on Carmody road, the second house from Chapel road.

The younger brother said that Leroy could "put him on the street" if he would tell the truth, the detectives declared.

Leroy has steadfastly denied that he placed the bomb on the porch of the home of Mrs. John Buckley the Sunday morning prior to the explosion.

Booked as Drunk, Acid Victim Dies

Traces of Poison as Well as Liquor Are Found During Autopsy.

An autopsy performed on Vinton Guy King, 54 years old, of Eleventh street near D street southeast, who died early yesterday at Gallinger Hospital, revealed that death was due to alcoholic poisoning.

Traces of carbolic acid in addition to alcohol were found in the autopsy, Deputy Coroner Joseph D. Roger announced. The deputy coroner declared he could not determine whether an alcoholic beverage, apparently drunk by King, was mixed with the acid or whether the acid was taken alone "on top" of the alcohol.

In response to an emergency call, King was picked up at Twelfth and E streets southeast by a Casualty Hospital physician and taken to the hospital in an ambulance, where first aid was administered. Because of the hospital's policy to decline admission to alcoholic patients, King was turned over to Policeman J. T. Kirby, of the Fifth Precinct. After booking the man on a charge of intoxication the policeman took King to Gallinger Hospital.

Alleged Robber In Leesburg Jail

Farmer Said to Have Held Up Hamilton Bank Awaits Grand Jury Action.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Jan. 7.—William Francis Lindsay, young farmer of Lovettsville, Va., alleged robber who held up and looted the Farmers & Merchants National Bank at Hamilton, Va., of approximately $4,400 last Friday, is being held in the Leesburg Jail, where he was brought late last night by Sheriff E. S. Adrian, Deputy Sheriff D. H. Cooley and a bank official. It has not been definitely decided whether a special grand jury will be called or whether the case will be held for the February term of court.

Lindsay was captured yesterday afternoon about 4:30 by Maryland officials after a search of three days and nights while he was attempting to telephone to his wife at Walkersville, Md., from Woodsboro, Md. Officers reported that $1,626 was found on Lindsay when apprehended. That amount, with the money found in a safe in the automobile he abandoned when he fled into the Catoctin Mountains near Yellow Springs, Md., late Friday, following the robbery, accounts for most of the bank's loss.

According to Deputy Sheriff Edward Stisely, of Frederick County, Md., who made the arrest, Lindsay readily confessed, joked about his daring holdup, his exciting escape by automobile into Maryland and his abandonment of the machine, along with about $2,400 of the stolen money and his young wife, when police neared.

FAIRFAX PREPARES FOR SCHOOL CENSUS

Expenses Allowed as County Board Transacts Other Business Matters.

SUPERVISORS ALSO MEET

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The Fairfax County School Board met yesterday at the courthouse. A resolution was passed appointing three of its members to consider the qualification of a county school mechanic and make a report to the full board at its regular meeting in February. This committee is to recommend the salary and the person. It was stated that a man must be a good plumber, able to fix lights and do light carpentry work. He must have his own tools, but the county would furnish a truck and transportation. The committee, John T. DeBell, chairman; Vernon Lynch and J. T. Halslip, will meet in the board room at Fairfax at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, February 1, when applicants for the position should appear.

The question of taking a school census this year was discussed. The State law requires that a census be made of all persons between the ages of 7 and 20 and that the persons taking the census be paid at the rate of 6 cents per person of school age. It must be taken by June 1, 1930. The board decided to appoint one person in each district to perform the work. It allowed $20 for traveling expenses in Centerville district, $30 in Drainsville district, $30 in Mount Vernon district, $25 in Falls Church district, $18 in Lee district, $30 in Providence district, and $5 in the town of Falls Church.

Dr. R. E. Moss, who is making an examination of the school children's teeth, made a report from Dr. Ballou of the State board of health on the approximate cost of the dental clinic to date. According to his figures it has cost the county about $85 per month. Dr. Moss stated that he expected to finish his work about March 1, which would make the total cost approximately $500.

A request for increase of salary for the teachers of colored schools in the county was laid on the table and all persons interested were referred to the action of the board in their annual budget meeting, where the board planned to increase competent teachers $2 a month.

In discussing tuition it was brought out after consulting precedent that persons living in the county and owning property in a city do not have to pay tuition for their children attending school in the city, and vice versa.

A letter was read from Chairman Hart of the State board of education urging that a collection be made among the school children to aid in the preservation of Wakefield, the birthplace of George Washington, and Stratford, the birthplace of Robert E. Lee. Such action was approved by the board.

Superintendent Woodson was granted authority to employ new janitors for the McLean and Oakton schools.

A letter from Commonwealth Attorney Wilson M. Farr was read in regard to the Merrifield school, in which he states that two deeds have been found in the country record to two separate and distinct lots. The original lot of about one-fourth acre, from the Gaylord estate, is deeded to the community in trust to five trustees, to be used from school and church purposes for white persons. On this lot is located the present school building. The second lot deeded to the school board at a later date with a fee simple title adjoins the original lot on the west side. It is within the power of county school board to sell this separate lot of about one-fourth acre at auction, as was originally contemplated for the entire property.

The bills for the month of December containing 104 items amounting to $3,743.55 were ordered paid, as was the McLean literary loan bond No. 4 amounting to $1,000 with interest of $480.

President Edmund H. Allen has called a special meeting of the directors of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce for 3 o'clock Friday afternoon in the chamber's office at Fairfax. The object will be the selection of a secretary to fill the vacancy, caused by the present secretary's having tended her resignation, to take effect January 15, to become secretary of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Allen requests that all applications file their applications in writing before that date. In order to receive consideration, they may be sent to the president, the secretary or to one of the directors.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors yesterday indorsed the outline of a bill presented to them by F. S. McCandlish, chairman of the special committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce. The bill, which deals with changing the present method of making real estate assessments, will be presented to the coming session of the State Assembly. The bill as outlined by Mr. McCandlish grants the board of supervisors in each county the power to enact such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper relating to the time and manner for making and completing such assessments. This will allow them to decide on the number of assessors, their salary and such details. The assessors shall be appointed by the judge of the circuit court, and shall afford a reasonable opportunity to all parties who are interested to set up any objections which they may have to such assessment and the party aggrieved still has the remedy of appealing to the court for redress. The bill specifies that the act shall apply to the 1930 assessments.

Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr urged the supervisors to indorse this bill, stating that it was his belief that there should be a fair distribution of the burden of taxation. "If a man is fairly assesed now this will mean no increase in his taxes, but it will mean a difference if he is unfairly assessed, whether too low or too high," he declared.

The present movement is to have all property in the county assesed at a fair cash value.

The supervisors passed a resolution asking Senator Ball and Delegate Freeman to do all in their power to keep the present method of distributing the gasoline tax to the counties, inasmuch as the municipalities are doing their utmost to get the State Assembly to allow them part of the gas tax.

The afternoon session of the board was devoted to making and adopting a tentative budget for next year. The law requires this budget to be published in a local paper four consecutive weeks, following which a public hearing will be held and the necessary levies made. The board selected Monday, March 3, as the date for the public hearing.

Several committees appeared before the board urging that certain appropriations be inserted in the budget. R. R. Buckley, chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Public Welfare, urged that the supervisors appropriate $1,800 for salary and expenses of the superintendent of welfare work in the county. The board granted their request.

J. H. Beattie, spokesman of the committee of the Fairfax County Firemen's Association, asked the board to make a 3-cent levy to assist the volunteer fire companies in county fire protection. This levy would raise approximately $4,440. The money would not be for the purchase of engines, but would be used for the running expenses of the company. The board voted to include $4,500 next year for the work.

The school board's request for a 90-cent levy for school purposes and a 5-cent sinking fund for the construction of a central vocational high school at some future date was granted by the supervisors.

The tentative budget that was adopted has a total appropriation of $581,198.87.

The $7,000 State aid road money received from Alexandria last year when the annexation case was settled and at that time placed in the county building fund was returned to the highway department minus the costs of the suit. The board was urged to require that all supplies purchased by the county officers be handled through a central purchasing agent, instead of the system which now prevails, each office purchasing its own supplies.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fairfax Volunteer Fire Department tomorrow afternoon at the county chamber of commerce. A new president will be elected to fill the vacancy created by the death of Mrs. F. W. Huddleson.

NOTE LINKS HOOVER WITH SUGAR LOBBY

Bottlers' Secretary Tells Investigators of Letter Naming President.

WANTED SLIDING SCALE

(Associated Press.)

New "confidential" memoranda of the sugar interests mentioning President Hoover in connection with activities in the sugar tariff controversy before Congress were read to the Senate lobby committee yesterday as it resumed its inquiry.

A "highly confidential" memorandum sent in a letter to Junior Owens, secretary to the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, from William H. Baldwin, of New York, publicity man for the organization, said that R. L. Purdon, sugar expert of the Department of Commerce, had been "asked by the White House" and Chairman Smoot of the Senate finance committee to work out a sliding scale for sugar duties.

Mr. Baldwin, who said the letter must have been "signed while I was out of the office or something like that," testified that he knew nothing about the matter and could not give the source of the information.

However, in the same letter was a "report on sliding scale," which said there had been no request "directly from the White House for a sliding scale." The sliding scale proposal was rejected by the Senate finance committee. The report added:

Says Smoot Requested Sliding Scale.

"Mr. Hoover would like a plan worked out if possible, so that if the C. and F. price in New York got too high the duty would not raise it. A request for a so-called workable sliding scale has been made by Senator Smoot. Mr. Hoover has worked out no sliding scale."

Previously the committee had read a letter from Morris Murmey, connected with Mr. Baldwin, to H. H. Pike, jr., New York sugar broker, which said Mr. Murmey was "inclosing several copies of a highly confidential memorandum regarding sliding scales." The letter continued:

"The authority for the information on the inclosed memorandum entitled 'Report on sliding scale,' is Mr. Thompson, sugar expert, U. S. Tariff Commission."

It was not developed whether the sliding scale report was the same as the one sent by Mr. Baldwin to Mr. Owens and the committee said it would try to clear up the apparent conflict in the reports later. Mr. Purdon, Mr. Pike and Mr. Murmey have been summoned and the committee announced Mr. Pike would testify tomorrow.

Testimony also was given that Mr. Murmey had conferred with Charles Michaelson, publicity director for the Democratic national committee, in regard to sugar publicity and that attempts had been made to interest Senator Borah, of Idaho, in a sugar bounty.

Mr. Baldwin Sharply Questioned.

Mr. Baldwin was questioned sharply in regard to the statement that tariff information had been received from Mr. Thompson. He said he supposed Mr. Murmey had been in touch with Mr. Thompson and had received the information.

"And got the highly confidential memorandum from an expert of the Tariff Commission?" Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, inquired.

"It probably would be confidential at the time," Mr. Baldwin replied.

"Well, is your firm in a situation to get private and confidential information from the Tariff Commission?"

"Not as a rule. I don't know——"

"Was there a variation from the rule in this instance?" interrupted Senator Walsh.

"I didn't get that information. You had better ask Mr. Murmey about that because I can't give you any information about it."

"You appreciate, I suppose," Mr. Walsh said, "that puts you and Mr. Thompson in a somewhat embarrassing situation."

"It does," replied Mr. Baldwin. "I don't know anything about the thing at all."

DOCTORS SAY TAFT WILL SOON RECOVER

(Associated Press.)

William Howard Taft, formerly the President and now the Chief Justice of the United States, slept last night on a hospital bed happy in the assurance of physicians that the ailment from which he is suffering would respond to treatment within a week.

Recurring bladder trouble necessitated his entrance into the hospital. For several years the condition has disturbed him. After his present stay at Garfield Hospital, Mr. Taft plans to go to Grove Park Inn at Asheville, N. C., for several weeks of rest.

The Chief Justice was in a cheerful mood yesterday, his decision to drop the exacting court work for a time having restored his customary chuckle. He transacted business for several hours with his secretary and law clerk before going to the hospital, the last he will do for several weeks. He then walked to his automobile for the ride to the hospital with Mrs. Taft. Arriving there he made cheerful inquiry for his room.

On the advice of his physicians, the Chief Justice will completely divorce himself from all work for several weeks. He took with him to the hospital a collection of books and will receive others from time to time, but will give no attention whatever to his correspondence or judicial duties.

While he is in the South resting the same rule prohibiting work of any kind will be observed. Although the Chief Justice will be permitted to read books of his own selection, he will be required to take a complete rest. Mrs. Taft will not accompany him South.

68 POLICEMEN SUE RELIEF ASSOCIATION

DISSOLUTION IS ASKED

Sixty-eight retired policemen filed suit yesterday in the District Supreme Court against the Metropolitan Police Relief Association, seeking to compel the payment to each of them of $1,000 now instead of at their death, as provided by the by-laws of the association.

Each of the petitioners tells the court that he is in need of financial relief and assistance. Each states that he is entitled to money whenever he files an "article in writing with the official records of the association." The petitioners state that they made the request for the advances by letter on December 11, last, but as yet they have been unsuccessful in obtaining the money.

The association at present has a fund of $332,220.65 in the treasury, the suit points out. This fund, the petitioners say, has been amassed during the course of many years. All the petitioners state that they have paid $2 a month into the association for from 25 to 57 years. In addition they set out that the fund has been increased as a result of proceeds from the annual Policemen-Firemen's baseball games. The association's annual income is said to be $40,000 and its expenses $16,000, leaving a net annual profit of $24,000.

In addition to seeking payment of the $1,000 benefits, the petitioners ask the court to determine how the finances of the association are handled and safeguarded. If the association is not willing to pay the petitioners their benefits now they request that the court dissolve it and distribute its assets among members. Pending the dissolution, the petitioners ask that a receiver be appointed to take over the association's funds.

Besides the association, other defendants in the action are Caney L. Plemmons, president; Harry M. Luckett, secretary and treasurer, and Frank S. W. Burke, who with Mr. Plemmons and Mr. Luckett is a co-trustee of the organization. Attorneys Hosea B. Moulton and Robert N. McNeil appear for the petitioners.

U.S. EMPLOYES PLAN WORLD-WIDE GROUP

Foreign Service Personnel May Join Federal Organization.

TO HOLD MEETING TODAY

Plans for further organization of Federal employes throughout the United States and its possessions, as well as those in foreign service, will be submitted to the executive council of the National Federation of Federal Employes at a meeting today in the Labor Building at 10 B street southwest.

Considerable study has been given by the organization committee of the federation toward formulation of a world-wide organization campaign to bring in workers in all branches of Government service, with the exception of postal employes, in an endeavor to throw the strength of the entire Federal personnel behind a unified program for the improvement of working conditions.

The executive council already has approved this broad membership campaign in a resolution "that the executive council proceed at once to arrange the details of a Nation-wide and even world-wide organization campaign to be expanded to the limit of the resources of the organization, and to give priority to organization work in the South.

In this campaign the federation is putting into effect a policy of the American Federation of Labor, with which it is affiliated, to increase the numerical strength of organized workers during 1930, with particular attention to those in the South. It is expected by officials of the Federal Workers Union that the organization will at least double its present membership of more than 50,000.

Following passage by the Senate of the Dale retirement bill, the Federation of Federal Employes yesterday prepared a table showing the average salary increases which will be effected by using the 40 divisor instead of the present 45, in certain of the lower salary grades.

SNOW STALLS HUNT FOR LOST AVIATORS

COLLISION PERIL ACUTE

Fairbanks, Alaska, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Damp, smudgy weather, which during the last few days has settled over this country has steadily grown worse, until today visibility was nonexistent, with the temperature near the thawing point.

A leaden sky, dropping a dense veil of snow, shut out all details of landscape during the period of sunshine. If the sun had been visible today in the parallel of latitude embracing Fairbanks and Teller, it would have shone from 9:55 a. m. until 2:18 p. m.

With such weather prevailing throughout the Territory, the searches for both Carl Ben Eielson and his mechanic, Earl Borland, and Capt. Pat Reid, William Hughes and James Hutchinson were at a standstill. Fliers were unable to leave Fairbanks, Nulato, Teller or the icebound furtrading vessel Nanuk at North Cape, Siberia, to seek the two missing parties.

It was believed here that Reid came down along Norton Bay Coast, rather than attempt to return to Nulato in the fog, as Matt Niemenen did.

Soft, wet snow or a cracked landing gear would keep Reid down there, it was said. It was not believed probable that he had flown out to sea, as the dangers of snow-covered slush ice of Norton Bay and the seacoast of the Seward Peninsula were impressed upon him before leaving Fairbanks.

Search for Reid will be held up until weather permits flying visibility. Niemenen, also flying a closed-cabin plane of the same type as Reid piloted, was forced to discontinue the search Saturday for fear that Reid might still be in the air. There was extreme danger of collision if he was, Niemenen said.

It was revealed here today that Hutchinson, who was flying with Reid as a mechanic, was an expert welder from Pennsylvania. He came to Alaska with the Signal Corps. His wife and six children, the oldest 8 years old, are living here.

Brickbats & Bouquets

—By JAMES HAY, JR.

MR. GRUNDY, of Pennsylvania, is the fastest worker who ever breezed gayly into the sedate midst of the United States Senate. Famed as the champion cash register of the Nation, he attends a few sessions of the loquacious, languid and deliberative legislators and, in the twinkling of an eye, blossoms as a reformer.

The metamorphosis came when the rate lifters were voting on an amendment to boost the duty on wool yarns, a proposition that went through as easily as a pay roll robbery in Snickers Gap. Up rose "Old Joe" Grundy, smooth as silk, soft-spoken as a girl.

"I am interested in the industry which is sheltered under this paragraph," he said, with a faint indication of a bow, as if to deprecate even the appearance of boasting. "Therefore, I would like to withhold my vote on this amendment."

IN two sentences he tripped to the top of the heap as the exponent of idealism and the custodian of political ethics in the Senate. Lord Chesterfield could not have done the thing with more enchanting adroitness. Beau Brummel, putting a dowager in her place, could not have written a new chapter on etiquette with so imperial and at the same time so disarming a gesture.

Foe of precedent and friend of punctilio, the gentleman from Pennsylvania delicately let it be understood that, although in the past senators have voted "right" on paragraphs that put filthy lucre into their already bulging pockets, in the future, the patrician, the high-minded and the angelic course will be to lay not so much as the weight of a lifted eyebrow on the legislation which leads to self-enrichment.

Precedent, even senatorial precedent, lives hard in these days, and henceforward the galleries no doubt will see a disciplined Senate doing its utmost to express the idealism so suavely thrust upon it by its newest member.

Hereafter, when the roll is called on a proposal that would pour wealth into a senator's treasure chest, the lawmaker in question will clap a gagging hand over his half-opened mouth, force back into silence the joyous affirmation he was about to utter, and, suddenly wrapping about his towering form the sackcloth of aburgation, stand aside and commune inwardly on the toughness of things as originated by the cash-and-carry school of legislative esthetics.

SUCH a reformation would be a "wreck of worlds and a falling of the firmament in any event, but when staged by Mr. Grundy it is enough to reduce his colleagues to a state of drop-jawed and gibbering hysteria. It was only yesterday that certain of his brethren had him on the witness stand relating how he collected money for campaigns. They pictured him as the spirit of materialism, the incarnation of greed, the soul of grab, grasp and gouge.

And behold! Rising gracefully from his seat, flipping the invisible dust of imaginary contamination from his slender fingers and lifting his glance to the realm of higher things, he courteously rebukes, brow-beats and bedevils his associates with the silk-covered iron pipe of reform! Having hardly achieved his assuefaction among senators, he tops them all as the guardian of their etiquette!

"Old Joe" Grundy, the collector, is gone. Hail Mr. Grundy, combination of all the virtues of Beau Nash and Emily Post, the high priest of senatorial finesse, the very glass of ethical fashion and world of political form!

started to interrupt Blease, but the latter would not yield.

"I shall go into that," Blease said. "I will say to the senator from Utah that I have this one and another one. They are in the libraries of this city for the children to read.

Quotes Newspaper Recitals.

"Yet Washington is a clean, model city! No young ladies drink liquor in Washington! No young ladies play cards in Washington! No young ladies smoke cigarettes in Washington! No young ladies have babies in Washington! Oh, it is the city of all cities!

"We might think it was the New Jerusalem, if we listened to the grand jury and certain newspaper reporters and certain officials who are lying in order to hurt those of us who have endeavored to help clean up the city."

At the outset of his farewell to Washington crime, Senator Blease quoted for articles in The Post and other local newspapers, articles about liquor raids, gambling raids and other crimes.

Not Prohibition to Rich.

"That," he said, sarcastically, "is prohibition in the City of Washington. Prohibition for the poor devil who is not able to buy, but it is no prohibition to the wealthy man, no prohibition to the Commissioners, no prohibition to the embassies, no prohibition to the Cabinet, no prohibition to Mr. Hoover if he wants to have it.

"He can have it if he wants to. It is no prohibition to a senator, no prohibition to a representative, no prohibition to any man who has money to buy liquor in the City of Washington.

"Yet a grand jury comes out and says that the people who say that liquor is sold in Washington, or people who talk about Washington reeking in crime, do not know what they are talking about.

Reporters Draw Fire.

"If they do not, the press here, these young men in our press galleries, ought to report to their papers that their papers are publishing the most outrageous falsehoods about the City of Washington, the blind tigers, the gambling dens, the race horse gamblers and the bad women, and not try to charge those of us who attempt to help clean out the situation with falsifying. They must be the falsifiers, because here are their reports."

But, so far as he is concerned, the senator from South Carolina said he is through.

DEBT CONFERENCE IS AT STANDSTILL

Sanctions Are Disregarded as Payments Schedule Is Discussed.

BULGARIA MAKES PLEA

The Hague, Netherlands, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The big six powers at the second Hague reparations conference came to a standstill today when they tried to get the remaining chief questions between Germany and her reparations creditors cleared up.

The question of sanctions, or what action is to be taken in the event Germany should default, which is the biggest thorn, was left to one side while the delegates discussed the dates of the payments of installments. This involves the question of whether installments are to be paid on the 15th or the end of the month. The question of a moratorium, how it is to be prepared and how accumulated payments are to be made, the question of liquidation of the past, comprising settlement of the accounts for ceded public and sequestrated private property, the transformation of negative pledges of railroad revenues under the Dawes plan into positive pledges under the Young plan and German deposits in the bank for international settlements.

Little Progress Is Made.

Little or no progress was made on any of these problems. Three of them, the dates for payment, the transformation pledges and the moratorium, were reserved for reference to the Reich cabinet and to experts.

The creditors agreed with the Germans that there should be no special privileges handed to the United States in reparations payments over the other creditors. This and adoption of the text of the preamble of the protocol for acceptance of the Young plan are about the only things on which the conference has agreed, so far apart are the creditor nations and the Germans at this stage.

It was decided that it would be necessary to refer some of the questions to the Reich government, others going back to the experts and jurists. In order to give time for these formalities, the big six powers will not meet tomorrow.

During the day S. Parker Gilbert, agent-general for reparations, who is now here, met with the big powers and discussed the manner in which installments on reparations had been paid under the Dawes plan.

Reichsbank Head Coming.

Reports that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German Reichsbank, had refused to come to The Hague when requested were denied in advices from Berlin, which said that Dr. Schacht was coming here January 12.

Bulgaria, following Austria in consideration of the reparations problems of the smaller powers, today informed the committee dealing with non-German reparations, that she could not possibly meet the demands of her creditors.

M. Bouroff, the minister for foreign affairs, and M. Moloff, minister of finances, rejected a compromise offer made by the committee this afternoon to settle for 15,000,000 marks annually. The Bulgarian delegates set forth the financial difficulties of their country and insisted that unless a moratorium were granted the country could not possibly increase her present payments of between ten and eleven million marks.

Pay of Judges Cited.

"A country which pays its whole court less than $30,000 a year, whose justice of the supreme court receives less than $25 weekly and whose other judges get less than $10 can not be expected to do what more prosperous nations are able to do," said the Bulgarian spokesman.

"The royal princess," Foreign Minister Bouroff said, "has no separate apanage. She shares in the king's allowance and is not able on what can be spared from the royal budget to buy many Paris gowns. When you consider that all functionaries in Bulgaria are obliged to get on with salaries that can be compared with the judges' allowances, you can understand what discontent there is and what more discontent there would be if Bulgaria were obliged still further to retrench on interior expenses to pay reparations abroad."

M. Loucheur, chairman of the committee, declared the Bulgarian offer disappointing, but that, since it was a real and tangible proposal, it must be taken into consideration. Another subcommittee will consider the Bulgarian offer tomorrow morning and the full committee will meet the Bulgarians in the afternoon. This throws the hearing of the Hungarians to Thursday, putting the conference time schedule behind two days.

Pershing Declines G. O. P. Draft Plan

General Wires Nebraskan That He Will Not Run for Norris' Seat.

Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the A. E. F. in the World War days and known to American soldiers—behind his back—as "Black Jack," yesterday refused to obey the "draft."

He wired to Mark Woods, Pershing enthusiast and a Nebraska Republican leader, that he would not run for the United States Senate next fall to contest the Nebraskan seat with Senator George W. Norris, G. O. P. insurgent, or with any one else. Gen. Pershing's telegram to Mr. Woods—the last word in the case—follows:

"Confirming what I said in our telephone conversation yesterday, I do not desire nor have I desired at any time to seek public office. While it would be a distinct honor for any man to represent the great State of Nebraska in the United States Senate, my decision must be regarded as final. Will you please advise my good friends in Nebraska to this effect."

40-TO-32 VOTE KILLS SILK DUTY INCREASE

Tariff for Woven Fabrics Is to Remain at 55 Per Cent.

RAYON YARNS ADVANCED

(Associated Press.)

The coalition of Democrats and Western Republicans re-formed its lines in the Senate yesterday, the first anniversary of the initiation of the tariff controversery, and defeated an attempt to increase from 55 to 60 per cent the duty on woven silk fabrics. This left the rates as in the existing law and in the House bill.

At the suggestion of Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, the Senate rejected the only other remaining committee amendment to the silk schedule, which would have classified silk hose made in part of rayon under higher rates in the rayon schedule. With that, it moved on to the latter duty section and adopted slight increases in rates on rayon filaments and yarns.

Senator Smoot said he hoped to dispose of the rayon schedule today and then call up the disputed sugar levies, which the pending bill increases, but not to the extent of the House measure.

Blaine Demands Roll Call.

The vote against increasing the duty on woven silk fabrics, or broad silks that enter into the manufacture of all classes of silk goods, including women's dresses, was 40 to 32. The roll call was demanded by Senator Blaine, a Wisconsin Republican Independent, an opponent of the proposed raise, after a viva voce vote had approved the increase.

Only one Democrat—Mr. Broussard, of Louisiana—supported the higher duty, along with 31 Republicans. Thirteen Republicans, including Senator Jones, of Washington, the assistant Republican leader, joined 27 Democrats in opposition.

Senator Blaine made the principal assault on the duty. He said Horace B. Cheney, a silk manufacturer of South Manchester, Conn., had the "audacity" to ask the increase on behalf of the silk association of America when as a matter of fact Mr. Cheney "spoke for himself alone."

The Wisconsin senator read from Treasury income tax data, which he said showed silk manufacturers generally were prosperous and that Mr. Cheney's company was earning a return of 6¾ per cent.

Smoot Favored Increase.

Senator Smoot contended the increase would have afforded protection particularly to manufacturers of mixed cloths containing silk known in the trade as Gloria fabric.

In the Rayon schedule the Senate adopted the first amendment proposed by the finance committee, providing for a rate of 45 per cent on filaments, single or grouped, and single yarns weighing 150 deniers or more per length of 450 meters, and a duty of 50 per cent if weighing less than 150 deniers.

Under the change, an additional levy of 5 per cent would be provided for plied rayon yarns. No yarn would be dutiable at less than 45 cents a pound, and yarns having more than 20 "turns twist" per inch would be subject to an additional cumulative duty of 50 cents a pound.

CAR FUEL COST CUT SEEN IN NEW ENGINE

Gallon for Nickel Promised for Six-Cylinder Auto by Indiana Man.

NEW YORK VIEWS MODEL

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Plans for a six-cylinder automobile burning cheap oil were revealed today by C. L. Cummins, Columbus, Ind., following a 792-mile trip in a Diesel powered car at a fuel cost of $1.38.

The engine will be constructed for use in the Indianapolis Memorial Day race for a demonstration of the reliability and economy of oil-burning cars.

"We do not expect to win the race," Cummins said, "but by carrying a fuel supply that will last for the entire grind we hope to eliminate pit stops and to maintain a speed of 80 to 85 miles an hour."

Trial Trip Is Made.

Decision to build the engine came after the successful trip from Indianapolis to the national automobile show here, a trip viewed by the inventor as "a laboratory experiment to see if the engine could stand a cross-country trip."

The engine mounted in the automobile is a standard marine type Diesel, a four-cylinder model with no refinements for passenger car uses, but perfection of a throttling device, which allowed the driver to control the engine like an ordinary gasoline motor.

Cummins' engine, the result of twelve years of work in the field, differs from ordinary Diesel engines in that the fuel is gasified before being injected into the cylinders.

Oil from which gasoline has been extracted by distillation is used. The injector of the Cummins is a miniature still which "cracks" the oil under pressure and extracts what gasoline remains.

Each charge to the cylinders is one-third the size of a grain of rice. Injected into the cylinders, the gasoline is ignited and furnishes enough heat to burn up the remaining oil that does not "crack."

There are no spark plugs in the motor. The ignition is taken care of by red-hot air. The cylinders draw in pure air and subject it to 500 pounds pressure which creates a temperature of 1,000 degrees. The fuel is then injected.

In one-three-hundredths of a second the tiny bit of fuel is measured out, delivered to the "still," boiled, gasified and burned. The fuel costs as low as 5 cents a gallon.

Other Developments Loom.

"The trip laid the foundation," Cummins said, "for developments in any direction we desire. Engines may be built for tracks and tractors, passenger automobiles, or dirigibles. Automobile engines would meet any traffic condition as well as being more economical.

"There is no warming up. After the engine has made one turn, the full load can be thrown upon it. The air for ignition becomes red-hot under the pressure whether it is midsummer or 40 degrees below zero."

Automotive experts viewed the experiment as additional proof of America's leadership in the development of the Diesel engine.

INDICTMENT OF SEVEN IN SMITH CASE ASKED

with the sales of bonds in the same company.

The others accused are: Congressman Frederick N. Zihlman (Republican), Maryland; Maj. Henry C. Maddux, chain hotel proprietor of Washington; G. Byron Pitts, chairman of the Smith company board; J. H. Edwards, jr., secretary of the company; Samuel J. Henry, a director, and C. Elbert Annadale.

According to Mr. Dodds, the Smith firm has sold about $30,000,000 worth of bonds, some worthless, some of dubious value and others of "some" value. Following the indictment returned against the directors of the company in Washington last December, the group moved their offices to the branch on Madison avenue here, Mr. Dodds said, and went on with their business. The records of the brokerage firm in Washington were never turned over to the authorities, he declared.

In an effort to get those records, Mr. Dodds had subpenas served on three members of the company for appearance before the grand jury today, but they failed to appear.

The banking house made a business of financing hotels and apartment houses. The charges have arisen from allegations that through excessive appraisals of property, bonds were sold at exorbitant prices.

Crissinger, who resigned the governorship of the Federal Reserve to take a high position with the F. H. Smith Co., came from Marion, Ohio, the home of President Harding. Six days after the President was sworn in, March, 1921, Crissinger was made Comptroller of the Currency.

Zihlman, chairman of the House committee, resigned his directorship with the company shortly after the first investigation of the Smith firm was made.

Mr. Dodds would not say tonight whether he would swear out warrants for the arrest of those subpenaed who failed to appear today. He declared, however, that the grand jury investigation would continue tomorrow.

of a citizen's rights in court, said "nor can he be compelled to give evidence against himself."

The decision was given in the case of Harry B. Dewar, of Northfield, who had been adjudged in contempt of court for refusal to tell from whom and where he got the liquor which was responsible for his conviction of intoxication. It also applied to the case of Fred Church, also of Northfield. Habeas corpus proceedings were brought in behalf of both of these men.

Immediately upon the conviction of the intoxication last July 4, the two men were placed on the witness stand under oath before Justice of the Peace W. C. Middlebrook and asked "Where did you get the liquor that caused your intoxication?" They refused on the ground that their giving evidence might result in their incriminating themselves. They were committed to the county jail for contempt.

REPUBLICAN SPLIT WIDENS

committee today. It is doubtful, however, if any action is taken for several days.

In the meantime, the party bitterness that developed over the tariff, but which showed some signs of lessening in intensity after the adjournment of the extra session, has again become pronounced.

The move in the committee on committees to displace La Follette with Senator Thomas brought into the open the juggling that has been going on for several weeks.

The first vacancy on the finance committee was created by the appointment of Senator Edge as Ambassador to France. The Progressives immediately advanced Senator La Follette and for a while it looked as though the Old Guard could not escape accepting him. Finally, however, Senator Goff, of West Virginia, was prevailed upon to take the place. He outranks Senator La Follette in seniority.

About the time that Senator Goff began to get nervous about leaving his place on the interstate commerce committee, however, President Hoover created another vacancy on the finance committee by naming Senator Sackett as Ambassador to Germany. It was then that the fixers on Capitol Hill threw up their hands.

Senator Sackett's nomination has been held at the White House for several days until matters are more thoroughly worked out. But Senator McNary, chairman of the committee on committees, engaged at the time in reorganizing the committees and realizing that the Sackett vacancy would have to be filled sooner or later, declared his place a blank on the list submitted to the full committee yesterday.

Substitute Motion Loses.

At the committee meeting Senator Nye, of North Dakota, moved the appointment of Senators La Follette and Goff to the two finance commmittee vacancies. Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, moved a substitute proposing the names of Senators Thomas and Goff. It was lost by a tie vote, 4 to 4. Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee and also a member of the committee on committees, failing to vote. With Senator Reed were Senators Moses, Bingham and Deneen, while Senators McNary, Nye, Capper and Oddie voted against the substitute.

Senator Thomas had not applied for a place on the committee. He is one of the first-term members. Subsequently, he said he would not accept the place under the circumstances.

Meantime, there were reports that Senator Smoot had threatened to resign his chairmanship of the finance committee if any of the Progressive group were named to his committee. He later told newspapermen that he had not gone this far, but that he would feel as though he "ought to."

The finance committee, he said, "is charged with raising the Government's expenses, and it must be in sympathy with the administration."

Senator Goff is said to be decidedly reluctant to go on the finance committee because the interstate commerce committee is slated to deal with vital questions involving his State—railroad consolidation for one. But there was talk of letting him stay on the interstate commerce committee. Senator Pess, of Ohio, gave indications of raising a squawk against this; that is, if Senator Goff remained on foreign affairs, too, which it is understood he intends to do.

Regardless of the disposition of this vacancy, however, there would still be the fight around La Follette.

Metcalfe Files Application.

And bearing directly on it was the last minute application of Senator Metcalfe, of Rhode Island, for a place on the finance committee. If the rule of seniority were strictly applied it would mean that Senators Goff and Metcalfe would get the two places.

The first thought about Senator Metcalfe's application was quite naturally that some of the Old Guard members had persuaded him to make the application. In point of seniority he outranks both La Follette and Goff.

But it later developed that Senator Metcalfe was entitled to a place on the committee when Senator Bingham was named, but he withheld his claim as a courtesy to the latter. With Senator Bingham there are already three New Englanders on the committee and for this reason Senator Metcalfe's name was not even proposed at the meeting of the Committee on Committees, not even by Bingham.

That Solution Avoided.

There seems to be no disposition at all among the Old Guard to try to take Metcalfe as a solution to their dilemma. On the other hand, should he press his seniority claim there might arise the question of removing Senator Bingham.

The Progressives, however, say they are not concerned how the regulars work the problem out. With them it is a question of La Follette's going on the committee or the matter being fought out on the floor, where they would expect enough Democratic support to carry their point.

And it has developed to be a matter of principle with them, they insist. Senator La Follette personally would rather go on the interstate commerce committee, it is said, but the Progressives look upon the effort to keep him off the finance committee as punishment for his "brand" of Republicanism.

Fight Called Symbolical.

"We regard this fight as symbolical of the fight on the tariff," said Senator Borah, in whose offices the Progressives met in the afternoon and agreed to fight to the finish.

Any plan now worked out by the old guard by which senators with seniority over La Follette are given the two places will be looked upon as pure subterfuge, the Progressives said, as in the ordinary course of committee preferences, Senator La Follette would have received the place.

It may be that it will be easier to break the deadlock after today. Senator Reed, ringleader in the "no peace with the progressives" movement, leaves for London tomorrow to attend the naval parley.

General Conference Forecast.

If the committee on committees decides against Senator La Follette the next airing of the matter will be in a general Republican conference. There is some question of whether the progressives would have to take their fight any further. The Young Turks are looking with alarm upon the party dissension and might vote with the progressives toward ending it.

The temper of the two camps is reflected in the statement of Senator Moses. Referring to Senator Borah's threat to take the fight to the floor, he said the proper place for it was in a Republican conference "which Senator Borah honors by his absence. Nor have I seen Senator La Follette in a Republican conference."

2,000 Strikers Ask For Shorter Week

Garment Workers' Leader Directs Walkout in Cleveland.

Cleveland, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—More than 2,000 members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union went on strike here today, and their officials announced tonight that 90 percent of the city's cloak and suit production was at a standstill. Police arrested three men at a minor disturbance, but otherwise the strike generally was quiet.

Benjamin Schlesinger, international president of the union, took personal charge of the strike a few hours after it started. In nearly a dozen public halls various gatherings were held today and tonight. Schlesinger and other officials were the speakers.

The strikers seek a 40-hour week, instead of 44; elimination of alleged sweat shop conditions, guarantee of workers' wages in contracting shops and preference for skilled Cleveland cloak and dress makers in the distribution of work before it is sent outside the city.

Two groups of employers are affected. The "American plan" manufacturers say the strike is to enforce closed shop requirements. They refuse to recognize the union. The Garment Manufacturers Association holds that a 40-hour week is equivalent to a 10 per cent wage increase and that they can not meet this demand while competing with the "American plan" group if the latter works on a 44-hour basis.

AUDITORIUM CHANGE TO ARMORY SOUGHT

House Measure Would Make $1,000,000 Available to Purchase Structure.

BOARD OF THREE ASKED

Purchase by the city government of the Washington Auditorium for use as a National Guard Armory is authorized in a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Bowman (Republican), of West Virginia.

The bill creates a commission of three to handle the negotiations, and sets "$1,000,000 as the limit of cost."

The commission would be composed of Maj. Gen. Anton Stephan, commander of the District National Guard; Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, officer in charge of public buildings and grounds, and Engineer Commissioner William B. Ladue.

The National Guard here has been trying to get an armory for more than a quarter of a century. It now has its headquarters in a temporary building between the Capitol and Union Station, but it soon must get out to make way for the new park that is to be established in that area.

Robert N. Harper, who is president of the corporation that owns the Washington Auditorium, recently appointed a committee of leading citizens to study the feasibility of converting the auditorium into an armory.

Joshua Evans, jr., a member of that committee, issued a statement yesterday in which he declared that the auditorium could be had for a figure well within $1,000,000, the price limit set in the Boman bill.

This car completely raises Auburn above all competition. There is no comparison for it in the entire market. Designed, engineered and built to excel the HIGHEST PRICED rear drive cars. Compare it, or get an expert mechanic to go over it, then drive it. There is no greater luxury-on-wheels; no more reserve power, priceless in emergencies; no more fluent, smooth performance; no more comfort, distinction or safety REGARDLESS of price. When you verify these claims you will agree it offers the world's greatest automobile investment.

Record Breaking Public Demand for New Series
AUBURN
This unprecedented announcement of extraordinary high values at unheard of low prices is made possible only through the culmination of Auburn's predetermined five year policy. Each year Auburn has put profits back into the merchandise itself. Gradually at first, and then becoming more pronounced year after year as the public demand has swelled the volume. This plan operates in a beneficial circle; as sales grow greater expansion is made possible out of increased earnings; in turn this reduces production costs and enables us continually to give finer automobiles for less cost to consumers. Since it is the public's patronage that makes possible Auburn's continued growth and success, the public is entitled first to profit. Every buyer of an Auburn car we feel is a part owner in this business, therefore we declare a dividend for owners in the form of more and more intrinsic worth in the product itself at a scaled down cost. This plan of operation now reaches its peak because 1929 was our banner year. Auburn enters 1930 with a line of distinctive cars of definite, proven values at prices so extremely low that a record-breaking public approval and demand is inevitable. Our belief is there is nothing in the entire market to compare to what Auburn offers. And we submit the cars themselves as the PROOF.

Dismissal of Zone Suit Is Requested

Three Commissioners Ask Supreme Court to Oust Commercial Plea.

Commissioners Proctor L. Dougherty, William B. LaDue and Sidney F. Taliaferro, as three of the five members of the Zoning Commission of the District of Columbia, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to dismiss the suit brought by Henrietta B. Bugher and others in which they seek to force the commission to zone the north side of K street west of Sixteenth street northwest as first commercial.

Hearing on the motion to dismiss has been set for January 17 before Acting Chief Justice Wendell P. Stafford.

The motion to dismiss was filed by Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride and Assistant Corporation Counsel Richmond B. Keech. In it they point out to the court that police power is legislative and its policy is not to be determined by a court. Allegation also is made that the plaintiffs in the action are seeking to substitute the opinion of the justice of the court for that of the duly constituted zoning commission as to a discretionary matter conferred upon it by act of Congress.

BON VOYAGE!

The American delegation to the naval conference leaves here today on its delicate and important mission of promoting international good will and bringing about equitable reduction or limitation of naval armaments by the five leading sea powers. It will carry with it the good wishes of the American people and the hopes for genuine success.

Besides Secretary of State Stimson, who will head the delegation and be its sole spokesman, there will be Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy; Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, minority leader of the Senate; Senator David A. Reed and Dwight W. Morrow. The two other American delegates, Ambassador Dawes and Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson, will be in London to join their confreres after the good ship George Washington reaches port. The naval advisers, headed by Admirals Pratt and Jones, and the personnel accompanying the delegates complete the list of America's representatives.

President Hoover has chosen the delegates with care, and his statement yesterday, after the delegation had been given final instructions, reflects the interest and the hope which the administration entertains as to the outcome of the conference.

"The conclusions of the conference," President Hoover states, "must be such as to give a sense of security and satisfaction to each of the nations." The two words, security and satisfaction, embody all that patriotic Americans can hope for from this or any other international conference. It may further be said that security implies satisfaction, so that the slogan for the departing delegates is security, an old-fashioned and thoroughly wholesome word.

It is befitting that good wishes and sincere hopes be expressed in advance of the conference, for the trials and tribulations and discouragements which inevitably follow in the wake of difficult negotiations may soon thrust themselves into the picture for unwelcome recognition.

The objective, as President Hoover has outlined it, would be the essence of simplicity if unreservedly accepted by the five powers. It contemplates a reduction of the naval strength of each of the five nations, so that each nation would maintain its relative strength with respect to the others, without burdening its taxpayers to keep up the cost of competitive naval building. No nation's security would be jeopardized if each nation would agree to proportionate reduction.

But the American delegates are not leaving for London with the impression that a simple solution of the problem awaits them. Difficulties which have been multiplying day by day, and which may continue to multiply even while the American delegates are en route, will be found even before the first session of the conference begins. It will require patience and adroitness and an ability to cope with the best trained diplomats and naval experts of Europe and Japan to protect the interests which the American delegates represent.

Let the slogan of security be nailed to the masthead of the George Washington when she departs from New York harbor, and may that same slogan be found at the masthead of the ship which brings them triumphantly home. To the American delegation, bon voyage!

THE SHELBY-KELLY CASE.

With the acquittal and reinstatement of Inspector William S. Shelby and Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, it is to be hoped that detraction of the Police Department will cease. Since the July grand jury brought in its sensational charges the City of Washington has been subjected to severe criticism. A thorough inquiry has discredited that grand jury and exculpated the Police Department.

The verdict of the trial board comes as the second rebuke to the July grand jury. Its hasty judgment has been completely reversed, and the two officers stand commended for their efficient action. It is well that the majority public opinion in Washington was reserved until the facts of the case were considered from all angles.

Coupled with the acquittal of Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly is the report of the Federal grand jury that "Washington is not the vice-ridden, lawless community that it has been pictured." Conditions here are no worse, and are probably better, the grand jury concluded, than those existing in other sections of the United States.

Members of Congress, officers of the law and citizens who take pleasure in maligning the National Capital are severely rebuked by the facts. The Police Department has withstood a most excoriating test. It is entitled to the support of all citizens. The two officers who have been under fire are to be congratulated upon their complete vindication.

On October 2 last The Post discussed this case as follows:

> The transfer of Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly from the Detective Bureau to other duties in the Police Department, where they will have no connection with the McPherson case, was made necessary in view of the grand jury's recommendations. The developments in that case will probably determine future action in regard to these officers.
> The indictment of Robert A. McPherson for the murder of his wife, after the Detective Bureau and a coroner's jury had reached the conclusion that she had committed suicide, naturally brings out severe public criticism of all officials who were connected with the case. This criticism includes the United States Attorney's office.
> The indictment of a man is only too often regarded as proof of guilt. It is nothing of the sort. Grand juries hear practically only one side of a case and sometimes are unduly impressed by hearsay and other "evidence" that is excluded from a trial. McPherson is legally entitled to the presumption of innocence, and his case should not be prejudged. His acquittal, after a fair and thorough trial, is just as fairly to be assumed as his conviction.
> The long experience of Inspector Shelby and Lieut. Kelly ought to be taken into consideration, as well as their possible mistakes in judgment. They had no possible incentive to make a murder appear to be a case of suicide. Events may prove that they weighed all the circumstances of the McPherson case more accurately than the grand jury has done. At any rate, no fair-minded citizen will jump to conclusions in regard to this remarkable case.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT.

The American people feel a vital concern in the illness of Chief Justice Taft. It appears that he has been overtaxing his strength to keep abreast of the work before the Supreme Court. His industry is both admired and appreciated by the people, but it is to be hoped that he will not allow his arduous duties to undermine his health.

Chief Justice Taft has made a marvelous record in his present high position. Having served the Nation as President, he was not content to retire to private life, nor even to preside over the Supreme Court in an ordinary way. He has devoted his strength and ability to the task of bringing the Supreme Court docket up to date, and has succeeded. The devotion of Mr. Taft and his associates has set an example, which, if emulated throughout the country, would eliminate many of the complaints against the judicial system.

This achievement has not been made, however, without personal sacrifice. Although in a weakened condition from an illness last summer, Chief Justice Taft refused to take a rest, and had attended all sessions of the court until the December recess. He is now compelled to undergo treatment and a period of recuperation. The entire country joins in wishing his speedy restoration, and in the hope that he will realize that they value his health even more than the great benefits they have derived from his extraordinary exertions.

SENATOR GRUNDY'S EXAMPLE.

Senator Grundy has given the Senate a lesson in political ethics. There is little chance that senators in general will emulate his example, but it is doubtful if any member of that body will be able to arise and plead for duties that would put money in his own pocket without running the risk of being reminded of Senator Grundy's action.

The incident took place during the roll call on the question of raising the duty on wool yarn, of which Senator Grundy is a manufacturer. When called on for a vote, the new senator replied: "I am interested in the industry which is sheltered under this paragraph. Therefore I would like to withhold my vote on this amendment." Since the higher rate was adopted by a margin of six votes, the opponents of Mr. Grundy will no doubt brand his action as a political gesture. But if gestures of this kind were more frequent in the Senate, that body would find itself gaining in self-respect and public esteem.

The novelty of Mr. Grundy's act calls attention to the motives which actuate most members of Congress in voting on a tariff bill. Each member takes a stand which will bring the greatest degree of protection to goods produced by his own constituents. The clashing of many selfish interests strikes a balance, as each must make concessions to obtain his own demands. The national welfare is seldom considered. Sectionalism becomes the rule, and if a measure reasonably satisfactory from a national viewpoint is obtained in the end it is a result of accident rather than constructive statesmanship.

The onslaught of the coalition against industrial rates provides an example of how sectional interests may endanger the prosperity of the whole country. How many dirt farmers in the agricultural bloc would be willing to withhold their votes when items affecting their own financial interests are at stake? Senator Grundy has made a bid for elevation of the tariff question to a higher plane. What will the Senate do about it? It would be encouraging to think that this lesson in ethics would make an impression upon Congress.

A ROYAL WEDDING.

A royal wedding is always a cause for widespread felicitation and rejoicing. Today, when Marie Jose, Princess of Belgium, becomes the bride of Crown Prince Humbert, of Italy, all Europe and America will join in wishing them joy and long life.

The ceremony will take place in the historic Pauline Chapel of the Quirinal Palace in Rome, with Cardinal Maffi, Archbishop of Pisa, and warm friend of the Italian royal family, officiating. Besides the royalty of Belgium and Italy, King Boris of Bulgaria and official representatives from many other governments will be present. It will be a most impressive spectacle, such as should commemorate a marriage that is to perpetuate the Italian dynasty.

Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose are both in the prime of youth. The charm of love, such as that which animates every couple the world over, is added to the dignity of kingly estate. They are richly deserving of the good wishes that the world showers upon them.

DR. ENRIQUE OLAYA.

Dr. Enrique Olaya, Minister of Colombia, is about to return to his country to begin his campaign for the presidency. He was not a candidate for that office, but the political and economic situation at home convinced many leading Colombians that Dr. Olaya should become a candidate. The strength of the appeal made to him is flattering evidence of the desire of Colombians to install an enlightened and progressive administration.

The election will be held on February 9, and Colombia is a country of enormous extent. Dr. Olaya is therefore compelled to adopt novel methods of campaigning. He will arrive at Panama on January 16, and will fly thence to northern Colombia and carry on his campaign by means of an airplane. Aviation is well advanced in his country, but this is the first instance in which a presidential candidate has employed it systematically in reaching widely separated communities. Dr. Olaya will also utilize the radio in setting forth his views to his countrymen.

The fine character and great ability of Dr. Olaya have made him conspicuous in the Diplomatic Corps in Washington. He enjoys the respect and esteem of all his colleagues and of all Americans with whom he has come in contact. If the people of Colombia should elect him president the result will be an enhancement of the cordial relations that exist between Colombia and the United States.

One idea for which the Senate is indebted to the automobile industry is four-wheel brakes.

The country is fundamentally sound. If you don't believe it, tune in on the prohibition racket.

POLITICS IN LONDON

Washington Correspondence of the London Times.

The delegation * * * will go to London, it would appear, as fully prepared as is humanly possible to understand the political, equally with the technical, aspects of the questions involved. There need be no doubt that this is the desire of President Hoover. The composition of the delegation is itself significant. It will have a weight and authority in the political field comparable with that of the delegation which conducted the negotiations for the United States at Washington in 1921-22, and which carried that conference to a successful issue. In contradistinction to certain American admirals, the administration persists in the belief that Washington was a success and Geneva a failure, and this because political considerations were given their necessary place in 1921 and were dropped from sight in 1927.

There is a sense, therefore, in which every development in the international field has been designedly anticipatory of the London conference. The lifting into place of the general pact for the renunciation of war as the pillar of American foreign policy; the initiative taken by the United States in its name last July and more recently when the Russo-Chinese dispute was in question; the conversations between the President and the prime minister, and their mutual agreement that the problem of the "freedom of the seas" must now be viewed from a new angle and in a new atmosphere; Mr. Hoover's suggestion as to the free passage of food ships in time of war; the signature of the protocols at Geneva as the first step toward the adherence of the United States to the permanent court of international justice—these will be misunderstood if they are not seen steadily and whole as a contribution to the political side of the discussion and negotiation of arms limitation or reduction. This administration knows that the ink in which any technical agreement is written will fade unless it be politically mixed.

Some discussion has been caused here by a dispatch reporting a possible proposal from the British government for the abolition of battleships. Without prejudice to the President's ideas on the question, which are still unknown, it can be said that American naval officers will vigorously oppose the idea. Admirals Pratt and Jones still look upon battleships as the backbone of a fleet, and their views are supported by Capt. van Keuren, chief naval constructor, who will be among the professional advisers in London, and the vast majority of their colleagues.

Cincinnati Enquirer: Complaining about your bad luck is simply broadcasting the information that you lack backbone.

Indianapolis News: The small farm is said to be doomed, but a good many of them can be sold for nine-hole golf courses.

Won't Be Long Now.

Dayton News: New York booze is reported to be more plentiful and less dangerous, which indicates it should not be long till prohibition is popular.

Simply Frightful.

Macon Telegraph: The insurance companies, we read, are classifying bootleggers as bad risks and are trying to get rid of them. If they call a bootlegger a bad risk, what do you suppose they call his customer? Terrible?

Wild Life Preserved.

Houston Post-Dispatch: Pittsburgh has three miles of river front and wooded hills which are held sacred to petters, and where they are protected by motorcycle cops and pulled out if their cars bog down. Pittsburgh authorities are evidently of the opinion that the wild life of the country should be preserved.

Unmusical Organs.

Liberty Center Press: We try to follow all the health hints and remedies for fallen arches and double chins that we come across and recently we read that the proper way to sleep if you wanted to lengthen your years by ten or fifteen was to sleep on your back, as the organs were then in a natural position. And we tried it. But we guess all our organs must be saxophones. We'd rather not live so long as go through what we did that night.

BEAUTY.

In search of beauty's pomp and show
All up and down the world we go.
But distant scenes we long to see,
To those who dwell there, seem to be
As deadly dull and cold as stone.
They yearn for sights we long have known.

The city dweller seeks the farm
And dreams about the country's charm.
The farmer in his moments free
The city buildings wants to see,
He'd trade the furrows at his feet
For any common city street.

Thus up and down the world we go
Each other's stock of joy to know.
We praise the beauty of the brook
On which they long have ceased to look,
And they in turn discover grace
In what to us is commonplace.

The stranger fondly turns his eye
To gaze at scenes we hurry by
And we, enraptured, stand before
The view he cares to see no more.
Thus most of us seem not to guess
How close we are to loveliness.

The Unguided Traveler Circles Back and Drops Exhausted Where He Began.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

PICTURE life as a journey, for a journey it is.

You can blaze a new trail, as the first man did, or you can follow the charts and the sign posts left by other travelers.

Traveling pleasantly and profitably is an art. It requires intelligence, a spirit of adventure, tact, self-reliance and some skill in observation.

The stupid travel blindly. They wander aimlessly from the beaten path, meeting unnecessary hardships and dangers, or they as aimlessly follow the crowd, observing little, understanding little, profiting nothing.

The intelligent make preparations. They study maps and charts prepared by earlier travelers. They select the route that promises most at least expense. They read the travel stories of others to learn how best to deal with the people along their route. They fortify themselves with knowledge that will enable them to appreciate and understand the things they will see.

To travel without chart or knowledge or purpose is to invite countless annoyances, to live in puzzled anxiety and to exhaust energy in fruitless wandering.

Yet that is the way many thousands of people, otherwise sane, travel the journey called life.

They have no plan or purpose. They are not trying to get anywhere. They follow the crowd without thought of the way they are going, or they wander alone, dismayed and troubled, refusing to think of the dangers that surround them or the goal they will reach at the end.

Bold spirits may quit the established highway and sacrifice the fellowship of cautious men to discover new lands, and that is the way new highways are begun.

But those who would travel safely and pleasantly must follow where great and wise men have led.

There is a right and profitable way of life—a chart prepared by philosophers. To follow it intelligently is to travel joyously—free of encumbering baggage—free of fears and doubts—free and content on the open highway, enjoying fellow travelers, unhurried, confident, without anxious thought of the journey's end.

That is not an exaggeration. It is the reasonable reward of those who sanely plan their way of life and as sanely follow the plan.

It is directed energy that makes a civilization. Undirected energy achieves nothing—except destruction.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

BACK TO OLD IRONSIDES.

The corset is coming back! Proving that women have no real sense and that fashion is a revolving platform.

* * * *

Hourglass figures may soon bloom again, and during 1930 there is a possibility that the well-shaped and well-dressed woman will not be satisfied unless she has the contour of a bass viol, Chinese urn, or baronial hack.

* * * *

This is great news to the corset makers, who have been starving for the last ten years. They have been through a tough decade with the boyish figure, the calory-counting craze and the fashionable edict that no girl was well built if lumps showed anywhere.

* * * *

Women have been regulating their figures on the theory that a straight line was the shortest distance between two joints.

* * * *

Young girls have been shaped like buggy whips. Their mothers, ever imitative, have been going into physical declines in a mad effort to wear children's and misses' clothing and cast a minimum shadow.

* * * *

It has been a boon to the Turkish bath, massage and vegeterian interests, but a prolonged headache to owners of corset shops.

* * * *

Ever since the war women have been dodging full, dinners, skipping breakfasts and regarding three leaves of lettuce as ample lunch. It has been the great American grapefruit era. The vegetable dinner had become a symbol of female life in America. The old-time suitor brought his lady friend a box of candy, but the more recent boy friend pleased her by coming across with a basket of fresh vegetables.

* * * *

No girl ordered food without a careful calory, count and it was a rare family where milk was used except by the baby or the kitten.

* * * *

Since 1918 the potato crop had been ample in America even when it was a total failure. Markets sold butter only to women who had become discouraged and had decided to let nature take its course, double chin or not.

* * * *

But fashions run in cycles. Now curves are again in style. Hips are considered proper and even necessary. The girls are even eating rich soups and meat once more and putting sugar in their coffee!

* * * *

The back of that bedroom chair is again holding a familiar contraption. It is not a girdle. It is not a corselet. It is a corset, a real old-fashioned corset with bones, laces and everything.

* * * *

WHAT? WHAT?

Primo Carnera, Italian aspirant for the heavyweight crown, upon landing in America, looked at the skyscrapers and said, "At last a city where I can stand up!" Well, this is at least a laudable ambition.

Carnera is 6 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 287 pounds and has such enormous feet that he can use a motorcycle with side car attached on each one as a roller skate. His chances for the heavyweight crown are somewhat enhanced by the fact he knows no Shakespeare.

Senator Jones says the wisdom of the dry act is something over which the Law Enforcement Commission will have no concern. That's a great break for any commission.

A golfer who couldn't play very well has found that a bullet in his spine was responsible. Maybe that's what's the matter with the writer's form.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Bill Dwyer Recalls That W. J. Bryan Kept Silence When Candidate Cox Espoused League of Nations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some little hubbub has been created between two women—Mrs. Constance Lodge Williams, daughter of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, and Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, sister of the late Theodore Roosevelt, as to whether Woodrow Wilson or Henry Cabot Lodge was responsible for the defeat of the Versailles treaty by the Senate.

All of which depends upon the point of view.

At a meeting in New York last Saturday Mrs. Robinson asserted that "President Wilson was responsible for the defeat of the treaty because he had issued orders to Democratic senators to vote against any resolution which contained the Lodge reservations."

Mrs. Williams says: "My father was perfectly delighted and not in the least disappointed when the Senate failed to ratify the treaty."

Both women are right. Naturally Lodge was delighted and quite naturally Wilson was to blame. One's mind does not have to go very far back—to 1919—when the Versailles treaty with the League of Nations covenant was before the Senate. It is well known that these two intellectual "highbrows"—Wilson and Lodge—cordially hated each other, and because of it the treaty, through Lodge's opposition, failed to receive the necessary two-thirds vote of the Senate. And it was all because, flushed with his triumphant trip to Europe, Wilson insisted that the Senate approve the treaty without the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t." The treaty could have been passed and would have been passed had Wilson accepted the Lodge reservation regarding Article X. But he was adamant and the treaty failed.

When the country learned that the covenant would give the United States only one vote out of the six in the League of Nations, which could in the future be dominated by Great Britain in world affairs, it caused resentment throughout the United States. Wilson insisted on the incorporation of the league plank in the Democratic National Convention at which Cox was nominated and the latter, despite the protests of the Bryan wing of the Democratic party, not only accepted the platform but made a special trip to Washington to consult with President Wilson regarding it. This had more to do with his overwhelming defeat in that campaign than any other factor.

The writer is betraying no secrets when he says that he advised Bryan, who was not in sympathy with the treaty, with the objectionable Article X, or with Cox's visit to Wilson and his adherence to the rejected treaty without reservations, that Cox had killed all his chances of election, and "to keep your mouth closed." Bryan's reply was: "Guess you are right, Bill, I'll keep my mouth closed." He did. Prohibition had something to do with it, too, and Cox was the worst defeated candidate who ever ran for the Presidency. W. J. DWYER.

Pension of $25,000 a Year Should Be Given to Every Retiring President.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Gentlemen who have occupied the high position of President of this Republic, no matter what party they belonged to, should be retired on a suitable pension, and should not be required to do any other work after leaving that office. Two good men are now our former Presidents, and $25,000 or more a year pension would be little enough for this rich country to furnish them. Such an exacting job as Chief Justice of our highest court has already incapacitated one of our former Presidents, and such tasks should be guarded against in the future, so that their declining years may be made as easy as possible. Congress could not enact a more deserving bill than one to furnish the necessary appropriation, which no doubt would be unanimously approved by every section of this great Nation. When The Washington Post suggests this measure through a letter to its editor, it further shows that its patriotism and approval is extended to our Presidents even after they leave the White House.

H. T. McCONVEY,
Washington, Jan. 7.

Should a Park Be Given Over to Communists and Other Malcontents?—Name the Park.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The picketing and frequent parades of communists and socialists before the White House moves me to suggest that we might profit by the example of England and set aside some one of the parks in the city where all the malcontents could gather, say on Sundays, and speak their minds to their hearts' content on any subject that was burdening their chests, as is permitted in Hyde Park in London.

However great may be my dislike of communists and certain classes of socialists, I do believe in freedom of speech within reasonable limitations, both in principle and as a sound political policy, for there is no danger in discussion, but in suppression.

If all the malcontents were permitted to meet, as suggested, much of the annoyance we have had from them would cease. They would afford much amusement to those who might care to listen to them, and there would be taken from them one of their causes of resentment and inclination to disorder. A. S. L.

Railing Needed in Front of Carnegie Library for Convenience of Crippled Persons.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am wondering why some provision is not made whereby crippled persons, like myself, could make use of the many advantages furnished the public by the Carnegie Library.

If a railing in the front of the building were erected, perhaps like those of the Patent Office, I am of the opinion that many persons, like myself, would avail themselves of the opportunity to visit the library, which is now denied them. D. H. I.

CHURCHES TO PRAY FOR NAVAL TREATY

January 19 Designated for This Purpose in Britain and America.

LEADERS ISSUE CALLS

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—For the success of London naval armament conference, the churches of the United States and Great Britain will observe on Sunday, January 19, a day of prayer. A call to prayer, requesting a general observance of the day, was issued today by officers of the Federal Council of Churches and the presiding officers of more than twenty denominations. In Great Britain the call will be issued by the Archbishop of Canterbury and leaders of the free churches.

Among the church officers who signed the call issued today are: Bishop Francis J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches, and Alanson B. Houghton, former Ambassador to Great Britain, who is chairman of the council's commission on international justice and good will; Alton L. Miller, of Boston, president of the Northern Baptist Convention; the Rev. Frank E. Coffin, of Columbus, Ohio, president of the General Convention of the Christian Church, and R. A. Long, of Kansas City, president of the International Convention of the Disciples of Christ.

London, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—A call to prayer for the success of the coming five-power naval conference, to be offered in the churches of England and Wales in common with those in America on January 19, was issued tonight by the Archbishop of Canterbury, the president of the National Council and the moderator of the Federal Council of Evangelical Free Churches.

"Failure to secure agreement would be a serious setback in the long and difficult road to international peace," the archbishop wrote in his letter to the churches. "Success would lift from the nations not only a heavy burden of armaments but haunting fears which these armaments express and would go far to complete the structure of security on which international peace must rest."

The archbishop concluded: "Let January 19 be a day of which the fellowship of Christian citizens may be united in prayer that, by God's blessing, the London conference may establish and strengthen the foundations of peace and good will among the nations of the world."

GEORGETOWN PLANS COSTLY DORMITORY

was contained in a cable from the general of the Jesuit Order, in Rome, the Very Rev. Wlodimirus Ledochowski, S. J., and forwarded from New York by the Very Rev. Edward C. Phillips, S. J., provincial of the New York-Maryland Province, in which Georgetown is located. Plans for the dormitory had been submitted to Rome for approval some time ago, and until sanction had been given the Georgetown authorities were unable to take any steps toward carrying them out.

While the further building program at the college, with the exception of the dormitory, is still in a state of formulation, President Nevils said last night that the general scheme as approved by the head of the Society of Jesus contemplates the expenditure of $2,500,000. In addition to the dormitory, it is proposed to build a recitation hall and two science halls.

Architects' plans for the dormitory will be completed about the end of this month and bids will be advertised for construction operations to begin on February 15.

The building project will be the second undertaken by Georgetown within the past year, the other having been the creation of a new campus on Reservoir road by the erection of a $1,000,000 plant for the medical-dental schools, which will be ready for occupancy on February 1. This was necessitated by the fact that these departments had long ago outgrown the old building on H street, there having been 1,700 applications for admission to the freshmen medical class, which is limited in size to 140 students.

Interest was aroused among faculty members at the dinner when he announced that the dormitory would be known as Copley Hall, after Rev. Thomas Copley, one of the earliest Jesuits of the Maryland Colony. The name was selected, Dr. Nevils said, to honor the first benefactor of Jesuit education in this country and the priest who had saved for the Jesuit order all its Maryland property at a time when it was threatened with loss.

Father Copley, a grandson of Sir Thomas Copley, was a member of an an influential English family and came to Maryland in 1637, three years after the landing of Lord Baltimore and his three Jesuit companions, Father White, Father Gravner and Brother Gervais. He had a claim to 10,000 acres of land in different sections of the colony and by sustaining that claim in the courts was able to preserve and turn it over to the Jesuits.

Copley Hall will be a five-story stone structure of Gothic architecture conforming to the Healy Building. It will be located on the west side of the athletic field, its rear windows overlooking the "college walks." Preliminary plans for the building, drawn by Emile G. Perrot, of Philadelphia, provide for 180 single bedrooms, of which 142 will have individual bath and showers.

The basement will provide space for two bowling alleys and a large recreation room. Over the recreation room on the first floor will be a smoking and lounge room. This will form an L shape wing 42 by 70 feet extending the full height of the building.

A feature of the first floor will be a chapel in rear of the center of the building over a crypt in the basement. It will have a seating capacity for 256 persons, its dimensions being 67 by 36 feet. The whole length of the dormitory will be 257 feet with a width of 83 feet.

The record was thirteen loops.

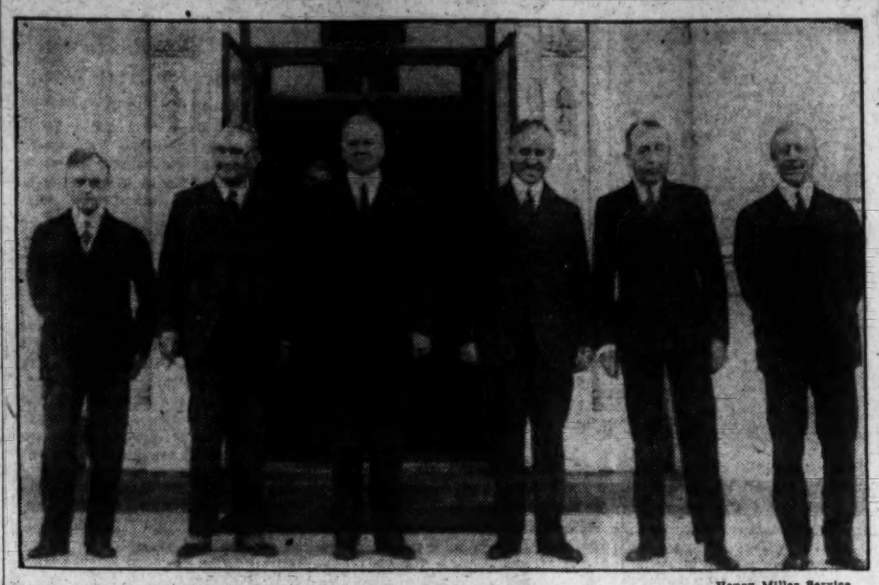
LONDON NAVAL DELEGATION READY TO TAKE SHIP



Henry Miller Service.

Right to left—Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams, Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania; Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, President Hoover, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, and Dwight W. Morrow, U. S. Ambassador to Mexico, photographed at the White House following a breakfast conference with the President. These American delegates to the naval parley in London are seen at their final conference before sailing.

Breakfast at White House Marks Formal Farewell to London Group.

STIMSON QUITS CAPITAL

tion. Mr. Hoover considers them as a strong, capable group who, by virtue of the studies they have already made of the intricate problems, are technologists. He thinks this country has never before had a delegation better equipped technically.

His purpose in the breakfast was not to talk details, which it was not necessary to go over at this time, but to give them encouragement and assurances of complete support in any conclusions which they may reach.

For some time the administration has been slowly shifting the emphasis from the complicated and more formidable issues on auxiliary craft to the battleship in which field real accomplishment is well assured. Thus the indicated success in this category will overshadow, it is hoped, possible failures in others.

Genuine Optimism Felt.

However, there is genuine optimism among the delegates over the prospects of a complete success. As they see it, everything depends on the spirit in which the nations approach the conference, and all the preliminary indications convince them that France, and also Italy, desire an agreement accomplishing a definite understanding or limit on all classes of ships. The American delegation will avoid European issues involving land and air forces, or the proposed security pact on the Mediterranean. But this Government's offices will be proffered, if wanted, in seeking a solution of the Franco-Italian differences over parity.

It is also the aim of the American delegates to confine the conference as closely as possible to the ship issues. Accordingly, while favorable to the French idea of a supplement for the Kellogg pact, to provide, as does the Pacific four-power pact, for consultation, the American side will not inject this unless it becomes necessary.

Demands Not Inflexible.

French demands for ten big cruisers and Japan's insistence upon thirteen, assuming the United States is given nineteen, do not seriously disturb the American experts, mainly because neither demand is taken at its face value. If France and Japan were to stand out rigidly for ten and thirteen 10,000-tonners, respectively, the whole cruiser end of the conference would collapse. For the British would not agree to their proposed limit of 339,000 tons of cruisers if France and Japan were left with such comparable strength in the big cruisers. And when the British figure goes up the American tonnage goes up with it.

Complex, intertwined and ominous as the cruiser issues are, the American delegates and the President can see ground for accord, or, as the President put it today, the difficulties "are great, but they are not insuperable."

Even the battleship issue has its pitfalls. For the United States is not willing to abolish the battleship altogether or to restrict radically its size, as the British wish to do. Great Britain would cut the tonnage from the present 35,000 to 25,000, and likewise reduce gun sizes. American naval experts adamantly refuse to go below 30,000, which may turn out to be the compromise figure. That is another point due to be fought out in the privacy of subcommittee meetings during the three, four or more months of negotiation.

Will Go Full Limit.

Mr. Hoover mentioned, in yesterday's statement, that quick results could not be expected. His purpose is to anticipate reports that the conference has broken down because solutions have not been found after protracted discussion. As his success in foreign policy rests almost wholly upon this conference, he is prepared to go as far as the Senate, or Navy, will let him to get results.

The American delegation goes to London—they sail Thursday noon on the George Washington—prepared to persist to the last ditch in seeking, first of all, a binding five-power treaty limiting all classes of ships.

LONDON IS UNEASY OVER NAVAL POLICY

and the thirteen that Japan asks if the United States builds nineteen.

While there will be no repudiation of the parity agreement which exists in principle, a situation is therefore conceivable in which Great Britain might feel compelled, for reasons of European strategy, to insist upon the right to build more big cruisers than envisaged in the Hoover-MacDonald conversations, and this, in turn, would force the United States into a building program greater than at present is anticipated.

Prospects that the conference may result in increased rather than decreased naval budgets for some of the powers concerned causes natural alarm both because of the blow to disarmament prospects which such results would imply and the unpleasant repercussions to be expected from disappointed taxpayers, at least in this country.

Whether these fears be justified or not, the London Times has taken alarm at the apparent policy of drift here as shown by a suggestion it has put forward for the abolition of the big battleship. It suggests that while Secretary of State Stimson is right in stating that the battleship is the "core of the fleet," there is no reason why the existing monsters of 35,000 tons should not be retired and a limit of about 10,000 tons placed upon future capital ships.

Times Cites Provisional Agreement.

Implied in the Times' argument is the fear that, as matters stand, no definite conference conclusions can be foreseen excepting the parity understanding with the United States already obtained, and it is hinted, as has been previously frequently stressed in dispatches from here, that this understanding is relative and not absolute and may not in its present form survive the conference. The Times says:

"Through MacDonald and Hoover the two countries have provisionally obtained a version of parity which can be practically applied. It is conceivable that the agreement will survive the conference—or, rather, it is at the worst inconceivable it should not. It is of permanent and inestimable importance because it ends all apprehensions of a competition for sea power between the world's two leading navies. But it does not pretend to exhaust the possibilities of the conference. It will not be upset; but it may be amended, if not for the better, then for the worse, by the conference."

Fear of Weak Handling Seen.

The Times significantly adds that if the British delegation has no more than this American understanding and an "academic ambition for the scrapping of all submarines" to offer, "then it will do little to shape the work of the conference and much to disappoint those whom it represents."

Coming from an orgn which traditionally upholds the foreign policy of whatever government is in office, this is strong language, and behind it probably lie both fear or weak handling of the situation by MacDonald and a reflection of the uneasiness in British naval circles.

The Times' proposal for smaller and cheaper battleships may be defended during the discussions that will result from it as a method of rescuing the conference from the farcical outcome of increased shipbuilding by saving vast sums on future battleships.

Two Injured When Reds And Berlin Police Clash

Berlin, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Police and communists repeatedly clashed here today during an extensive funeral procession for two noted communists. The police used their clubs while stones and coal were hurled from windows bordering the scene. Two policemen were injured and finally the police fired a number of shots in the air.

Fifty-two communists were taken to police headquarters where 43 of them, after their identity had been established, were released. The remaining ten were held under arrest.

POWERS DRAFT PACT FOR MEDITERRANEAN

Accord to Insure Peace Is Being Drawn to Be Given London Parley.

SPANISH ARE CONSULTED

Paris, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Representatives of the interested governments tonight were engaged in drafting a Medierranean pact of nonaggression and mutual guarantees that will be submitted to the London naval conference and is expected to swing the conference on the road to success.

Spain is vitally interested in the pact and will be constantly consulted about its provisions. France and Italy, of course, are the powers chiefly interested, with Great Britain scarcely less so because of her need for keeping open the imperial trade route to the East through the Suez Canal.

The importance that France and other powers ascribe to the Mediterranean pact may necessitate inviting Spain to the London conference, at least for the political aspects touching the pact.

Would Be Less Rigid Than Locarno.

Plans at present call for a pact that will be less rigid than the Locarno accord, which guarantees peace on the Rhine, and somewhat more precise and stronger than the four-power pact negotiated at the Washington naval conference to insure peace on the Pacific Ocean between the United Sates, Britain, Japan and France.

The Locarno accord provides that Great Britain and Italy shall become guarantors of peace on the Rhine and that in case of unprovoked aggression by either Germany or France they should come to the assistance of the nation attacked.

The Mediterranean Pact; as it now is conceived, apparently, in a manner that satisfies French desires, omits the naming of specific guarantors and makes the guarantees reciprocal for all signatories.

Parley in Case of Row.

The signers of the Pacific Pact which was created as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance, undertook to respect one another's rights on insular possessions and dominions in the Pacific. If difficulties arise, the pact provides for the calling of a conference.

It is understood in Paris that an effort will be made to make the Mediterranean Pact more definite about the measures to be adopted if peace seems menaced in the Mediterranean.

The misunderstanding that hitherto existed concerning the commitments of the powers under the proposed Mediterranean Treaty apparently has been largely cleared away.

Britain Sees No Guarantee.

Great Britain no longer has the impression that she is called upon to guarantee peace in the Mediterranean and finds the pact merely a mutual engagement for nonaggression.

The Associated Press correspondent has learned here that Italy has been favoring a Franco-Italian pact to regulate questions arising between France and Italy, and that the great question remaining is whether Italy will subscribe to a general pact.

Strong hopes apparently are entertained in a number of European chancelleries that the United States will throw its influence to the support of the pact in the interests of European peace.

General Motors Polish Agent in Plane Mishap

Lublin, Poland, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—John Pawlowski, general manager for the General Motors in Poland, was seriously injured today in an airplane accident at the airdrome here. Mr. Pawlowski had flown from Warsaw and was starting the return journey when his little plane overturned.

Mr. Pawlowski was taken to the Lublin Hospital with a broken hip and cuts and bruises. His mechanic, Laudanski, died at the hospital.

CHINESE NATIONALS CAPTURE 10,000 MEN

Gen. Tang Seng-Chi, Under Disguise, Flees Toward Japanese Border.

BRIBE CAMPAIGN TRIED

Shanghai, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Nationalist government forces have crushingly defeated Gen. Tang Seng-Chi's rebels in Honan Province, capturing 10,000 prisoners, government military headquarters announced today at Nanking. Gen. Tang Seng-Chi, disguised, was said to be seeking escape to Japan.

The government was reported a week ago trying to end Gen. Tang's rebellion by using "silver bullets." Gen. Tang, it was said, had been offered 50,000 Mexican dollars (about $17,500 gold) to rejoin the Nationalist forces. His officers and men were to have been paid in amounts from 20,000 to 2,000 Mexican dollars.

No mention was made of the "silver bullet" campaign by the government today.

Gen. Tang Seng-Chi, formerly a Nationalist government general, cooperated in his rebellion with Gen. Shi Yu-San, who led the Pukow division in mutiny and for a time menaced Nanking, the capital. This revolt also appears to have ended.

"Silver bullet," or bribery, long an important factor in Chinese military campaigns, were said to have caused the collapse last month of the Kuominchun (peoples army) rebellion in Honan and Hupeh provinces. The same method was reported to have aided the Nationalist troops in defeating the Kwangsi and Ironside division rebels when they marched close to Canton's gates in December.

Plane for World Jaunt Is Ordered

Girdling of Globe in Ten Days Goal of Wealthy Cleveland Man.

Cleveland, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Around the world in ten days—the hope of Harry A. Husted, wealthy Cleveland manufacturer—was brought a step nearer reality today when he signed a contract for delivery of a four-motored Fokker airplane in which he intends to make the trip.

Mr. Husted announced he will start the flight from San Francisco June 15, with Hongkong as his first stop. He plans to refuel in the air while passing over the Hawaiian Islands. James Doyle, veteran flier of the Western Air Express, probably will be Mr. Husted's pilot.

Mr. Husted expects to carry a crew of four, but has given up the idea of installing bunks and cooking equipment in the plane. Most of the seats of the 32-passenger ship will be torn out and the space used for gasoline and equipment.

A powerful radio and photography equipment, including motion picture cameras, will be carried. The plane is to have a maximum speed of 100 miles an hour and will weigh, according to estimates, about 31,000 pounds when fully loaded.

Bulgaria Honors Mussolini.

Rome, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini was invested with the insignia of the Bulgarian Order of Sts. Cyril and Methodius by the grand marshal of King Boris' court today. The Italian premier asked him to present devoted thanks to the Bulgar monarch.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

HERBERT HOOVER is attacked considerably more than half the time by the regulars as not being a good party man and not caring anything about the "organization."

Yet along he comes without any warning, so to speak, and clears up two of the worst situations in the entire country so far as the senatorial election this year is concerned. If any regular party selection for President ever did quite such a good job making the election of Republican senators easier because of removing complications in a tactful way, the old-timers round the Capitol are not able to point it out.

There is no recollection, for example, that Warren G. Harding, choice of the senatorial oligarchy for President, did anything preceding his bye-election, in 1922, comparable with what Mr. Hoover did for the Republicans in Kentucky in clearing the path to victory in the election of a Republican senator. There is no one who remembers even that William McKinley was able to do for his party in the 1898 election such a thing as Mr. Hoover has done for the Republicans in New Jersey. Quite the contrary.

* * * *

THEODORE ROOSEVELT'S forte was stirring up trouble, not smoothing it out, while William Howard Taft sustained a terrible defeat in his one bye-election. Which takes us back to the Cleveland-Harrison days, and memories even of the old-timers are a bit vague as to political maneuvers of that era.

So bitter and personal are the politics of Kentucky, it is interesting to note in this connection that no senator of either party has ever been reelected from that State since the first Cleveland administration. For more than a generation one term has been the limit for a Kentucky senator. They do say that Ollie James could have been reelected if he had lived, but he died in his first term and thus failed to break the rule.

So that Senator Sackett was fighting an uphill battle to begin with, but this was not the real problem. Mr. Sackett might have been strong enough to win renomination. No one will know that now. It is merely opinion.

* * * *

THE simple fact is that the organization was about evenly divided between Sackett and Representative John M. Robsion, who was determined to run for the Senate against him. Gov. Sampson was backing Robsion with all the strength of the State house, and the Louisville organization, flushed with its victory at the polls last November, was backing Senator Sackett. The fight looked even from the sidelines, but that it would have engendered untold bitterness before it was concluded there is no doubt whatever. In fact, it may be stated as a certainty that if the fight had proceeded without Federal intervention, it would have created so much feeling that the election of a Democratic senator in November would have been a foregone conclusion.

President Hoover appointed Senator Sackett, as Ambassador to Germany, former Gov. Ed Morrow, another prospective candidate, was induced to continue on the Mediation Board, and, whether the original idea was that of Mr. Hoover or Chairman Claudius Huston, of the Republican national committee, there is now an excellent chance of a Republican senator being elected, for the Democrats give every indication of staging a real primary battle for the senatorship themselves, with all the limelight available for both parties centered on their scrap.

* * * *

IN New Jersey the situation is still in the making, but the most important step has been taken. Before Washington intervened the State was set for a primary battle between Senator Walter E. Edge, wettest of the wets, and former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, whose political dryness resulted in his defeat seven years ago by Edward I. Edwards. Such a primary battle would have spelled certain defeat in November, many New Jersey experts agree. Appointment of Senator Edge to the Paris embassy, and the inducing of Dwight W. Morrow, with all the prestige of his accomplishments in Mexico, to run for senator, have removed the possibility of this wet and dry fight. There are wiseacres who are predicting that Mr. Frelinghuysen will be induced not to continue with the fight. Mr. Hoover feels extremely friendly toward Mr. Frelinghuysen, it is pointed out, the former senator having been an ardent Hoover man in 1928, and having contributed liberally to the election campaign fund, especially in the South. An acceptable appointment for him would surprise no one.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Word has been received from Washington that John W. Davis, attorney for the Radio Corporation of America, has filed a motion that the Federal Trade Commission dismiss the case of the commission against the Radio Corporation of America in the matter of certain restrictions in the sale of radio tubes.

The request is based on the fact that the corporation has been enjoined by the United States District Court of Delaware from putting the matter in complaint to practice.

In Our Exhibit of Fine Persian Handicraft Are Rich Brocades

Given as

Persian Brides' Dowries

Persian ladies of wealth and fashion wore brocade waists just such as this exhibit piece of the 18th century. Every point about it bespeaks the gifted hands that made it.

A triangle of rich brocade was made into a bag for school books of wealthy little Persian boys and girls. Today we make smart evening purses from them. Fine pieces are imported in the fashionable evening-color brocades.

"Romances of Romance" . . . we might call these exquisite weaves of gold and fine stuffs. Originally they were given to Persian grooms upon the birth of their first sons, then treasured as heirlooms to be passed down generation to generation. Today, with the invasion of a new dynasty in Persia, old Persian families retrieve lost fortunes by selling them to modern merchants. Today, with their incomparable distinction, we find them lending their artistry to our homes.

"Persian Blues" do much toward establishing the worth of this bit of brocade, hand-woven more than 200 years ago. Seldom do we see such attention to artistic detail; the piece is a feature of the exhibit. $65.

Apiarists Asked to Aid In National Bee Census

(Associated Press.)

An appeal to all owners of bees to assist the census-takers in taking a country-wide bee census is being made by J. I. Hambleton, in charge of the bee-culture division, of the Department of Agriculture.

City bees as well as country bees, and bees that live in the country but whose owners live in the city, are to be counted this 1930 decennial census. City-owned bees will be listed as "live stock not on farms and ranges," by consent of the Bureau of the Census.

This addition to the census schedule was hailed by Hambleton as "an important victory" for the bee-keeping industry in a field where everybody is trying to get questions asked. He declared that never before in history has apiculture had such an opportunity to take stock of itself, and that if reliable figures are not furnished in 1930, the industry will have to wait another ten years without knowing how many bees are busy, and how much honey is produced.

Former Servant Gets $10,000,000

Savin, Retired Stock Broker, Bequeaths Huge Sum to Fourth Wife.

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Frank W. Savin, retired member of the New York Stock Exchange, left virtually his entire fortune estimated at about $10,000,000, to his fourth wife and former chambermaid, according to the terms of his will filed here today.

The widow, a middle-aged Czechoslovakian, was left the entire estate except two bequests of $3,000 each to Mr. Savin's former employes in his New York office and a life annuity of $2,400 to a 10-year-old girl whom he adopted several years ago. Included in the estate is the mansion on the outskirts of Port Chester, where she served for seventeen years as a maidservant before becoming its mistress. Mr. Savin married her in 1927.

Explaining in his will that he had already provided for them by cash settlements, Mr. Savin left nothing to his son, Frank W. Savin, jr., and his daughter, Mrs. Josephine W. Sargent. He did not mention at all an adopted son, Charles Ely Monroe, middle-aged brother-in-law of his third wife.

X-Ray Photographs Taken, Billy Gibson Asserts; Gene Aids Walpole.

New York, Jan. 7 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—While Gene Tunney stood on the platform in Town Hall this afternoon and helped Hugh Walpole, English novelist, scribble on flyleafs presented for autographing in too great profusion by an enthusiastic audience of women, announcement went out to the press that the former heavyweight champion may have to undergo an operation for removal of a stone from one of his kidneys in a few weeks.

This announcement was made by Billy Gibson, Mr. Tunney's former manager. X-rays have been taken, he said, and if they show a stone has formed an operation will be performed. The ailment is not the result of body blows received by the retired pugilist during his ring career, according to Mr. Gibson.

Mr. and Mrs. Tunney, along with 1,500 women members of the League for Political Education, heard Mr. Walpole lecture on various aspects of the novel. After the lecture the press for autographs was so great that Mr. Tunney volunteered his services to help stem the crowd, and incidentally aided in the autographing, inscribing the books which he managed to divert: "Gene Tunney—for no reason whatever."

Crippen Detective Is Dead in England

First to Use Radio to Catch Fugitives at Sea; Was Quaint Figure.

London, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Frank Froest, former Scotland Yard detective, who was said to have made the first use of radio in a transatlantic case, died today at the age of 73 years after an operation. At one time he was superintendent of the criminal investigation department and was known as "the man with the iron hand."

Some of his most sensational work was in connection with the capture of Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, who was executed for the murder of his wife in 1910. Froest learned that the physician was on the Steamship Montrose bound for Canada with his secretary, Ethel Le Neve, who was dressed as a boy. Froest brought into use the newly developed radio and the pair were detained in Canada until an inspector from England arrived.

Froest resembled more the farmer than the detective of fiction or melodrama. In the years of his retirement he was an ardent follower of country pursuits.

EDWARDS TO HELP WET CAMPAIGNERS

guardsmen implicated in stealing and drinking liquor from a seized rum-running boat struck a snag today.

Charges Are Delayed.

Delay in preparing charges as prescribed by Government regulations prevented the court from hearing any of the 29 cases still before it, and it turned its attention to consideration of a guardsman who deserted, but not in connection with the Flor del Mar affair.

Hope was expressed, however, that the charges would be ready tomorrow.

Thirty-nine men were involved as a result of the hurried unloading of the Flor del Mar's cargo of whisky and ten already have pleaded guilty to intoxication. They were aboard their ships today awaiting a review of their sentences, not made public by officials in Washington.

Meanwhile patrol boats and destroyers were out in the coastal water of New England hunting for other liquor smuggling craft which might be attempting to make shore.

150 Vessels Off Coast, Claim.

At least 150 rum vessels comprise "rum row" off the New England coast, according to Capt. H. H. Wolf, commander of the destroyer force. This number, he said, includes only those regularly engaged in the illegal traffic and not those "who take a chance now and then."

The fleet, he said, consists of the mother ships, which transport the contraband from foreign ports, and the smaller boats, such as speed boats and fishing sloops, which take the liquor from the mother ships and make a dash for land under cover of darkness.

Although it had been announced that the CG-290, which had fired on the Black Duck December 29, killing three smugglers, would remain in port here until after all investigations were completed, it was revealed today that the boat, commanded by Boatswain A. C. Cornell, had been out on patrol duty and returned yesterday.

Persia Purchases Firearms.

Vienna, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The Persian government was reported today to have contracted with a Czechoslovakian arms factory to furnish several hundred machine guns and many thousands of rifles for the Persian army. The value of the contract was given as $3,000,000.

PROHIBITION DEBATE BREAKS LOOSE IN LOWER CHAMBER

Not Being Enforced, Says LaGuardia.

LaGuardia, in the first speech on prohibition since Congress returned from the Christmas holidays, said the "law is not being enforced for the simple reason that it can not be enforced."

Deploring what he called the condition of the Coast Guard, which ten years ago, he said, was one of the finest branches of the Government service, the New Yorker asserted that "what prohibition has done to the Coast Guard, it will do to the Department of Justice within a very short time after that department is cursed with the duty of prohibition enforcement."

On the same day that the Black Duck was captured, he charged, members of the Coast Guard "got crazy drunk at New London, Conn." Thirty-nine members of the Coast Guard, he added, had been found purloining part of every seizure of liquor made by them. Some of the liquor seized from the Black Duck, he continued, "was in turn sold by members of the Coast Guard who consumed some themselves."

Thefts of Liquor Denied.

Beedy said that the liquor drunk by some of the Coast Guardsmen was from the Flor del Mar, a British boat which was seized the same day as the Black Duck.

He said he understood that ordinary seamen who were nevertheless "red-blooded American boys, stood for hours on that cold December night unloading this liquor," and that some of the "gobs, to relieve themselves from the cold and suffering, opened a bottle and drank something out of it." He added that two of the boys took some of the liquor with them and got into trouble on shore.

Beedy denied reports that officers in the Coast Guard had stolen liquor and said they had been slandered. He said the Coast Guard had broken up a string of ships which had formed a rum ring and now the vessels were scattered along 10,000 miles of coast.

LaGuardia Cites Record of Seizure.

Attacking the Coast Gaurd for what he called "rushing into print" to justify the recent killing of the three men on the Black Duck, LaGuardia said the record "was bare of facts showing that the Black Duck had refused to heave to or was in actual flight."

Representative Beedy said it would be easier for the Coast Guard to say "we did not see those ships." He contended that attempts were being made to break down the morale of the Coast Guard and added that "no doubt the rumrunners think that before long these boys will be sick of being accused of being murderers and will suspend their vigilance."

"What will you do?" Beedy asked his colleagues. "Admiral Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard, says, 'I can send a telegram to those boys tomorrow telling them not to fire on a motor boat under any circumstances.' This is the crux of the enforcement problem. What would you have them do?"

Statement Wins Applause.

This statement was applauded by members on both the Democratic and Republican sides of the House.

"I believe the prohibition officials and the Coast Guard of this country will be permitted to make an honest and conscientious attempt to enforce prohibition," Beedy added.

Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, a wet, introduced a bill to amend the law under which the Coast Guard is authorized to fire on vessels which refuse to stop for inspection. The measure would provide that the Coast Guard fire on ships only in self-defense.

He also introduced a bill to make it a felony for any prohibition agent to search any private dwelling without a search warrant.

Gifford Would Like Statement.

After Mr. Beedy had completed his discussion before the House, Representative Gifford (Republican) Massachusetts, in whose district two of the young men killed on the Black Duck lived, said he would like a statement from the Coast Guard saying "that they at least deplore and deplore very much that such a massacre could have taken place under such conditions, and at the same time say if they want to, that they fully intend to carry out the provisions of the law."

Mr. Beedy said rumrunners should not be shot down recklessly, "but we have gither got to enforce this law or we might as well throw up our hands."

"The only way to do this," he said, "is to make those people understand that we mean business, and in a law passed since I have been a member of this House, a method was provided for enforcing the provisions of the prohibition law."

Quotes Law on Case.

The Maine representative then cited the law under which the Coast Guard is empowered to "use all necessary force to compel compliance" to laws pertaining to prevention of smuggling.

"If a rumboat defies the command of a Coast Guard officer to stop and permit a search and starts to escape," Mr. Beedy continued, "then it is time for the officer in charge of that boat to command that they fire on that boat and attempt to disable her, without, if possible, injuring anybody. But if she attempts to escape or maneuver herself into such a position—knowing this is a United States Government boat—that she is within range of their guns, then, the members of this House, sworn to uphold the Constitution and to defend it against its enemies, must make these boys know that if they do their duty a majority of the members of Congress and the people of the United States are behind them to a man."

Applause followed this declaration.

Surgeons insist on Vita-Minutes for their most important work

It's during the Vita-Minutes that body and mind are at their best—and Vita-Minutes are used to the help of both surgeon and patient

Did you ever wonder about that—about why all but emergency operations are performed during the early-morning hours?

The reason is because those hours are made of Vita-Minutes. Both surgeon and patient are more rested, more fit, after a night's sleep than after a day's routine. Both hands and nerves are steadier; brains work faster; decisions are made more quickly, acted upon more surely.

Well, these same things are true in everyday life. Everybody starts a day with more energy, a keener mind, a more rested body. It's the tritest truism to say that a night's rest builds up, and a day's work tears down; but truisms, however trite, deserve to be recognized.

The application, in this case, is of high and far-reaching importance to advertisers. Merchants and manufacturers make heavy investments in newspaper advertising—and they may well profit by what surgeons and hospitals know so well. A message read during the Vita-Minutes makes a deeper impression, a more influential suggestion, than one of equal appeal which is read at any other time of the day. There's the truism again: rested minds are better than tired ones.

The advertiser in the Washington market addresses Vita-Minutes minds by using The Post. He sinks his buying suggestions, if he is making wisest use of his space, into minds that are refreshed and eager and quick to make decisions. Every day's sales, in every line of merchandise, are directly influenced by the advertising which appears in that morning's Post.

Those are statements which may suggest that you ask The Post to prove them. The proof is here, and waiting. The Post knows this market; knows the number; location and buying power of homes into which it goes; knows the history of many and many an advertising campaign in this territory. And all those facts are very much at your disposal.

ZONING COMMISSION SETS HEARING DATES

Schedule of Three Sessions Annually to Remain in Force Here.

WILL BEGIN FEBRUARY 5

The Zoning Commission yesterday decided to adhere to its proposed schedule of three public hearings a year to consider zoning changes.

The plan was adopted by the commission as a move to stabilize zoning in the District. Under the practice which has been followed in the past the commission has held public hearings whenever a number of requests for zoning were filed.

This, Zoning Commission officials feel, has led to an instability of zoning of property and has tempted owners and purchasers to seek constantly to bring about changes in existing zoning of property.

Hearing Dates Are Set.

The first public hearing at which zoning changes will be considered, under the new program, will be Wednesday, February 5. Hearings are to be held on the first Wednesday in February, June and October of each year.

Announcing the decision of the commission Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner and executive officer of the commission, said that the commission would stand ready at all times to consider emergency developments which might arise between the stated public hearings, but that these interim hearings would be held solely for the purpose of considering emergency matters.

The Operative Builders Association opposed the three-hearings-a-year program of the commission when it was proposed.

Garage Plan Considered.

The commission decided to re-advertise and consider at its next public hearing the proposal providing for garages in apartment houses in residential districts. No repairs would be permitted in such garages under the provisions of the suggested amendment to existing regulations.

Alterations "made wholly within the outside walls" of nonconforming dwellings may be made, provided the premise is continued in use as a dwelling, under amendment which was approved by the commission yesterday.

The commission granted a change in the zoning of a parcel in the vicinity of Fort Dupont, where it is proposed to erect a wireless tower for the sending and receiving of news messages. The request was made by the Press Wireless, Inc. The commission changed the property from residential to first commercial A area, 40-foot height limit. It had been requested to zone it C area.

A PRINTED wool crepe for the school age of 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years that so perfectly expresses the new mode.

It just ripples into fashion with its full flaring circular skirt, flat hips, higher waistline, seaming at front and back of bodice, with becoming round bow-tied neckline, of plain blending shade crepe.

The long sleeves are gathered into narrow cuff bands, a most practical idea for classroom.

Style No. 8253 would make any little girl happy to be its proud wearer.

It is very effective in self-checked featherweight tweed in soft cocoa brown shade with neckline band, waistband and cuffs cut on the bias of the fabric.

Navy blue wool crepe with vivid red trim is smart, with the seaming at front and back of the bodice piped in the red crepe.

Bottle green wool jersey self-trimmed, tweed-like cotton print in yellow-beige and brown with plain brown, wool challis print in French blue and bois de rose tones with plain blue shade, ombre striped knitted wool jersey weave with the stripes running horizontally, geometric print in wool jersey in rust brown tones and nile green chambray, with white pique are sturdy combinations for classroom.

For dressy occasions it is decidedly unusual in orange-red crepe de chine, printed sheer velvet in Spanish red tones or nautical blue flat silk crepe.

Cuticura Ointment all Healing Salve
"I have known Cuticura Ointment for thirty years, having used it personally, and also having had many opportunities to observe its effects when used by persons under my professional treatment.
"The results of its application have always been satisfactory, not only in cases of slight abrasion of the skin, but also in many very obstinate cases of chronic ulcerations. It is clean and soothing in application and conducive to healing.
"I believe it to be free from injurious constituents, and from what I know of its effects I can recommend it as a safe and efficient remedy for any nonmalignant ulceration of the skin.
"Very truly yours,
"D. J. REINHART, M. D."

LAZY APPETITE

"Dear, are you not glad you followed my suggestion when I urged you to try S.S.S. for your lost appetite?"

HAVE you an indifference or loathing for food, or do you really enjoy mealtime?

Fads and fancies come and go. We must be reasonable. You can't afford to wreck your body by "killing" an appetite given you by Nature to nourish your body.

You must really enjoy your meals and assimilate them to restore the waste of the body. Don't expect a strong, sturdy body and a keen mind to carry on if you do not enjoy your food. It just can't be done. Friends, happiness and business success may depend on a keen appetite.

Many thousands have turned to S. S. S. when the appetite signaled danger. It is a time-tested remedy . . . purely vegetable. Easy to assimilate. Pleasant to take. It will do much to restore the natural appetite. It will not act instantly, but, be assured, when taken according to directions, it will usually bring back your desire to eat and enjoy your food. This you well know is the basic step for health. Simply reason it out for yourself and you will agree that it is the practical way.

And remember, S.S.S. will help you get your blood-cells back up to normal. Then that sluggish, let-down feeling and skin troubles will disappear. You should sleep soundly. Firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again. At all drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

AUDIENCE APPLAUDS WORK OF ORCHESTRA

Mengelberg's Success as Conductor Matched by Solojst's Playing.

CHOPIN CONCERTO HEARD

The grasp of Willem Mengelberg, conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, of the architecture of the symphony was admirably displayed at the concert of that organization in Constitution Hall yesterday afternoon before a representative audience which practically filled this new music auditorium of the Capital.

Mr. Mengelberg's success as conductor was matched by the brilliant work of Alexander Brailowsky, pianist, who was the soloist of the afternoon.

Mr. Brailowsky was first introduced to Washington music lovers several years ago at one of Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's Musical Mornings, and his prowess and virtuosity have improved considerably since that time, when he made such a favorable impression upon his audience.

Sense of Rhythm Shown.

Yesterday Mr. Brailowsky played the piano part in Chopin's Concerto No. 1 in E minor, for piano and orchestra. This masterpiece of the great master in this field served to present the pianist's outstanding sense of rhythm, his beautiful, crisp tone, the individual loveliness of the singing tone he brought out now and then in the solo passages and a warm beauty of tone coloring.

The orchestra, under Mengelberg's reading of the classic, more than sustained its share of the number.

That Mengelberg is a devoted follower of Chopin was shown by his vivid interpretation of this concerto, bringing forth the best efforts of the splendid musicians who respond to his baton.

Symphony in Same Key.

The symphony of the afternoon was Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 5, in E minor. The coincidence of its being in the same key as the concerto only emphasized the difference and yet likeness between them. Both were Slavic in undertone with the realization of life which composers of that racial strain put into their works.

The symphony received the same careful and effective treatment as the other parts of yesterday's program. Its many beauties were developed in a masterly manner by Mengelberg and his men, and the audience was most enthusiastic in its approval of the performance.

The opening number was Strauss's tone poem, "Don Juan," in which the fire, the sweeping power and rich expressiveness marshaled forth by the conductor made a delightful part of the program. The finale of the tone poem brought a chorus of "bravos" and resounding handclappings from the audience, and was a signal to the conductor that his reading of this familiar number on a Mengelberg still had charm, and interest for music lovers.

Apartment Developer Wins $1,618 Judgment

Edmund J. Flynn, widely known developer on many of Washington's cooperative apartment building projects, won a judgment of $1,618.51 against the Wardman Construction Co. in District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday. The judgment was rendered by a jury before Justice Jennings Bailey.

Mr. Flynn claimed the amount of the judgment as the balance due him for selling 33 apartments in the Clydesdale Apartment, 2801 Adams Mill road. The construction company, in denying the claim, set up a counterclaim that Mr. Flynn owed it money for the purchase of an apartment. This was denied by Mr. Flynn. Attorney Godfrey L. Munter represented Mr. Flynn.

Hearing Date Fixed In Gas Firm Case

Public Utilities Board and District Seek to End Outside Holding.

Justice Alfred A. Wheat, in District of Columbia Supreme Court, yesterday fixed January 22 as the date for the hearing on the motion which is to be filed to dismiss the suit instituted against the Seaboard Trust, of Boston, by the District of Columbia and the Public Utilities Commission. Announcement that the motion would be filed was made yesterday by Attorney Wilton J. Lambert, counsel for the Boston company, and immediately afterward he and Assistant Corporation Counsel Vernon H. West conferred with the justice on the question of an early hearing.

The District of Columbia and the Utilities Commission seek to have the court compel the Boston organization to dispose of all its holdings in the Washington Gaslight Company over and above the 20 per cent allowed under the terms of the La Follette antimerger act. The petitioners assert that the Boston company violated the antimerger act in acquiring the majority of the gas company's stock.

The defense, according to Attorney Lambert, will assert that the petitioners' bill does not make out a case against it. It also will be pointed out that the Boston organization is not a corporation but a common law trust. It also will be stressed that the provisions of the La Follette act are directed against foreign corporations holding control of local utilities.

Chest Needs Urged By Campaign Head

Poole Says Confidence Is Necessary if Drive Be Successful.

Needs of the Community Chest, its purposes and the organization of the campaign were outlined last night by John Poole, chairman of the campaign committee, at a meeting in the Jewish Community Center.

Mr. Poole, who is president of the Federal-American National Bank, told the representatives of the 75 units in the chest that the committee should approach the campaign with absolute confidence in its success.

About 500 workers were present. Other speakers were Miss Gertrude Bowling, chairman of the social work division, and Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest. Playlets were presented, showing the purpose of the chest and how the organizations affiliated with it do their work.

4 Funny Men Play Bridge Over Radio

Experts Convulse Audience on WRC With Humor as They Compete in Exhibition, Eighth in Milton C. Work's Series.

Four of the world's most famous funny men * * * who are likewise accorded no mean place in the roster of Bridge experts * * * convulsed the radio audience with their comments on the exhibition game which they played as the eighth in Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge Series, broadcast yesterday from Station WRC.

The participants in the game—all of them celebrated as cartoonists, humorous writers and talkers—included H. T. Webster, who needs no other introduction than mention of his "Bridge" cartoons and "Poker Portraits;" Jefferson Machamer, father of the cartoon series "Petty Patty," and otherwise known to fame as the hilarious "Judge Junior;" Tony Sarg, cartoonist extraordinary, and creator of the Tony Sarg marionettes which he himself has operated in most of the capitals of the world, and Fred G. Cooper, otherwise "F. G. C." of "Life," whose fun-making probably is done in more different ways than that of any other professional humorist.

The cards were: Mr. Webster, South, dealer: Spades, 9, 5, 2; Hearts, 7, 6; Diamonds, A, K, 7, 5, 4, 3; Clubs, Q, 10. Mr. Machamer, West: Spades, Q, 7, 4; Hearts, A, J, 10, 8, 5, 3; Diamonds, 9; Clubs, K, 6, 3. Mr. Sarg, North: Spades, 10, 6, 3; Hearts, 9, 2; Diamonds, J, 6, 2; Clubs, A, J, 9, 7, 4. Mr. Cooper, East: Spades, A, K, J, 8; Hearts, K, Q, 4; Diamonds, Q, 10, 8; Clubs, 8, 5, 2.

Mr. Webster, South, opened the bid with one Diamond; Mr. Machamer, West, said one Heart, and Mr. Sarg, North, passed. Mr. Sarg's holding was not strong enough to justify either a raise of his partner's Diamonds or a mention of his own Club suit. To have done either would have encouraged his partner unduly and might have produced an unfortunate result.

With a total of five worthless cards in the two major suits, and the adversaries bidding Hearts, there was little hope of game for North and South at either minor. Mr. Cooper, East, also passed. He was strong enough to mention Spades, but saw no advantage in doing so when he had such help for his partner's major. Also he feared a shift might be taken for a denial, and thus mislead his partner. Mr. Webster, South, passed, giving the contract to Mr. Machamer, West, at one Heart.

Mr. Sarg opened the play with a "strengthening" card—the Jack of his partner's Diamond suit. Mr. Cooper spread his hand for Dummy, and from it Mr. Machamer, Declarer, played the 8 of Diamonds, instead of the Queen which Mr. Webster expected to see fall. Mr. Machamer made this play because he had a singleton 9 of Diamonds in the closed hand, which he feared would disclose itself as a singleton the moment it was played. If he played Dummy's Queen, South would overtake, and when he saw Mr. Machamer's 9 fall, would not continue the Diamond suit, lest Mr. Machamer should ruff the second Diamond lead and at the same time establish Dummy's 10. The logical shift would be to the Club suit, which Declarer saw would give North and South three Club tricks if South led and forth held the Ace.

On the other hand, by playing a low Diamond from Dummy, Declarer hoped that Mr. Webster would allow North to hold the trick with the 9 Jack. A shift to the Club suit by North would not worry Declarer, because the Club lead in that case would be up to his King and he would then be sure of taking a Club trick.

Mr. Webster, when Declarer did not cover the honor led with Dummy's higher honor, put on his thinking cap. Was this unexpected Dummy play a slip or did it indicate deep and sinister motives on the Declarer's part? Mr. Webster could think of two causes that might have produced the unexpected play. Perhaps Declarer knew that North had no more Diamonds and was forcing a shift to some other suit, or possibly Declarer had a vulnerable Club suit that he did not wish South to lead through.

In either case it seemed wiser to Mr. Webster to overtake his partner's Jack of Diamonds with his own King, even in face of the Queen-10 in Dummy. Declarer played the 9.

Deciding that Declarer's 9 was a singleton, Mr. Webster shifted to the Queen of Clubs for his lead. Declarer did not think it probable that South was leading from the Ace-Queen, as with that much strength in addition to Diamonds headed by Ace-King, South would have been likely to rebid his Diamonds. Therefore Declarer placed the Ace of Clubs in the North hand. There was only one division of the adverse Clubs that seemed at all probable to the Declarer that would let him out of the hole in which the Club lead had placed him. There was a slim chance that South had Queen-Jack of Clubs, a doubleton; in that case a cover by Declarer would force South to block the suit on the second round. So West played his King; North the Ace, and Dummy the Deuce.

North won the next two tricks with the Jack and 9 of Clubs, South discarding the Deuce of Spades on the Club 9. To trick five, North led the 6 of Diamonds, in the hope that Declarer had one more of the suit. Dummy played the 10; South the Ace, and Declarer ruffed with the Ace of Hearts. Declarer then led the 5 of Hearts, to which North followed with the Deuce, Dummy with the Queen, and South with the 8. Declarer then placed his hand face up on the table to show that he could win the rest of the tricks, which the adversaries conceded. Declarer scored three-odd, with 24 for tricks, and 50 above the line for his five honors divided.

Mr. Work then had a word to say about the bidding of the hand. Mr. Webster's opening bid was sound, and would have been so had he held only five Diamonds to the Ace-King, instead of six. His bid told his partner that he had the requisite two quick tricks for an original bid, and had he not bid the Diamonds Mr. Sarg would not have known which suit to open against the adverse bid. Unless Mr. Sarg had started with a Diamond the game could not have been saved.

If Mr. Cooper, East, had taken out his partner's Heart with a No-Trump, and had the bid held (which is unlikely, considering West's six-card major and singleton Diamond), Mr. Cooper would have made game (six Hearts, four Spades, and one Diamond), if South had led his fourth-best Diamond. But had Mr. Webster's artistic temperament induced him to lead the Queen of Clubs, his side would have won the first seven tricks.

But Mr. Cooper, in not bidding the No Trump, made the bid that will be a winner in a majority of cases. With King and Queen and one other of partner's major suit, and a defenseless suit, many more games will be made at partner's suit than at No Trump, because of the defenseless suit.

At Contract, South would open the contracting with a Diamond, West would bid the Heart, and North would pass, just as in Auction; but East, with his strength, must bid. For the same reasons as given in Auction for preferring a Heart call, a Heart jump would seem to be the wisest bid. East should say three Hearts, which West would surely jump to four. The play would be the same as in Auction.

After his comments on the game, Mr. Work turned the microphone over to the four contestants, who proceeded to explain, each in his inimitable way, the reasons that actuated him to make the brilliant plays that have been described.

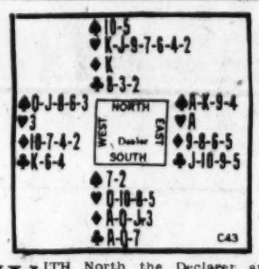
WORK'S BRIDGE



With North the Declarer and with Hearts the trump (Auction Bridge two Hearts, Contract Bridge four Hearts), East (the original leader) started by cashing his Ace and King of Spades. East then led his Jack of Clubs, South finessed the Queen and West won with the King, making the third trick for the adversaries. To trick 4, West returned a Club which South won with the Ace and led a trump. East won with the Ace and won a third round of Clubs; so the adversaries won two Spades, two Clubs and one Heart.

South criticized his partner, saying he had made the most stupid exhibition of Bridge on record. Was the critic right?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

While the voicing of such a criticism was in wretched taste, the unsoundness of Declarer's play is not debatable. After two Spade tricks had been lost, it was plain as a pikestaff that Declarer need lose only one more trick (the Heart Ace) if he got rid of North's three Clubs on South's Ace of Clubs and his Queen and Jack of Diamonds. This could have been accomplished very readily as follows:

South should have won the first Club trick with the Ace and then dropped closed hand's (North's) King with South's Ace of Diamonds; then South's Queen and Jack of Diamonds, on which North would discard two Clubs. Then a Heart lead would give East the one more trick which must fall to his trump Ace, and after that North had nothing but trumps and Declarer makes a total of ten tricks and game.

Jane Interprets the Mode

IT amuses us so—and yet we get mad, too, when some one slights our importance in the scheme of things—'member how mad I was when I heard that one "Dore" was traveling around telling every one she made my illustrations, which I make myself and how—I was madder than the well-known wet hen, right out loud, too?

All this is apropos of the argument about who started the first princess line among the couturiers. Jenny says she did, two years ago, when no one thought of it and no one dared do it. And that she has since consistently followed it in costume slips.

This year, of course, all lingerie follows the line of the gown. That is fortunate, because one suffers for lack of length in costume slips, for instance, or blouse-iness in a costume slip when a dress is tight.

Not with all dresses is it necessary to wear costume slips. But every dress you wear must, if it has a slip, have one that belongs to it in style and length.

This particularly applies to the slips that are worn with evening gowns. But, then, you know my ideas about this. The satin lining that is attached all around the neck decolletage and the armholes, and then allowed to either hang free or is sewed right to the seams of the gown.

Guimpe (gimp)—Lace vest, inside bodice.

Guingan (gang-gahnh)—Gingham.

Guirlande (geer-land)—Garland.

Habiller (abee-yay)—To dress.

Some prints remain to smartness, especially in evening wear—and lovely they are, as you can see by Christiane's white taffeta gown that I illustrated for you today, printed in its gray and yellow roses.

And there would be a tiny border of black tulle, and the most unusual decolletage.

Ten cents' worth of button molds, some old furniture paints, heavy silk cord—this week's illustrated leaflet, loads of fun, and in an hour's time you will have a necklace of novelty jewelry that looks just like Paris at its gayest.

There is nothing like them, really, for sports wear. And then what about the lovely one of black velvet that complements a black velvet evening gown in a most unusual way? Not to mention—well, you had better just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post.

• • • •

Then, too, you should look for the weekly Dare fashion letter. It's in the Sunday Washington Post each week.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 2 p. m. to 3:45 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon, and from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m.

There shall seemingly be no outstanding events or progress made on this date, but as a falling drop will at last cave a stone, so will your words and deeds bring you nearer to your cherished goal. A step in the right direction will be unconsciously taken.

Children born on this January 8 will be inclined to be gloomy and depressed. They will have considerable mental ability, and if they do not succeed it will be because they are out of tune with the world. They will be willful and restless.

You have several of the great human qualities—strength, courage, loyalty and wisdom. You have the strength of character and the courage to stick to your ideals and to stand by your convictions. You are sufficiently master of your own soul to withstand most habits of excess. You are loyal in thought, word and action to your friends and to your job. You are seldom a traitor to your better self.

Your wisdom is the wisdom of common sense. You are far-sighted, clear sighted and practical. You may not be learned, but experience finds in you an apt pupil, and you gain much from the free school of observation. Your horse sense is the ballast which keeps your feet on the ground, when others are losing their heads. You have a good imagination. "Imagination is the vision that sees the possibilities of the material we have." You are not afraid to face new ideas—you welcome them.

In many respects you are too wise for the times in which you live, and for this you will be crucified. Your spiritual development and understanding is beyond that of most of your associates. You are not understood or appreciated by the very material minded.

Successful people born January 8:

1—John Canfield Spencer—Statesman.

2—Lowell Mason—Musician.

5—Alma Tadema (Sir Lawrence)—Archeological painter.

6—William W. Gilchrist—Composer.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

JOHN MILTERN, playing the part of Professor Moriarty, the villain of villains, in the revival of "Sherlock Holmes," at the National, strolled into the office yesterday afternoon to renew an old friendship. In the olden days, John Miltern thrilled many a heart when he played his villainous roles down in the old Academy of Music, now the Strand, at Ninth and D streets. For old-times' sake, he walked down there yesterday morning, to look over the scenes of his earlier triumphs. "Everywhere I go," he said, "in these grand old United States, I always look for the old blood-and-thunder houses—where the heroes were real and the villains, well——!" The villains were what John Miltern, by his magic art, made them; for he was, even then, recognized as the greatest player of heavy roles in the American theater. The same holds true today.

• • • •

WE live and learn. 'Twas from John Miltern that Steve Cochran, manager of the National, ferreted out the fact that an old National Theater player, Romaine Callender, once played the part of Forman in "Sherlock Holmes." That was eighteen years ago, and William Gillette was not playing the lead role—strange as it may seem. Instead, Herbert Kelsey was cast as the great detective, and his wife, Effie Shannon, played the part of Miss Faulkner, the girl around whose strange life all the Happenings center. So here is news for the younger generation of theatergoers. All the old-timers have had their memories jogged by the appearance here of Mr. Gillette. By telephone, personal visitation, and the mail, all sorts of interesting data is at hand.

• • • •

AS soon as Mr. Gillette gets through with the stage of the National, it will be turned over to a younger star, George M. Cohan, one who has seen many years' service in the American theater. To herald this event—Mr. Cohan will bring his own play, "Gambling"—one Charles Washburn, of New York and way-stations, hopped into town yesterday and out again on the midnight. While here, Mr. Washburn upset the regular routine in five different newspaper offices, bought a bicycle for his grandmother, an inveterate bicycle rider, ordered a wrist watch at a fifteenth street jewelry store—they call him Tick-Tack Washburn, because he buys wrist watches for his girl—and then wrote a sheaf of passes for a lot of jockeys out of work. "Gambling," he said, "ought to be a lesson to these fellows. So I'm doing my bit to bring the message home."

STOCK PRICES DROP IN QUIET TURNOVER

RADIO - KEITH ADVANCES

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The stock market remained becalmed today, although call money sagged to 4 per cent for the first time in nearly two years. Share prices generally drifted lower, a few shares closing 2 to 10 points off. Total sales aggregated but 2,029,290 shares, the smallest full day's turnover since August of 1928, save for the session preceding Christmas, when sales fell below 2,000,000 shares.

Failure of the market to make any headway with call money going begging at 4 per cent was a striking commentary upon the change of speculative sentiment in the past few months. It was only a comparative short time ago that traders eagerly paid 10 per cent for funds to buy stocks. Money was freely offered in the outside market today at low as 3½ per cent. Time loans for the shorter dates were shaded ¼ of 1 per cent to 4¾ per cent. A reduction in the Bank of England's discount rate from 5 to 4½ per cent is rather widely expected this week, and there is renewed talk of a further reduction in the New York Reserve Bank rate in the near future.

Business and industrial news, however, was in general not of a character to enliven the bull crowd. Copper buying quieted down after the recent revival. Automotive news was disappointing.

Franklin Dividend Omitted.

Studebaker earned its dividend by a rather narrow margin in the last fiscal year, and Franklin omitted the common dividend due at this time. Early estimates of last week's crude oil production indicate a large upturn, more than canceling the previous week's curtailment, although opening of wells in Oklahoma prorating purposes was held partly responsible. Steel mill operations were reported at about 60 per cent of capacity, having quickened only to the rate of mid-December, and most steel trade reports indicated that further acceleration would be gradual.

A strong and active feature of the market session was Radio Keith, which was bid up more than 2 points. Keith Albee preferred jumped 11. Sponsors of the stocks feel that the organization is in a position to show substantial earnings during the coming year. Although the reports were denied in authoritative quarters, it was rumored that Radio Keith might acquire Loew's, as part of the reorganization of the Fox companies. Another strong spot was Wabash preferred B, which mounted 7½ points. Failure of the Class A stockholders to win their suit for back dividends clears the way for resumption of payments on the B stock. The American Woolen shares rose about 3 points. A pool is understood to have been formed in these shares, and merger rumors have been circulated.

Western Union Loses.

Communications mergers received no encouragement from Newcomb Carlton, president of Western Union, in his testimony in Washington. Radio Corporation and International Telephone sagged moderately. American Telephone lost 2 points and Western Union, a more volatile issue, sold off nearly 8 points. In other shares, lows of 2 to 5 points appeared in Air Reduction, American Water Works, American Tobacco, Auburn Auto, Bordens, Atchison, Chesapeake & Ohio, General Electric, Hudson, Johns-Manville, Nash, National Biscuit, Simmons, and Underwood Elliott. Union Tank Car dropped 10.

Commodity markets were inclined to sag. Wheat futures lost about 1½ cents on reports of large Russian offerings and in response to weakness at Liverpool. Corn sagged about ½ cent, and cotton closed practically unchanged.

Foreign exchange continued to decline, reflecting rumors of an early reduction of the Bank of England rate. Sterling sagged close to par. Cables were quoted at $4.87 3-16, off 3-16. The French franc slipped well below the outgoing gold point.

PHILADELPHIA MARKETS.

Philadelphia, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—BUTTER—Top grades, 38@41; 92 score, 37; 89 to 91 score, 32½@36; 86 to 88 score, 29½@31½.

EGGS—Extra first, 49; firsts, in new cases, 46; firsts, in old cases, 45½; seconds, 43@45.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Despite assertions that menace from Russian exports is a myth circulated to obtain North American wheat cheap, the bugbear led to fresh price breaks today. Unexpected setbacks in Liverpool wheat quotations preceded downturns here, and the effect of the drop in values abroad was sharpened by indications that export business in wheat from North America was virtually at a standstill.

Comment that the United States wheat visible supply is 100,000,000 bushels in excess of the average of the last five years acted also as a weight in market.

Chicago closing prices for wheat were nervous, 1¾ to 1⅞c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅝c to ½@⅝c down, oats unchanged to ⅛c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

Although something of a rally in Chicago wheat prices took place near the end of the day, sellers were yet in a majority at the finish. Lake buying, however, was reported as being largely on the basis that sellers had overreached themselves, and that recoveries were in order. Meanwhile the market here, overwhelmed by a rush of selling from future delivery holders and from speculators, dropped to the lowest level reached since before Christmas holidays, trade attention being focused more than ever on overseas advices of freer offerings of low-priced wheat from Russia, with Argentina represented as competing.

Accelerating the downward momentum of the wheat market here were predictions current that Europe would not in the near future take a great deal more wheat from the world's markets than at present. Furthermore, it was pointed out that what was referred to as the mountain of wheat in the United States visible supply is equal to 20 per cent of the average crop of wheat in this country. Sellers contended also that hopes of advancing prices would have to come chiefly from new crop developments which are two months away. On the other hand, July delivery of wheat showed a notable tendency to gain on other months, the prevailing cold wave having apparently caught much domestic winter wheat devoid of a snow blanket.

Corn and oats were easier mainly as a result of wheat weakness. Besides, colder weather was construed as favorable for promoting larger receipts of corn at terminal markets.

Provisions averaged lower most of the time today with grain and hogs, but responded well to scattered buying at the last.

LOW MONEY RATES AID BONDS' ADVANCE

Sales Are $1,000,000 Above Yesterday's; Rise Is Led by Rails.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE FIRM

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Lower interest rates bolstered sentiment in the bond market today, and the response of the domestic list was a general rally. Rails, and to a lesser extent utilities, met the best demand that had appeared in the young new year, with the result that advances of at least a point were well sprinkled over the more seasoned issues.

Total sales ran a million dollars above yesterday's. Most of the buying orders came in the afternoon after a dull morning, which had seen high-grade liens inclined to move upward. Quotations on time loans dropped to 4½ to 4¾ per cent for the shorter maturities against the previous rates of 4¾ to 5, and call money went to 4 per cent, the lowest in nearly two years.

The average for ten rails was carried to 105.4, against 105.1, yesterday's composite price, and 105 flat a year ago. The combined average for 30 rails, untilities and industrials moved to 98.8 from 98.7, or 2½ points above the 1929 low. The high for last year was 99.9.

All Carriers Advance.

The improvement in the carrier obligations covered the entire group. Gains of 1 to nearly 2 points developed in Canadian Pacific 4½s, Chesapeake & Ohio refunding 4½s, Burlington general 4s and Illinois Division 4s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, Erie convertible 4s, Great Northern 4½s, New Orleans Texas, Mexico 5s, Rio Grande Western collateral 4s and Nickel Plate first 4s. Atchison adjustment 4s and Wheeling & Lake Erie 4½s rose 2 points.

Power and light company bonds, as well as telephone issues, sold generally higher. Fractional gains were the rule, however, and advances of round half a point were recorded by Kansas City Gas & Electric 5s, Pacific Electric 5s, Southwestern Bell Telephone 5s, New York Telephone 6s, Montana Power 5s and Laclede Gas 5½s.

High grade industrials held firm, meeting a lighter inquiry than did other domestic groups. Chile Copper 5s and Illinois Steel 4½s advanced a point, while Republic Iron & Steel 5½s and Armour Real Estate 4½s sold fractionally higher. Pressed Steel Car 5s with a 2-point gain featured the lower-priced obligations. Pathe Exchange 7s soared 5¼.

U. S. Bonds Gain Slightly.

United States Governments moved inconspicuously, with the trend irregularly higher. Prominent foreign bonds were mostly firm, French 7½s and 7s were again active and the former made another new high, but the close found small net changes.

The activity of the older sections of the list and the dullness of the stock market left the convertibles neglected. Only the American Telephone 4½s displayed any life, and these debentures closed a point lower.

It is reported that the Westphalia Electric Power Corporation may seek a $10,000,000 loan in this market, provided interest in foreign bonds quickens sufficiently to make such a flotation advisable. A syndicate today sold a $4,000,000 issue of 6½ per cent province of Buenos Aires six months external notes.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—An early advance on trade buying and covering promoted by a bullish view of the Federal Farm Board statement regarding acreage was followed by reactions in the cotton market today under hedge selling and a renewal of liquidation. March contracts sold off from 17.12 to 17.01 and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady net 4 points higher to 2 points lower.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 7 points and the active months soon showed net gains of 8 to 11 points, with January selling up to 16.94, May to 17.36 and July to 17.33 on trade buying and covering which appeared to be combined with some commission house buying. A relatively steady Liverpool cables as well as the attitude of the Federal Farm Board toward acreage contributed to the advance, but the demand tapered off at the higher prices and the market became comparatively quiet.

Some hedge selling was reported in addition to realizing by early buyers on the reactions which followed, and the lowest prices of the day were reached in the late trading, when March contracts made a new top price for the season. January, after selling off to 16.82 during the middle of the day, closed at 16.86. May declined to 17.26 and July to 17.46, and closed at these figures.

The statement of the Federal Farm Board, warning growers against overplanting, and stating that what the board will do to help in marketing next year's cotton crop will depend upon what farmers do at planting time, came in for a great deal of comment during the day. There was evidently buying early on a belief that this statement would operate against any increase in acreage. The failure of demand to broaden more importantly on this view appeared a disappointment to early buyers however, and probably accounted for part of the later selling.

January notices representing about 6,000 bales were reported, and led to some further near month liquidation which was absorbed at a slight widening of the difference.

Liverpool reported that trade calling and covering had absorbed liquidation in that market.

Port receipts today, 36,459.
To 8 p.m. port stocks, 2,598,954. Exports, 41,664, making 4,457,119 so far this season.

INSURANCE IS SEEN AS SAFE SECURITY

DISTRICT BUSINESS DATA

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Belief was expressed yesterday by Harold D. Krafft, president of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters' Association, that the widespread appeals which have been made recently for a return to normalcy in investments will assist in furthering the efforts of National Thrift Week to take the "if out of thrift." This was the opinion he expressed in speaking of "Life Insurance Day," observance of which on Wednesday, January 22, is part of the thrift week movement.

"The decline which has taken place in the value of many estates consisting largely of common stocks will cause people to turn to life insurance as one of the best ways by which the 'if of thrift' may be removed," says Mr. Krafft, adding that many people have seen their estates virtually melt away, while the value of life insurance has remained stable and that people have suddenly been brought to earth, with the result that other means will be adopted to safeguard their family and their own economic welfare in old age.

Through life insurance, Mr. Krafft asserts, it is possible to create an estate for old age, accumulate funds as a basis for credit, for the care of dependents and to protect against the depredation and shrinkage of other savings of a life time. That the American public has come to realize the value of life insurance in force is indicated, he explains, by the fact that within the last seven years the insurance fund in force in this country has been increased by $50,000,000,000.

Policies' Marketability is Praised.

A study of many kinds of investments, according to Mr. Krafft, reveals that life insurance ranks highest as respects security and principal, stability of income, marketability, value of collateral, exemption from taxes and care and potential appreciation. At the same time, he emphasizes, life insurance as an investment is credited with having a fair income, which he says is always one of the distinguishing marks of a sound investment.

Figures on local retail trade for November as revealed in the monthly review of Chairman William W. Hoxton, of the Fifth Federal Reserve District, show that the city trade advanced 0.6 per cent in November compared with the month last year; that the increase in total sales since January 1 over sales during the first eleven months of 1928 was 3.7 per cent and that the percentage increase of November sales over average November sales during the three years 1923-25, inclusive, was 17.4.

Percentage increase in stock on hand over November 30, 1928, was 2.5; that of sales to stock carried during the month was 30.8; that of total sales since January 1 to average stock carried during each of the eleven elapsed months was 315.1; and that of collections in November to total accounts receivable on November 1, 31.6.

Heavy sales of Capital Traction stock and National Mortgage & Investment preferred stock gave decided stimulation to the stock division of the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday, sending the total turnover from 102 shares on Monday to 523. One hundred and forty-one shares of the Traction stock sold at 77, two point advance, and 290 shares of National Mortgage & Investment preferred at 4½, point and a fraction rise. Bond sales volume dropped from $1,800 to $600.

January will bring disbursement of more than $1,000,000,000 in dividend and interest payments by principal corporations of the United States, according to year-end plans, the January "Outline of Business" of the Lincoln National Bank sets forth, stating that payments may even aggregate $250,000,000 above that figure.

"During 1929, interest and dividend disbursements totaled $6,929,000,000, or more than in any previous year in the history of the Nation's business. Since January disbursements will be largely from profits of 1929, a measure of the industrial and commercial prosperity of the year 1929 is indicated by the total of payments for the 13 months which amounts to at least $7,929,000,000. The figure stands for wealth in a degree never before created in a similar fashion in any country of the world."

All directors of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. were reelected yesterday at the annual meeting. They are Harry E. Allen, Noble P. Barnes, Rolfe E. Bolling, Harry R. Carroll, Peter M. Dorsch, J. J. Drury, Peter A. Drury, Mark F. Finley, Ernest Gerstenberg, Frank E. Ghiselli, Frank P. Harman, jr., C. Francis Jenkins, William E. Leahy, J. Ernest Mitchell, Alvin L. V. P. I. TEAMS UNDER NEW COACHES

Warren, Pattie, Tomko Serving First Year at Poly.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Jan. 7.—New coaches are tuning up their squads for the winter grind in three sports at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Bob Warren, former star at the American School of Osteopathy and North Carolina State College, where he was named on the All-Southern team, is introducing the Meanwell system of basket ball at V. P. I. Walter Pattie, twice Southern intercollegiate light heavyweight champ and captain of the 1929 team, has succeeded Dick Esleeck, another former Gobbler star, as coach of the varsity boxers. Tommy Tomko, three sport luminary and middleweight wrestler on the Dixie title winning team here two years ago, this week laid aside his amateur laurels to become assistant wrestling coach to George Herring.

All three of these newcomers to the V. P. I. athletic staff are now being launched upon their first coaching venture. But their chances for success in the coaching profession are buoyed up by exceptional athletic ability and every indication of the personality and the will to make good. Southwest Virginia fans and those in many other sections of the South Atlantic States will watch with interest the efforts of this trio to uphold and promote the welfare of V. P. I. athletics.

Warren and Pattie Face Big Tasks.

As head coaches, the big tasks fall to Warren and Pattie. Warren is called upon to don the mantle of a modern Moses and lead the V. P. I out of the basket ball wilderness of the past six years. A half dozen court mentors have tutored the Gobbler basket teams in a like number of campaigns. Since the successful 1923 campaign under Monk Younger, now head coach at Davidson College, the Gobblers have failed to break even under Ben Cubbage, Ronald Day, Buford Blair, Henry Redd, George Moore and Roy Randall, each of whom remained but one year as varsity coach.

The brilliant performances of Buddy Dear occasionally swept the Polytech teams of a few years ago to the heights as infrequent reminders of the great combinations which earned more than one South Atlantic or Southern crown back in the 'teens and the early years of the recent decade. Now V. P. I. is starting anew and Bob Warren with his Meanwell system as he first learned it in his native Wisconsin, may be the man who will end the wanderings. He can not do much more than lay the foundations for the future this year, for he has but two veterans from the mediocre 1929 team and a crop of sophomores, who failed to win a game in freshman togs.

1929 Boxing Team Almost Wiped Out.

Pattie also has a tough task with his ringmen. His own loss and that of Captain-elect Bob Welker, Ed Trenis, Bek Kammerer and Shorty Wood almost wiped out the 1929 team. Dave Neff, ace of the freshmen a year ago, has developed heart trouble and can not box. Pattie's first year will be his hardest.

LOSSES HURT VIRGINIA'S CHANCES

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 7.—Virginia's basket ball squad faces the loss of two valuable men at the very start of the 1930 season. The Cavalier quint will open tomorrow night when Duke University comes for a game in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Jack Roberts, of Alexandria, Va., veteran guard, has decided that the press of work in the medical school is so great that he will not be a candidate for the team this season. Roberts won his "V" as regular guard last season, and he will be missed in many ways.

The other missing man is Herbert Bryant, who was a forward on the '29 first-year team that lost only one game, and that by a single point. Bryant hurt his leg during the Christmas recess and will not be able to play basket ball for several weeks. He played full back on the varsity eleven last fall.

Capt. Harrison to Start At Center.

Capt. Hartwell Harrison will more than likely start at center, with two other letter men in the opening line-up: Andy Merle, at forward, and Dave Stouder, at guard. Lem Mayo, who was high scorer on the '29 freshman five, probably will be in the other forward position, and either Bob Manley or Harry Steinberg paired with Stouder at guard.

The game with Duke tomorrow night will be followed by a contest with St. John's, of Annapolis, here on Thursday. Then there is a rest until Maryland comes here for a game next Tuesday and William and Mary comes up Thursday of next week.

Navy Tossers to Meet Wake Forest Tonight

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 7.—The Navy Basket Ball Team swings into action again tomorrow after a lay-off of more than two weeks because of the Yule holiday season. The team will entertain the quint of Wake Forest College, of North Carolina.

Little is known here of the strength of the Carolinians, but the Tars are determined they will not be caught napping. The team is in better shape than was anticipated in the early stages of preparations. It got away to a good start prior to the holiday season by turning back both William and Mary and Lafayette. The Navy lads are expecting a hard battle when Duke comes here next Saturday.

Coach M. Talbott Riggs has been putting his St. John's College Team through the paces for the last few days in preparation for a three-day invasion of Virginia, during which a trio of games will be played. The Johnnies will clash with University of Virginia on Thursday, Washington and Lee, Friday, and Virginia Military Institute Saturday.

West Va. Wesleyans Prime for G. U. Five

Special to The Washington Post.

Buckhannon, W. Va., Jan. 7.—The Bobcats of West Virginia Wesleyan face a herculean task in their opening basket ball game of the season when Georgetown University, of Washington, D. C. invades Buckhannon Thursday evening. The Hoyas come to the Bobcat stronghold on Thursday to open a three-day trip in the tri-State section. Georgetown will play West Virginia University on Friday and Pitt's Panthers on Saturday to round out the trip.

Inasmuch as Coach Cebe Ross began preparing for the opening game on Monday, the team that he places on the floor will be untried, but stacks up as being a better combination than that of 1929. Heated scrimmages have been taking place on the Bobcat court the last two days and Ross is fast getting the Methodists ready for the first engagement. The starting five for Wesleyan likely will be made up from the following players: Forrest Bachtel, Howard Hartmen, Tom Biondin, and Joe Folio, guards; Cliff Battles or "Red" Hagerdon, centers; and Paul Watson, Frank Williams, Harold Rhodes or Orville Edmundson, forwards.

Hagerstown Awaits News From Athletics

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 7.—Martinsburg is the only team in the Blue Ridge League whose status for the 1930 season is indefinite, according to advices received here from well-informed circles. These advices indicate that all five of the other clubs have notified President J. Vincent Jamison, jr., of their intention to function another year, while the locals have withheld their decision pending word from the Philadelphia Athletics, who operated them last year as a farm.

President Lewis H. Thompson, of the locals, stated today that he expected to be able to let President Jamison and the fans know the status of the Blue Sox in a very short time. Evidently he is waiting for the annual meeting of the directors of the A's, at which they will make their plans for 1930. The Blue Sox, who have been befriended by the world champions since 1923, when Earl Mack managed Martinsburg, were taken over by the Mackmen last spring in toto. At the time Connie Mack announced that he would operate the club throughout the seasdn and would then announce if he would continue another season. His decision is awaited with interest and it likely will be forthcoming in a few days.

16 Lane High Gridmen Are Awarded Letters

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 7.—At an assembly held in the auditorium of Midway School, sixteen members of the Lane High School football squad, which won the championship in District 4, were awarded their letter. Those receiving the coveted awards were: Orvall Marshall, captain; Charles Lang, Ed Donnally, Don Fitzhugh, Ed Adams, Lindsay Blanton, Ed Gibson, Lindsay Taylor, Glasgow Armstrong, Lindsay Stringfellow, Scott Carter, Fendol Carter, Earl Chisholm, Lewis Pierce, Nick Velle and Herman Wheeler.

No captain has been elected for next season. It is probable that a choice will not be made by the lettermen, but that the honor will alternate during the season, the choice before each game being left to Coach Leitch. The player making the best showing at the end of the season will then receive the honor.

Eleven of the players receiving letters will return to school next fall. For each of the only vacancies on the team, there will be at least two applicants.

Whitestone Five Bows To Calvary Reds, 23-16

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Jan. 7.—The Calvary Reds basket ball team defeated the Whitestone Five tonight by the score, 23 to 16. The game was close throughout and close guarding by both teams caused a great number of fouls to be called. The local boys outscored the winners from the floor but, in making good eleven fouls out of fifteen shots, the visitors took home the victory. The work of Davidson at guard was outstanding for the winners, while Mumford was best for the losers.

Duke Five Opens Season At Virginia Tonight

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 7.—Duke opens the basket ball season tomorrow night at Charlottesville, Va., by meeting the University of Virginia Cavaliers. Thursday night they will play Maryland at College Park and meet the Navy at Annapolis on Saturday.

Two games have been added to Duke's 1930 schedule, both of them with Washington and Lee on a home and home basis. The Generals will come here to play the Devils on January 16 and Duke will return the visit on February 19. In the regular season Washington and Lee lost only one game last year, that to Kentucky by 1 point. Their play is built around Williams, giant center, and it will be an interesting duel when he and Croson, Duke's giant center, get together.

TAKE TWENTIETH GAME.

The twentieth straight victory of the season was recorded last night by the Stewart Brothers Photo five, which downed the Poolseville High School, 49-19, in the Silver Spring Armory. For games with the winners, call Columbia 8333.

BUSINESS AND CENTRAL WIN IN COURT SERIES DEBUT

Details Complete for Miami Bout, Experts Believe.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Whether any of the principals likes it or not, the negotiations for Phil Scott, of England, to fight Jack Sharkey at Miami, Fla., February 27, have reached a stage where definite announcement of the match may be made at any time considered appropriate for the ballyhoo. A number of the experts, in fact, already have jumped at the conclusion that the match for ten rounds under the palms is "in" despite the reluctance of the parties of the first and second part to show any enthusiasm.

The masters of Madison Square Garden, Bill Carey, the railroad builder, and Frank (January) Bruen, director of race tracks, held an earnest conference tonight with Jimmy Johnston, American manager of Scott. There was some belief that the final details were ironed out at this secret session.

Johnston Holding Out For 25 Per Cent.

So far Johnston has held out for a 25 per cent cut in gate receipts that may exceed $250,000, if they do not quite touch the figure of $400,000 for the Sharkey-Stribling match at Miami Beach last year. The Garden has proposed 20 per cent as the limit for Scott, who never got more than $20,000 for any bout.

The Garden is placing great store in the arrival here tomorrow of Victor Campolo, Argentine giant, by slow boat from South America, despite Sharkey's declaration that he would not box Campolo until the vacant heavyweight throne seat has been filled. The Garden still has hopes of shoving Victorio into the breach with Sharkey if negotiations for Scott fail.

New York Boxing Body to Investigate Shires.

Shires, granted a license here before he knocked off Bad Billy Bailey, in Buffalo, in a round, will be investigated along the lines of the charges filed against him before the Michigan and Illinois Boxing Commission in regard to alleged "dives" of his opponents. There probably will be an inquiry also into shires' abrupt disposal of Bailey.

Carter is not considered a fit opponent. A three-year managerial contract between See and Carnera was approved.

Pullman Five Fails To Score From Floor

The Remsen A. C. Five, of Takoma Park, last night set what is thought to be a record for this section when it battled the Pullman A. C. cagers through 40 minutes of heated combat without the latter team scoring a point from the floor. The Remsens scored a one-sided 35-to-5 victory, the Pullmans gaining their lone points on foul shots.

Loving and Miller led the Remsen attack, the former collecting seven 2-point baskets, while Miller added four more.

DEACON FIVE BOWS, 35-20, TO G. U.

EXHIBITING a baffling brand of passing, which led to many open shots, Georgetown University's Five defeated with consummate ease the Deacons of Wake Forest (N. C.) College by a score of 35 to 20 last night on the Tech High School court.

The Deacons, who previously had played only one game, proved no match for the Hilltoppers in any department and at no stage of the proceedings was there any doubt of the ultimate result. Their greatest weapon was their spirit, but even that was impotent in the face of Georgetown's strong five-man defense.

With Walter Morris, the former St. John's Prep star, and Don Dutton and Capt. McCarthy whipping the net from the field, Georgetown ran up a 12-5 lead within 10 minutes after the start.

Sensing an easy triumph, Coach Bill Dudack sent in a flock of Georgetown reserves who more than equaled the efforts of the Deacons until the close of the first half, which ended with a score of 17 to 9.

Woodward Tossers Score Over Landon

Producing a zone defense that was well-nigh impenetrable, Woodward Prep School's coasted to an easy 25-to-5 victory over the Landon Preppers yesterday in the Woodward Gym. With the exception of single field goals by Hitchcock and Baker, the losers were held scoreless from the floor, while only one foul toss aided them in the counting.

On the other hand, Coach Warren Hayes produced two men in George Groff and Bill Fry who could be depended upon to do their share of the scoring. Each player looped in four double-deckers while Groff's two foul shots made him the leading scorer of the club. The winners will now prep for their game with St. Alban's on Friday, and their even more formidable foe—Alexandria High School—on Saturday night.

of $10,000 in money and a year in contractural limits. Yankee officials said that they had made their "top offer" to the Babe and the next move must be made by the player. Ruth said he would leave Saturday for St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp of the Yankees.

The big slugger's comment on the $75,000 offer was that it was "not enough," while Secretary Barrow insisted it was generous, perhaps to a fault.

The big outfielder brought up the question of exhibition games, and the club was understood to be willing to make a stipulation limiting the number of exhibitions in which Ruth should be called on to participate. This the Yankees planned to do in any event, as the wear and tear of the extra contests on the slugger's legs were regarded with apprehension last year.

Although he has played ten years in a Yankee uniform, Ruth has had only three contracts in that time. When his release was purchased from the Boston Red Sox for a price reported to have been $125,000, he had a holdover contract calling for $10,000 a year. This the Yankees took over, and he played in 1920 under its terms. For 1921 he had a contract calling for $25,000, and he was signed in 1922 to a document running for five years at $52,500 a year. He then jumped to the forefront of high finance in baseball by signing for three years at $70,000 a year.

At the conference today, participated in only by Ruth, Ruppert and Barrow and held at Ruppert's brewery, rather than the midtown offices of the Yankees, the negotiations were opened with an offer to renew the expiring contract for one year at the same figure, $70,000.

When Ruth, with a show of indignation, refused the "feeler," Col. Ruppert made his offer of $75,000 a year for two years. The Babe then stated his terms, and the conference adjourned with a rejection by Ruppert.

Secretary Barrow said tonight that he had no idea what the next move would be, nor where nor when. "It is up to the Babe," he said.

There was no idea in baseball circles generally that the home-run hitter ever will be classed as a holdout. Negotiations as to salary may be continued until the season opens in April, although probably Ruth's name will decorate a Yankee contract long before that time.

Ruth already was baseball's highest-salaried performer, his last contract exceeding the amount paid K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, by $5,000 a year. He was, however, slightly under the salary of the President of the United States, but the Yankee officers today offered to remedy that.

Shires Again Victor; Gets Clean Bill

Beats Tony Vaeth by Clean Knockout in First Round.

Illinois Commission Decides Defeat of Daly Legitimate.

ST PAUL, Minn., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Arthur Shires ended another one-round knockout to his record tonight by disposing of Tony (the Terrible) Faeth after two minutes of fighting in their scheduled 6-round bout.

There was no semblance of a "dive" when Faeth went down. Arthur the Great had caught him with a terrific right cross squarely on the jaw. Faeth, turned half about by the punch, dropped through the ropes and nearly out of the ring.

At the count of nine the pitcher was back on his feet, but the Great Shires, thoroughly roused in fury, tore across the ring and bounced another right off Tony's little chin. That was the last of Faeth. The referee counted him out as he lay flat on his back.

Illinois Investigation Clears Shires.

The Illinois State Athletic Commission investigating rumors that Dangerous Dan Daly had to take a "dive" to Shires when the battling White Sox first baseman scored an impressive 21-second victory in his professional first fight debut here a month ago, reached the conclusion that the knockout was on the level and that Daly had not been telling the truth.

George H. Brickler, of Columbus, Ohio, secretary of the Ohio Valley Retail Furniture Association, was a surprise witness at the hearing. He testified he held the contract as Daly's manager and that Daly's real name was Jimmy Gary, an 18-year-old youth of Columbus. Gary or Daly, according to Brickler, was an irresponsible publicity-craving youth who had been twice knocked out before he met Shires, the last coming in 17 seconds.

Boston, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The pugilistic fate of Charles Arthur (once the great) Shires in Massachusetts may be decided here tomorrow when the State Boxing Commission meets. The fact that baseball's babbling boxer has been blackballed by the New York State Commission may bring about some action by the Massachusetts commission in view of the fact that Arthur is due to face Al Spohrer, catcher for the Boston Braves, in a ring here Friday night.

Tunney May Undergo Operation on Kidneys

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Gene Tunney may within the next few weeks have to undergo an operation for the removal of a stone from one of his kidneys. If X-rays within the next few days indicate a stone has formed, an operation will be performed for its removal, Billy Gibson said.

Tunney's former pilot also said specialists have agreed that the ailment was not the result of body blows during Gene's ring career.

$20,000 Price Tags of Moore and Loepp Are Highest.

Club Lost Money on Year; No Dividend Declared.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

STRANGE as it seems in view of the fact that the Nationals could finish no better than fifth in the last American League race, the Washington Club spent no less than $154,500 for talent in 1929. That this amount was expended for baseball "ivory" was disclosed yesterday in the financial statement submitted at the annual meeting of the stockholders, at which all officers were reelected, as follows: Clark Griffith, president; William M. Richardson, vice president and treasurer, and Edward B. Eynon, jr., secretary and assistant treasurer, with these three making up the board of directors. No dividend was declared; in fact, the club lost money during the 1929 season.

These figures prove that the Nationals are trying to get material for the club, even if they appear to have been stung in some of their deals.

The highest priced rookies bought are Pitcher Carlos Moore and Outfielder George Loepp, who came from Birmingham and Baltimore, respectively, with a $20,000 price-mark hanging on them. The first-named was obtained in a cash deal, while Pitcher Jim Weaver and Infielder "Stuffy" Stewart were sent to Baltimore as part-payment for Loepp.

Another rookie whose work will be watched with interest will be Shortstop Jimmy McLeod, for whom the Nats had to dish out $13,000 to the Little Rock Club. As a matter of fact, this trio and Pitcher Herbert Pyle, drafted from Chattanooga, will bring the only faces new to Washington fans to the Biloxi training camp, as all of the others paid for during the season have displayed their physiognomies either in Washington or at Tampa last spring.

The names of Pitchers Ad Liska and Paul McCullough appear on the list of 1929 purchases, but the $15,000 after their names represents the final payment following $5,000 down when the deal was made in 1928. In two cases, those of Outfielder Elliott Bigelow and Infielder Grant Gillis, the Nats had to pay $10,000 and $7,500, respectively, to get this pair for trading purposes in the deal with the Red Sox which brought Buddie Myer here.

The fact that Pitcher Myles Thomas and Outfielder Ira Flagstead cost $10,000 apiece means that the Yankees and Red Sox, respectively, did a little shrewd bargaining, as the two came here by the waiver route, but at $2,500 each more than the waiver price.

Catcher Spencer and Pitcher Wineapple were free agents when signed and the $15,000 to the former and $1,250 to the latter represents just so much "velvet" which they received for their baseball freedom.

The 36-hole qualifying test tomorrow will bring out some 350 professionals and amateurs seeking the 85 places open to the qualifying list; 43 players, mostly pros, will not be required to qualify.

STARTS NEW WORK.

Lorraine Gulli, the Nation's ranking woman duckpin bowler, will make her bow as the first woman professional of the game on Thursday and Friday afternoons, when she will give free instructions to all women bowlers at the Bethesda alleys between 2 and 5 o'clock.

Woltz Five Cancels Game With Knight's

Pending the announcement of eligibility rules by the District Amateur Athletic Union, the Woltz Photographer Basket Ball Team has postponed its game scheduled with the Knight's Store Quintet of Alexandria, originally slated to be played tomorrow night.

The Woltz Team, which plans to compete in the A. A. U. tourney in March, has called off the game until it learns the status of the Alexandria Team.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Jan. 7.—The Alexandria High School Basket Ball Team will resume court activities Saturday night, after a ten-day laff-off during the holiday season, when it meets the fast Woodward College Quint of Washington. Coach Reynolds is enthusiastic over the chances of his charges for the remainder of the season, and he points to the excellent showing made by his team against Benedictine College, of Richmond, when the locals were nosed out, 23 to 20.

Coach Reynolds will start the games in the Third District competition on January 17, against the Warenton High School at Warrenton. He is confident his boys will go through the conference play and enter the finals for the State championship.

Athletic relations between the Alexandria High School and Episcopal High School have been resumed this year, after several years during which these teams have not met, and Reynolds has scheduled a game with the Episcopalians, to be played at Hoxton Field in February. These contests between the two schools most prominent in this section are always popular and draw large crowds from Alexandria.

Another game scheduled is that with the Fredericksburg Colegians, in Fredericksburg, January 14. Several other games on foreign courts have been scheduled for the Maroon and White.

In Saturday's game the locals will present a revised line-up. Pete Williams has been shifted to a forward berth, he formerly holding down a guard position. His deadly shots for the basket have resulted in this change. The old "man to man" system, formerly employed in high school games, has ben abandoned, and the Big Reds will hereafter use a zone defense, from which much is expected in the way of results.

Stenogs Beat Tech, 37-26, as Newman Leads Attack.

Central Runs Up Lead on Eastern Reserves to Win, 29-25.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, JR.

TO Central and Business High schools belong the honor of leading the Interhigh Basket Ball League at the end of its first day of play, which opened yesterday on the new Tech High School Gymnasium, before 4,000 cheering onlookers.

Considered the least formidable of the five teams in the series, Central's tossers nevertheless scored with a second-half rally which conquered Eastern's quintet, 29-25, while Coach Lynn Woodworth's rugged little band of Business courtmen had the satisfaction of spilling the title defending Tech five, 37-26, in the second game of the program.

As in the past both games produced "hammer and tong" tactics throughout, with two teams on an apparently even basis, fighting it out in each case. In both instances the frays were decided in the final twenty minutes of play as tie scores were prevailing at the intermission period of both contests. The Central-Eastern game was 10 to 10 at the half, while Tech and Business were deadlocked at 16-all after the first two periods.

A losing strategical move probably cost Eastern the victory in the first game when a carefully planned move of Coach "Chief" Guyon failed to produce the expected results. With the score 10 to 10, Guyon made the substitution of his entire "pony" team for the Lincoln Park first stringers, just before the half ended. Although no more scoring resulted before the intermission gun sounded, Central's five took advantage of the lightweights immediately after the resumption of activities to ring up six points in quick succession.

Guyon Reinstalls "Shock Troops."

Capt. Wilbur Cross, who had also set the pace for his team during the second quarter, was again the leader of the attack which put his team in a 16-10 advantage.

Here Guyon sent his "shock troops" back into the game with immediate results. Noonan led the assault for the next few seconds which carried the Lincoln Parkers again into the lead, but once more Central rallied, and at the beginning of the fourth quarter was in command of a 20-17 lead.

Although striving desperately to overcome this advantage, Eastern's sharpshooters failed to get going again and were matched basket for basket by the Mount Pleasant team over the remainder of the route.

Downey Rice and Capt. Wilbur Cross led the winners' attack with 12 and 9 points, respectively, with the former proving the highest scoring performer of the game. However, two beautiful shots by the Blue and White leader provided the thrills of the game, Cross being stationed almost in the middle of the floor when he let fly with the leather which each time swished through the basket.

Lassisse Hero in Tech's Defeat.

After being battled to a standstill in the first half of the second game on the program, Business High's courtmen repeated Central's trick of coming back in the later stages of the game to cop the verdict. George Lassisse, Tech's doughty little forward, was playing a smashing game for the 1929 champions until the fourth personal foul was called on him late in the second quarter. With 7 points to his credit he had done his share to keep the Maroon and Gray in the running.

However, to Natie Newman, captain of the Business High Quintet, rightfully belongs the largest share of the laurels for the day. Newman was up and down the floor for the Orange and Blue all afternoon, and his 6 field goals and 4 foul shots gave Business 16 needed markers for its triumph. Had it not been for one of his teammates, though, Newman's effectiveness might have been seriously impaired, as the "feeding" of Spencer Chase, brilliant Stenog center, deserves a large portion of the credit.

Dempsey Scorns Current Heavies; 'May Take Pot Shot at One or Two'

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey thinks little of the present crop of heavyweights, and "may have a pot shot at one or two of them yet."

Here to referee a welterweight bout tonight between Farmer Joe Cooper and Ted Goodrich, the old Manassa Mauler brushed aside a question of whether he would return to the ring.

"Anything might materialize," he said. "If these birds don't get to mixing it up a little more lively, why, I may have a pot shot at one or two of them yet."

"A champion should meet and beat them all, or he shouldn't be champion," he said. "The heavyweights are spotting their matches instead of slamming their way through the division."

Dempsey, now a Chicago promoter, reached Atlanta early this morning and after a call on Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, went to the Federal prison, where he waved and called greetings to the prisoners as he walked through the corridors.

"We'd like to come and see you, Jack," one of the prisoners responded, "but since we can't do that we're glad you came to see us."

Atlanta business men were hosts at a luncheon for Dempsey which was attended by Bobby Jones, national open golf champion, and Young Stribling, Georgia heavyweight. Dempsey spoke over radio station WSB here late this afternoon and appeared at a Boy Scout dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club before going to the fight arena.

V. P. I. TEAMS UNDER NEW COACHES

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Jan. 7.—New coaches are tuning up their squads for the winter grind in three sports at Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Bob Warren, former star at the American School of Osteopathy and North Carolina State College, where he was named on the All-Southern team, is introducing the Meanwell system of basket ball at V. P. I. Walter Pattie, twice Southern intercollegiate light heavyweight champ and captain of the 1929 team, has succeeded Dick Esleeck, another former Gobbler star, as coach of the varsity boxers. Tommy Tomko, three sport luminary and middleweight wrestler on the Dixie title winning team here two years ago, this week laid aside his amateur laurels to become assistant wrestling coach to George Herring.

All three of these newcomers to the V. P. I. athletic staff are now being launched upon their first coaching venture. But their chances for success in the coaching profession are buoyed up by exceptional athletic ability and every indication of the personality and the will to make good. Southwest Virginia fans and those in many other sections of the South Atlantic States will watch with interest the efforts of this trio to uphold and promote the welfare of V. P. I. athletics.

Warren and Pattie Face Big Tasks.

As head coaches, the big tasks fall to Warren and Pattie. Warren is called upon to don the mantle of a modern Moses and lead the V. P. I out of the basket ball wilderness of the past six years. A half dozen court mentors have tutored the Gobbler basket teams in a like number of campaigns. Since the successful 1923 campaign under Monk Younger, now head coach at Davidson College, the Gobblers have failed to break even under Ben Cubbage, Ronald Day, Buford Blair, Henry Redd, George Moore and Roy Randall, each of whom remained but one year as varsity coach.

The brilliant performances of Buddy Dear occasionally swept the Polytech teams of a few years ago to the heights as infrequent reminders of the great combinations which earned more than one South Atlantic or Southern crown back in the 'teens and the early years of the recent decade. Now V. P. I. is starting anew and Bob Warren with his Meanwell system as he first learned it in his native Wisconsin, may be the man who will end the wanderings. He can not do much more than lay the foundations for the future this year, for he has but two veterans from the mediocre 1929 team and a crop of sophomores, who failed to win a game in freshman togs.

1929 Boxing Team Almost Wiped Out.

Pattie also has a tough task with his ringmen. His own loss and that of Captain-elect Bob Welker, Ed Trenis, Bek Kammerer and Shorty Wood almost wiped out the 1929 team. Dave Neff, ace of the freshmen a year ago, has developed heart trouble and can not box. Pattie's first year will be his hardest.

LOSSES HURT VIRGINIA'S CHANCES

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 7.—Virginia's basket ball squad faces the loss of two valuable men at the very start of the 1930 season. The Cavalier quint will open tomorrow night when Duke University comes for a game in the Memorial Gymnasium.

Jack Roberts, of Alexandria, Va., veteran guard, has decided that the press of work in the medical school is so great that he will not be a candidate for the team this season. Roberts won his "V" as regular guard last season, and he will be missed in many ways.

The other missing man is Herbert Bryant, who was a forward on the '29 first-year team that lost only one game, and that by a single point. Bryant hurt his leg during the Christmas recess and will not be able to play basket ball for several weeks. He played full back on the varsity eleven last fall.

Capt. Harrison to Start At Center.

Capt. Hartwell Harrison will more than likely start at center, with two other letter men in the opening lineup: Andy Merle, at forward, and Dave Stouder, at guard. Lem Mayo, who was high scorer on the '29 freshman five, probably will be in the other forward position, and either Bob Manley or Harry Steinberg paired with Stouder at guard.

The game with Duke tomorrow night will be followed by a contest with St. John's, of Annapolis, here on Thursday. Then there is a rest until Maryland comes here for a game next Tuesday and William and Mary comes up Thursday of next week.

Navy Tossers to Meet Wake Forest Tonight

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 7.—The Navy Basket Ball Team swings into action again tomorrow after a lay-off of more than two weeks because of the Yule holiday season. The team will entertain the quint of Wake Forest College, of North Carolina.

Little is known here of the strength of the Carolinians, but the Tars are determined they will not be caught napping. The team is in better shape than was anticipated in the early stages of preparations. It got away to a good start prior to the holiday season by turning back both William and Mary and Lafayette. The Navy lads are expecting a hard battle when Duke comes here next Saturday.

Coach M. Talbott Riggs has been putting his St. John's College Team through the paces for the last few days in preparation for a three-day invasion of Virginia, during which a trio of games will be played. The Johnnies will clash with University of Virginia on Thursday, Washington and Lee, Friday, and Virginia Military Institute Saturday.

West Va. Wesleyans Prime for G. U. Five

Special to The Washington Post.

Buckhannon, W. Va., Jan. 7.—The Bobcats of West Virginia Wesleyan face a herculean task in their opening basket ball game of the season when Georgetown University, of Washington, D. C. invades Buckhannon Thursday evening. The Hoyas come to the Bobcat stronghold on Thursday to open a three-day trip in the tri-State section. Georgetown will play West Virginia University on Friday and Pitt's Panthers on Saturday to round out the trip.

Inasmuch as Coach Cebe Ross began preparing for the opening game on Monday, the team that he places on the floor will be untried, but stacks up as being a better combination than that of 1929. Heated scrimmages have been taking place on the Bobcat court the last two days and Ross is fast getting the Methodists ready for the first engagement. The starting five for Wesleyan likely will be made up from the following players: Forrest Bachtel, Howard Hartmen, Tom Biondin, and Joe Folio, guards; Cliff Battles or "Red" Hagerdon, centers; and Paul Watson, Frank Williams, Harold Rhodes or Orville Edmundson, forwards.

Hagerstown Awaits News From Athletics

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 7.—Martinsburg is the only team in the Blue Ridge League whose status for the 1930 season is indefinite, according to advices received here from well-informed circles. These advices indicate that all five of the other clubs have notified President J. Vincent Jamison, jr., of their intention to function another year, while the locals have withheld their decision pending word from the Philadelphia Athletics, who operated them last year as a farm.

President Lewis H. Thompson, of the locals, stated today that he expected to be able to let President Jamison and the fans know the status of the Blue Sox in a very short time. Evidently he is waiting for the annual meeting of the directors of the A's, at which they will make their plans for 1930. The Blue Sox, who have been befriended by the world champions since 1923, when Earl Mack managed Martinsburg, were taken over by the Mackmen last spring in toto. At the time Connie Mack announced that he would operate the club throughout the season and would then announce if he would continue another season. His decision is awaited with interest and it likely will be forthcoming in a few days.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 7.—At an assembly held in the auditorium of Midway School, sixteen members of the Lane High School football squad, which won the championship in District 4, were awarded their letter. Those receiving the coveted awards were: Orvall Marshall, captain; Charles Lang, Ed Donnally, Don Fitzhugh, Ed Adams, Lindsay Blanton, Ed Gibson, Lindsay Taylor, Glasgow Armstrong, Lindsay Stringfellow, Scott Carter, Fendol Carter, Earl Chisholm, Lewis Pierce, Nick Velle and Herman Wheeler.

No captain has been elected for next season. It is probable that a choice will not be made by the lettermen, but that the honor will alternate during the season, the choice before each game being left to Coach Leitch. The player making the best showing at the end of the season will then receive the honor.

Eleven of the players receiving letters will return to school next fall. For each of the only vacancies on the team, there will be at least two applicants.

Whitestone Five Bows To Calvary Reds, 23-16

Special to The Washington Post.

Alexandria, Va., Jan. 7.—The Calvary Reds basket ball team defeated the Whitestone Five tonight by the score, 23 to 16. The game was close throughout and close guarding by both teams caused a great number of fouls to be called. The local boys outscored the winners from the floor but, in making good eleven fouls out of fifteen shots, the visitors took home the victory. The work of Davidson at guard was outstanding for the winners, while Mumford was best for the losers.

Duke Five Opens Season At Virginia Tonight

Special to The Washington Post.

Durham, N. C., Jan. 7.—Duke opens the basket ball season tomorrow night at Charlottesville, Va., by meeting the University of Virginia Cavaliers, Thursday night they will play Maryland at College Park and meet the Navy at Annapolis on Saturday.

Two games have been added to Duke's 1930 schedule, both of them with Washington and Lee on a home and home basis. The Generals will come here to play the Devils on January 16 and Duke will return the visit on February 19. In the regular season Washington and Lee lost only one game last year, that to Kentucky by 1 point. Their play is built around Williams, giant center, and it will be an interesting duel when he and Croson, Duke's giant center, get together.

The Washington and Lee game here on the 16th is the first home appearance of the Blue Devils in intercollegiate competition. On the Saturday following the Washington and Lee engagement they play Wake Forest in the Duke gym.

The starting line-up for the Virginia game will see Councillor and Rogers at forwards; Croson, center; Werber and Capt. Farley, guards. These men are all veterans, Werber, Councillor and Farley playing their third year, with Rogers and Croson on the varsity their second time.

TAKE TWENTIETH GAME.

BUSINESS AND CENTRAL WIN IN COURT SERIES DEBUT

Details Complete for Miami Bout, Experts Believe.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Whether any of the principals likes it or not, the negotiations for Phil Scott, of England, to fight Jack Sharkey at Miami, Fla., February 27, have reached a stage where definite announcement of the match may be made at any time considered appropriate for the ballyhoo. A number of the experts, in fact, already have jumped at the conclusion that the match for ten rounds under the palms is "in" despite the reluctance of the parties of the first and second part to show any enthusiasm.

The masters of Madison Square Garden, Bill Carey, the railroad builder, and Frank (January) Bruen, director of race tracks, held an earnest conference tonight with Jimmy Johnston, American manager of Scott. There was some belief that the final details were ironed out at this secret session.

Johnston Holding Out For 25 Per Cent.

So far Johnston has held out for a 25 per cent cut in gate receipts that may exceed $250,000, if they do not quite touch the figure of $400,000 for the Sharkey-Stribling match at Miami Beach last year. The Garden has proposed 20 per cent as the limit for Scott, who never got more than $20,000 for any bout.

The Garden is placing great store in the arrival here tomorrow of Victor Campolo, Argentine giant, by slow boat from South America, despite Sharkey's declaration that he would not box Campolo until the vacant heavyweight throne seat has been filled. The Garden still has hopes of shoving Victorio into the breach with Sharkey if negotiations for Scott fail.

Another heavyweight menace, Primo Carnera, of Italy, became official today, as the New York State Athletic Commission met and suspended indefinitely the harassed Art Shires, fighting first baseman of the Chicago White Sox.

New York Boxing Body to Investigate Shires.

Shires, granted a license here before he knocked off Bad Billy Bailey, in Buffalo, in a round, will be investigated along the lines of the charges filed against him before the Michigan and Illinois Boxing Commission in regard to alleged "dives" of his opponents. There probably will be an inquiry also into shires' abrupt disposal of Bailey.

Carnera, the 283-pound Behemoth, and his manager, Leon See, were granted licenses by the commission which ruled out Carl Carter, Chicago Negro, as his first foeman.

Carter is not considered a fit opponent. A three-year managerial contract between See and Carnera was approved.

Pullman Five Fails To Score From Floor

The Remsen A. C. Five, of Takoma Park, last night set what is thought to be a record for this section when it battled the Pullman A. C. cagers through 40 minutes of heated combat without the latter team scoring a point from the floor. The Remsens scored a one-sided 35-to-5 victory, the Pullmans gaining their lone points on foul shots.

Loving and Miller led the Remsen attack, the former collecting seven 2-point baskets, while Miller added four more.

DEACON FIVE BOWS, 35-20, TO G. U.

EXHIBITING a baffling brand of passing, which led to many open shots, Georgetown University's Five defeated with consummate ease the Deacons of Wake Forest (N. C.) College by a score of 35 to 20 last night on the Tech High School court.

The Deacons, who previously had played only one game, proved no match for the Hilltoppers in any department and at no stage of the proceedings was there any doubt of the ultimate result. Their greatest weapon was their spirit, but even that was impotent in the face of Georgetown's strong five-man defense.

With Walter Morris, the former St. John's Prep star, and Don Dutton and Capt. McCarthy whipping the net from the field, Georgetown ran up a 12-5 lead within 10 minutes after the start.

Sensing an easy triumph, Coach Bill Dudack sent in a flock of Georgetown reserves who more than equaled the efforts of the Deacons until the close of the first half, which ended with a score of 17 to 9.

Woodward Tossers Score Over Landon

Producing a zone defense that was well-nigh impenetrable, Woodward Prep School's coasted to an easy 25-to-5 victory over the Landon Prepmen yesterday in the Woodward Gym. With the exception of single field goals by Hitchcock and Baker, the losers were held scoreless from the floor, while only one foul toss aided them in the counting.

On the other hand, Coach Warren Hayes produced two men in George Groff and Bill Fry who could be depended upon to do their share of the scoring. Each player looped in four double-deckers while Groff's two foul shots made him the leading scorer of the club. The winners will now prep for their game with St. Alban's on Friday, and their even more formidable foe—Alexandria High School—on Saturday night.

of $10,000 in money and a year in contractural limits. Yankee officials said that they had made their "top offer" to the Babe and the next move must be made by the player. Ruth said he would leave Saturday for St. Petersburg, Fla., training camp of the Yankees.

The big slugger's comment on the $75,000 offer was that it was "not enough," while Secretary Barrow insisted it was generous, perhaps to a fault.

The big outfielder brought up the question of exhibition games, and the club was understood to be willing to make a stipulation limiting the number of exhibitions in which Ruth should be called on to participate. This the Yankees planned to do in any event, as the wear and tear of the extra contests on the slugger's legs were regarded with apprehension last year.

Although he has played ten years in a Yankee uniform, Ruth has had only three contracts in that time. When his release was purchased from the Boston Red Sox for a price reported to have been $125,000, he had a holdover contract calling for $10,000 a year. This the Yankees took over, and he played in 1920 under its terms. For 1921 he had a contract calling for $25,000, and he was signed in 1922 to a document running for five years at $52,500 a year. He then jumped to the forefront of high finance in baseball by signing for three years at $70,000 a year.

At the conference today, participated in only by Ruth, Ruppert and Barrow and held at Ruppert's brewery, rather than the midtown offices of the Yankees, the negotiations were opened with an offer to renew the expiring contract for one year at the same figure, $70,000.

When Ruth, with a show of indignation, refused the "feeler," Col. Ruppert made his offer of $75,000 a year for two years. The Babe then stated his terms, and the conference adjourned with a rejection by Ruppert.

Secretary Barrow said tonight that he had no idea what the next move would be, nor where nor when. "It is up to the Babe," he said.

There was no idea in baseball circles generally that the home-run hitter ever will be classed as a holdout. Negotiations as to salary may be continued until the season opens in April, although probably Ruth's name will decorate a Yankee contract long before that time.

Ruth already was baseball's highest-salaried performer, his last contract exceeding the amount paid K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, by $5,000 a year. He was, however, slightly under the salary of the President of the United States, but the Yankee officers today offered to remedy that.

Shires Again Victor; Gets Clean Bill

Beats Tony Vaeth by Clean Knockout in First Round.

Illinois Commission Decides Defeat of Daly Legitimate.

ST PAUL, Minn., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Arthur Shires ended another one-round knockout to his record tonight by disposing of Tony (the Terrible) Faeth after two minutes of fighting in their scheduled 6-round bout.

There was no semblance of a "dive" when Faeth went down. Arthur the Great had caught him with a terrific right cross squarely on the jaw. Faeth, turned half about by the punch, dropped through the ropes and nearly out of the ring.

At the count of nine the pitcher was back on his feet, but the Great Shires, thoroughly roused in fury, tore across the ring and bounced another right off Tony's little chin. That was the last of Faeth. The referee counted him out as he lay flat on his back.

Illinois Investigation Clears Shires.

Chicago, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The dark clouds hovering over the ring activities of Charles Arthur ("the somewhat great") Shires began to disappear today.

The Illinois State Athletic Commission investigating rumors that Dangerous Dan Daly had to take a "dive" to Shires when the battling White Sox first baseman scored an impressive 21-second victory in his professional first fight debut here a month ago, reached the conclusion that the knockout was on the level and that Daly had not been telling the truth.

George H. Brickler, of Columbus, Ohio, secretary of the Ohio Valley Retail Furniture Association, was a surprise witness at the hearing. He testified he held the contract as Daly's manager and that Daly's real name was Jimmy Gary, an 18-year-old youth of Columbus. Gary or Daly, according to Brickler, was an irresponsible publicity-craving youth who had been twice knocked out before he met Shires, the last coming in 17 seconds.

Boston, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—The pugilistic fate of Charles Arthur (once the great) Shires in Massachusetts may be decided here tomorrow when the State Boxing Commission meets. The fact that baseball's babbling boxer has been blackballed by the New York State Commission may bring about some action by the Massachusetts commission in view of the fact that Arthur is due to face Al Spohrer, catcher for the Boston Braves, in a ring here Friday night.

Tunney May Undergo Operation on Kidneys

New York, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Gene Tunney may within the next few weeks have to undergo an operation for the removal of a stone from one of his kidneys. If X-rays within the next few days indicate a stone has formed, an operation will be performed for its removal, Billy Gibson said.

Tunney's former pilot also said specialists have agreed that the ailment was not the result of body blows during Gene's ring career.

$20,000 Price Tags of Moore and Loepp Are Highest.

Club Lost Money on Year; No Dividend Declared.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

STRANGE as it seems in view of the fact that the Nationals could finish no better than fifth in the last American League race, the Washington Club spent no less than $154,500 for talent in 1929. That this amount was expended for baseball "ivory" was disclosed yesterday in the financial statement submitted at the annual meeting of the stockholders, at which all officers were reelected, as follows: Clark Griffith, president; William M. Richardson, vice president and treasurer, and Edward B. Eynon, jr., secretary and assistant treasurer, with these three making up the board of directors. No dividend was declared; in fact, the club lost money during the 1929 season.

These figures prove that the Nationals are trying to get material for the club, even if they appear to have been stung in some of their deals.

The highest priced rookies bought are Pitcher Carlos Moore and Outfielder George Loepp, who came from Birmingham and Baltimore, respectively, with a $20,000 price-mark hanging on them. The first-named was obtained in a cash deal, while Pitcher Jim Weaver and Infielder "Stuffy" Stewart were sent to Baltimore as part-payment for Loepp.

Another rookie whose work will be watched with interest will be Shortstop Jimmy McLeod, for whom the Nats had to dish out $13,000 to the Little Rock Club. As a matter of fact, this trio and Pitcher Herbert Pyle, drafted from Chattanooga, will bring the only faces new to Washington fans to the Biloxi training camp, as all of the others paid for during the season have displayed their physiognomies either in Washington or at Tampa last spring.

The names of Pitchers Ad Liska and Paul McCullough appear on the list of 1929 purchases, but the $15,000 after their names represents the final payment following $5,000 down when the deal was made in 1928. In two cases, those of Outfielder Elliott Bigelow and Infielder Grant Gillis, the Nats had to pay $10,000 and $7,500, respectively, to get this pair for trading purposes in the deal with the Red Sox which brought Buddie Myer here.

The fact that Pitcher Myles Thomas and Outfielder Ira Flagstead cost $10,000 apiece means that the Yankees and Red Sox, respectively, did a little shrewd bargaining, as the two came here by the waiver route, but at $2,500 each more than the waiver price.

Catcher Spencer and Pitcher Winepapple were free agents when signed and the $15,000 to the former and $1,250 to the latter represents just so much "velvet" which they received for their baseball freedom.

Dempsey Scorns Current Heavies; 'May Take Pot Shot at One or Two'

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey thinks little of the present crop of heavyweights, and "may have a pot shot at one or two of them yet."

Here to referee a welterweight bout tonight between Farmer Joe Cooper and Ted Goodrich, the old Manassa Mauler brushed aside a question of whether he would return to the ring.

"Anything might materialize," he said. "If these birds don't get to mixing it up a little more lively, why, I may have a pot shot at one or two of them yet."

Dempsey thinks the boys are "ducking the issue."

"A champion should meet and beat them all, or he shouldn't be champion," he said. "The heavyweights are spotting their matches instead of slamming their way through the division."

Dempsey, now a Chicago promoter, reached Atlanta early this morning and after a call on Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, went to the Federal prison, where he waved and called greetings to the prisoners as he walked through the corridors.

"We'd like to come and see you, Jack," one of the prisoners responded, "but since we can't do that we're glad you came to see us."

Atlanta business men were hosts at a luncheon for Dempsey which was attended by Bobby Jones, national open golf champion, and Young Stribling, Georgia heavyweight. Dempsey spoke over radio station WSB here late this afternoon and appeared at a Boy Scout dinner at the Atlanta Athletic Club before going to the fight arena.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Jan. 7.—The Alexandria High School Basket Ball Team will resume court activities Saturday night, after a ten-day laff-off during the holiday season, when it meets the fast Woodward College Quint of Washington. Coach Reynolds is enthusiastic over the chances of his charges for the remainder of the season, and he points to the excellent showing made by his team against Benedictine College, of Richmond, when the locals were nosed out, 23 to 20.

Coach Reynolds will start the games in the Third District competition on January 17, against the Warenton High School at Warrenton. He is confident his boys will go through the conference play and enter the finals for the State championship.

Athletic relations between the Alexandria High School and Episcopal High School have been resumed this year, after several years during which these teams have not met, and Reynolds has scheduled a game with the Episcopalians, to be played at Hoxton Field in February. These contests between the two schools most prominent in this section are always popular and draw large crowds from Alexandria.

Another game scheduled is that with the Fredericksburg Colegians, in Fredericksburg, January 14. Several other games on foreign courts have been scheduled for the Maroon and White.

In Saturday's game the locals will present a revised line-up. Pete Williams has been shifted to a forward berth, he formerly holding down a guard position. His deadly shots for the basket have resulted in this change. The old "man to man" system, formerly employed in high school games, has ben abandoned, and the Big Reds will hereafter use a zone defense, from which much is expected in the way of results.

Stenogs Beat Tech, 37-26, as Newman Leads Attack.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, JR.

TO Central and Business High schools belong the honor of leading the Interhigh Basket Ball League at the end of its first day of play, which opened yesterday on the new Tech High School Gymnasium, before 4,000 cheering onlookers.

Considered the least formidable of the five teams in the series, Central's tossers nevertheless scored with a second-half rally which conquered Eastern's quintet, 29-25, while Coach Lynn Woodworth's rugged little band of Business courtmen had the satisfaction of spilling the title defending Tech five, 37-26, in the second game of the program.

As in the past both games produced "hammer and tong" tactics throughout, with two teams on an apparently even basis, fighting it out in each case. In both instances the frays were decided in the final twenty minutes of play as tie scores were prevailing at the intermission period of both contests. The Central-Eastern game was 10 to 10 at the half, while Tech and Business were deadlocked at 16-all after the first two periods.

A losing strategical move probably cost Eastern the victory in the first game when a carefully planned move of Coach "Chief" Guyon failed to produce the expected results. With the score 10 to 10, Guyon made the substitution of his entire "pony" team for the Lincoln Park first stringers, just before the half ended. Although no more scoring resulted before the intermission gun sounded, Central's five took advantage of the lightweights immediately after the resumption of activities to ring up six points in quick succession.

Guyon Reinstalls "Shock Troops."

Capt. Wilbur Cross, who had also set the pace for his team during the second quarter, was again the leader of the attack which put his team in a 16-10 advantage.

Here Guyon sent his "shock troops" back into the game with immediate results. Noonan led the assault for the next few seconds which carried the Lincoln Parkers again into the lead, but once more Central rallied, and at the beginning of the fourth quarter was in command of a 20-17 lead.

Although striving desperately to overcome this advantage, Eastern's sharpshooters failed to get going again and were matched basket for basket by the Mount Pleasant team over the remainder of the route.

Downey Rice and Capt. Wilbur Cross led the winners' attack with 12 and 9 points, respectively, with the former proving the highest scoring performer of the game. However, two beautiful shots by the Blue and White leader provided the thrills of the game, Cross being stationed almost in the middle of the floor when he let fly with the leather which each time swished through the basket.

Lassisse Hero in Tech's Defeat.

After being battled to a standstill in the first half of the second game on the program, Business High's courtmen repeated Central's trick of coming back in the later stages of the game to cop the verdict. George Lassisse, Tech's doughty little forward, was playing a smashing game for the 1929 champions until the fourth personal foul was called on him late in the second quarter. With 7 points to his credit he had done his share to keep the Maroon and Gray in the running.

However, to Natie Newman, captain of the Business High Quintet, rightfully belongs the largest share of the laurels for the day. Newman was up and down the floor for the Orange and Blue all afternoon, and his 6 field goals and 4 foul shots gave Business 16 needed markers for its triumph. Had it not been for one of his teammates, though, Newman's effectiveness might have been seriously impaired, as the "feeding" of Spencer Chase, brilliant Stenog center, deserves a large portion of the credit.

CLEVELAND AIMING HIGH IN 1930 PENNANT RACE

Tribe Hoping For Third Or Better

Strong 1929 Club Not Making Promises; Line-Up Is Same.

Lind, at Shortstop, Hodapp, at Second, Likely Fixtures.

This is another of a series of stories on coming season prospects of major league baseball clubs.

By T. A. WATERS.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 7 (A.P.).—A long suffering fron 'ersman feelingly and historically remarked that "the only good Indian is a dead Indian."

Seven slightly profane baseball aggregations of the American League were repeating this phrase during the final stages of 1929—with varying degrees of dismay and sorrow.

In 1930? That's a moot question and the Cleveland Indians are making no promises, but are hoping that they will finish as well as they did last year—with the third place share of the world series loot in their pockets.

There will be few new faces in the 1930 Indian line-up. One or two major shifts, however, are among the pre-training camp castings. Carl Lind, for instance, has an inside track on the shortstop job left vacant by the release of Tavener. Hodapp, who took up Lnd's place at second, when Carl was out because of illness, has the job pretty well sewed up.

Fonseca and J. Sewell Complete Infield.

The rest of the infield will include Fonseca at first and J. Sewell at third base. Much of the success of the Indians in 1930 hinges on the ability of this stellar infield to maintain its hitting and fielding power.

With the sensational Ferrell and Hudlin and Miller ready to take regular turns in the box the Indians are well set from a pitching standpoint. Then, too, a great deal is being made of Clint Brown, young right-hander, who won 21 games for New Orleans last season. Holloway and a youngster by the name of Shoffner are not to be taken lightly when they face the plate.

Jamieson, who is no longer young, will probably occupy the bench the greater part of the season, while Dick Porter cavorts in the left garden. Averill and Falk complete an outfield that is expected to rate high in the league.

Alex Hooks, Bob Seeds and Johnny Gill are rookies who are expected to see plenty of service. Gill set a two-base-hit record in the Eastern League while at Albany last season.

The Indians are no worse nor better than the opponents they will face, none of whom have annexed any young stars of exceptional merit. The Indians feel confident of landing in the first division, but they are making no championship boasts.

Price, second vice president; Mrs. Ada Kurtz, third vice president, whose election was unanimous; Mrs. Carroll Woolf, recording secreary; Mrs. John B. Abraham, corresponding secreary; Mrs. Daniel R. Stnasbury, treasurer, for the seventh consecutive term; Mrs. Lovell Wilcoxen, registrar; Edgar Warfield, sr., historian, with Miss Rebecca Kilpstein as assistant historian; Mrs. Charles W. The election was followed by a social meeting with refreshments served in charge of Mrs. Lovell Wilcoxen, Mrs. Charles M. Stump, Mrs. Effie Shaffer, Mrs. Mark L. Price and Miss Margaret Eddington.

Mrs. Howell extended to the chapter an invitation from Mrs. Maude Howell Smith, of Washington, to participate in the ceremony of placing a wreath on the statue of Gen. Robert E. Lee in the Capitol at Washington on Sunday, January 19, all who are to make this trip to communicate with Mrs. Howell for details.

Mrs. Reba Barrett Smith addressed the meeting in the interest of the campaign to start this week to raise funds for the Robert E. Lee Foundation toward the restoration of Stratford, the birthplace of Lee. Mrs. Smith spoke of this project being originated by the Daughters of the Confederacy, but realizing it should be a Nation-wide campaign, the foundation was organized at the solicitation of the Daughters.

Mrs. Robert Miller Reese is local chairman for this campaign and will open headquarters at 717 King street within the week, and the members of the chapter will assist and also will give an entertainment shortly to contribute to this work through the Virginia Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, which has pledged $5,000.

Mrs. Harry Kirk was appointed general chairman of a committee to give a card party for the benefit of the heating plant of Lee Camp Hall, and will announce subcommittee chairmen and members this week.

The first meeting of Potomac Truck and Engine Company, now known as No. 2, of the Alexandria Fire Department, since the annexation of Potomac on January 1, and the consequent taking over of its fire company, will be held at 8 o'clock this evening in the engine house at Potomac.

The officers of Alexandria's newest fire company are, T. W. McHhgh, president; S. J. Hammersley, senior vice president; R. A. Roseberry, secretary; J. W. Gladden, recorder; R. G. Craver, treasurer; A. V. rBown, captain; S. B. DeVaughan, truck lieutenant; L. P. Strobel, engine lieutenant; J. P. Butler, truck sergeant, and J. E. Cobean, engine sergeant. Members of standing committees are, T. W. McHugh, chairman; S. J. Hammersley, Sr.; R. A. Roseberry, J. W. Gladden and R. G. Craver, executive and grievance committee; the ways and means committee is composed of S. B. DeVaughan, chairman; A. V. Brown and J. W. Gladden; the house and property committee, L. P. Stroble, chairman; W. H. Vansycle and J. E. Cobean; the membership and sick committee, J. P. Butler, chairman; M. G. Long and T. A. Wilkinson; and the banquet and entertainment committee, A. V. Brown, chairman; R. B. Berryman and J. E. Cobean. The new company now has 50 active and 25 honorary members, 30 of the 50 active members having regulation firemen's uniforms.

The Potomac company was organized in 1924, with these charter members: T. W. McHugh, R. G. Craver, L. P. Strobel, E. M. Studds, Walter U. Varney, R. B. Cobean, Jr., R. L. Dawkins, J. R. Johnson, W. M. Kleysteuber, W. T. Jones, A. V. Brown and Samuel B. DeVaughan.

The company now is using the American La France engine purchased by Arlington County from a fund made up of a "fire levy" of 10 cents on each $100 assessed valuation of property. The county, when annexation of Potomac and other territory in Arlington County became effective, attempted to remove the engine, but suit for its possession was filed by former Mayor Fulton and former Councilwoman Mrs. Naomi P. Craver, of Potomac, and a temporary injunction restraining the county supervisors from removing the apparatus was granted by Judge Howard W. Smith, in the Circuit Court. The matter of the possession of the apparatus will be referred to Judge Coleman, of Fredericksburg, one of the three judges sitting in the annexation suit, for adjudication.

It is understood the truck of Truck and Engine Company No. 1 will be transferred to Potomac in the near future, this having been superseded by a new and gretaly improved truck for No. 1 company.

The bonds representing the $750,000 4 per cent issue recently voted by the city council have been received and forwarded to the New York bond attorneys to see that everything is in proper order before being delivered to the purchaser, Lewis E. Smoot, of Washington.

Immediately after completing the deal involving the sale of the bonds, the City of Alexandria will pay to Arlington County the $500,000 as provided for in the annexation decree which transferred a considerable portion of the county to the corporation of Alexandria. The amount received for the bonds was $735,000, and this is the first time in the history of the city when an entire bond issue was purchased by an individual.

The Town of Potomac, which is now under the management of the city manager and council of Alexandria, will soon have better street lighting, City Manager Wallace Lawrence has arranged with the Virginia Public Service Co. to replace the present 78 lights in Potomac, which are of 40 candlepower, with 100-candlepower lights. The work of replacing the lights will be started this week and finished at an early date.

Plans now are being formulated for an extensive renovation of the Second Presbyterian Church at the corner of Prince and St. Asaph streets. The tentative plans provide for restoring the edifice to a semblance of its original colonial architecture, in addition to staining the pews a mahogany color instead of their present oak finish.

A meeting of the Alexandria High School Unit of the Parent-Teachers Association will be held in the auditorium of the school building at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. A feature of the meeting will be the "Question Box;" queries pertinent to cooperation will be discussed. A member of the extension department of the University of Virginia will address the meeting on "The Nature of Childhood" and will urge the need of an extension course of lectures for interested parents and patrons. This course is being given throughout Virginia.

The newly elected officers of the Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax Real Estate Association will be installed Friday at a luncheon to be held in the George Mason Hotel. George M. Reynolds, of this city, is the president of the realtors. A business session will follow the induction of the officers.

Alexandria automobile owners are unusually slow this year in securing the 1930 tags for their machines, according to J. Frank Carlin, local distributor. Thus far he has issued approximately 1,500 licenses for pleasure cars and 300 for trucks, which is understood to be considerably less than the number issued at this ime last year.

The time limit for procuring the 1930 license tags expires at midnight January 15, and a general rush to secure the new tags is expected to start next week. Little difficulty is anticipated in filling all requirements, and Mr. Carlin has requested the automobile owners, in order to facilitate the issuance of the tags, to have their cards, which are sent out by the Division of Motor Vehicles in Richmond, completely filled out and signed before presenting them.

John Balderson, 27 years old, and unmarried, died yesterday at the Alexandria Hospital. Funeral services will be conducted at his late residence, 318 North Pitt street, at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, by the Rev. George J. Hooker, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, and burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

MEET AFTER 40 YEARS PASS

KIN, APART 40 YEARS, UNITE IN BALLSTON

Freeman Fowler Is Visited by Sister He Last Saw as Infant in England.

SHE RESIDES IN CANADA

Awakening after a night's slumber early yesterday, Freeman G. Fowler, who came to Ballston from England 40 years ago, found a pleasant surprise awaiting him when he was greeted by his sister, Mrs. Fred Cole, whom he had not seen since he left her, a mere infant, at their home in Great Britain.

Mrs. Cole said yesterday that when drafting her 1930 list of New Year's resolutions last Wednesday, she decided that the time had come when a resolution to retie the family bonds was in order. Fitting the action to the thought, she and her son-in-law, J. A. Fret, left their home at Entwistle, Alberta, Canada, the same day and came to Virginia in search of Mr. Fowler, who is now 70 years old.

Although he is now retired, Mr. Fowler is still in excellent health, and was overjoyed at the unexpected reunion. For many years he was coachman for the late Senator Henderson, of Missouri, and later was watchman at St. Albans.

Mrs. Cole and her son-in-law, who is employed by the Canadian National Railway, plan to return to Canada within a few days. She said she was astonished at the climate of Washington in January, the thermometer at Entwistle having registered 40 below when she left there.

SCHOOLBOY'S DEATH HELD DUE TO HAZING

INVESTIGATION IS BEGUN

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 7.—Acting upon complaints that the death six weeks ago of Hilleary Chaney, 15-year-old pupil of Tracey's High School, Anne Arundel County, was indirectly caused by injuries in a hazing escapade at the hands of older pupils of the school, State's Attorney A. Theodore Brady, and Sheriff Michael F. Carter today launched an investigation of circumstances of the case.

The boy died November 29 and his death was said to have resulted from spinal meningitis by a woman physician, Mrs. Emily Hammond, who attended him for two days prior thereto. Since then Deputy Sheriff Charles T. Howard, of the lower county, obtained information that the lad was the victim of a severe pummeling by one or more schoolmates, older than himself, when he resented the demand to address them as sir.

Joseph Chaney, 19, of Bristol, was said to have been the principal one in the attack. He is no relation to Hilliary. The dead youth was an orphan and had been raised by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Plummer Woods, of Friendship. Questioned today by State's Attorney Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Woods related some of the circumstances of the hazing incident and said that Hilliary died in convulsions two days later. They also said, however, that the boy was of frail physique and had not enjoyed good health.

On the other hand, the State's attorney has learned from Dr. J. J. Murphy, county health officer, that Dr. Hammond, in treating the youth, had tests made of blood specimens and also fluid from the spine, which Baltimore specialists said, showed a positive case of meningitis.

There was talk of exhuming the boy's body for further examination, but State's Attorney Brady said today that unless the investigation developed that the boy's condition was the result of alleged brutal treatment this will be abandoned. Meanwhile, he said, he plans to question Dr. Hammond.

Allegany County Court Is Opened

Cumberland Pastor Accepts Duty on Petit Jury; Judge Charges.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 7.—The January term of the Allegany County Circuit Court opened yesterday with the charge to the grand jury by Judge Albert A. Doub. W. R. Brewer, president of the Liberty Trust Co., was made foreman of the grand jury. Among the list of petit jurors is the Rev. Chauncey R. Botsford, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, who waived the consideration shown to clergymen excusing them from jury service and volunteered to serve. At a previous term the Rev. Eugene P. Skyles, pastor of St. Mark's Reformed Church, served. They are the first clergymen to perform jury duty here in many years.

Judge Doub in his charge to the grand jury dwelt upon the sacredness of the oath, using as his text, "In the presence of Almighty God."

The court, in commenting on perjury, said that witnesses brought before the grand jury in the sale of liquor, who refused to name the seller, but gave such excuses as finding it in rooms, on doorsteps and in the woods, were "obviously liars and perjurers" and suggested that they be turned over to the court for action.

LEGION HEAD MAKES PREPAREDNESS PLEA

National Commander Denies Militaristic Motives Prompt Stand.

PACIFISTS ARE RAPPED

Clifton Forge, Va., Jan. 7 (A.P.).—Preparedness as a national policy and the ultimate results of equal strength, reduction and a guarantee of permanent peace sought by the United States and Great Britain at the naval conference in London in January were officially approved here tonight in an address by O. L. Bodenhamer, of Little Rock, Ark., national commander of the American Legion.

Denying that any organization is necessarily militaristic if it advocates preparedness, and declaring "it is a crime to send untrained men to war," Commander Bodenhamer urged national precautions against repetition of the "confusion and extravagance and reckless expenditure of money and of life which accompanied our entry into the recent World War."

America Peaceful Nation.

America is a peaceful Nation, he said, by instinct opposed to war, and the veterans of Chateau-Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Argonne stand for peace, "but not peace at any price. The American people should understand that there are times," declared Commander Bodenhamer, "when the preservation of liberty and national honor take precedence over a love of peace.

"Enthusiasm for an ideal should not be allowed to warp our judgment in matters affecting the safety and permanency of our country.

"The ultimate results sought in the proposed five-power naval conference, to be held in London in January, are in keeping with the strongest desires of the American Legion. These results are:

Guarantees of Peace.

"Equal naval strength and a reduction, with a guarantee of permanent peace. The American Legion is alive to the danger of a weakened national defense, just as we stood and fought under a weakened national defense in 1917.

"The legionnaire knows war, and wants no more of it. He knows it from first-hand information. His advocacy, therefore, of a proper national defense program should not be criticized as militaristic."

America should be prepared, said Commander Bodenhamer, with internal defenders in the form of good citizens and external defenses in the form of preparedness. Preparedness, he added, will not stop war, "but it will decrease the loss which would be sustained as a result of unpreparedness."

War Not Preventable.

"Germany and France are warning examples that highly trained armies and militaristic tendencies will not prevent war. America is a glowing illustration of the fact that a poorly prepared nation will not prevent it from going to war when its national honor has been violated.

"Recognizing these facts, therefore, the legion favors a program of preparedness for defense, but not for offense.

"The legion's stand has been distorted by ill-meaning and selfish propagandists whose income depends upon their fanaticism. The pacifist who twists thte legion's stand into anything other than loyal devotion to America and to American institutions and a peaceful democracy is a snake in the grass, whose venom belies the doctrine under which he hides, and from the cover of which he hisses his foul and false tirade."

Culpeper Highway Head Reappointed

Rudasill Is Given County Position for Sixth Time Since 1920.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Jan. 7.—W. P. Rudasill, superintendent of roads of Culpeper County, today was reappointed by the board of supervisors for a term of two years. This is his sixth consecutive appointment to this office, the first having been made in 1920, prior to which time he was a member of the board of supervisors for several years.

A delegation composed of 100 citizens from all parts of the county, and headed by Edwin Grimsley, appeared before the board to urge Mr. Rudasill's reappointment.

The board also passed a resolution to request the Culpeper delegation to the Legislature to present a bill empowering the board to increase the salaries of all county officials not more than 25 per cent. County servants in Rappahannock, Madison and Orange Counties, all of which adjoin Culpeper, receive larger salaries than those of this county although Culpeper is a larger county than any of these.

The payment of more than $100 was authorized at this meeting for the bounty on hawks and other predatory birds killed in Culpeper County during the past month.

Parrot Fever Hits Trio at Annapolis

South American Malady Is Cause of Grave Alarm in Old Line Capital.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 7.—Three persons are critically ill in Annapolis Emergency Hospital tonight, suffering from what is known as parrot fever, a rare disease in the United States, and their condition is causing grave alarm to their attending physician and a large circle of friends.

Those afflicted are Mrs. Martin, 60 years old, wife of Simon S. Martin, secretary of the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce; Lee W. Kalmey, 28, proprietor of an automobile service station, and his wife, Edith M. Kalmey, 27, who are the son-in-law and daughter of Mrs. Martin. They have been under observation at the hospital for the last several days and Dr. J. Willis Martin, their physician, tonight announced the diagnosis of their ailment.

Parrot fever is a malady that is said to have become epidemic in many sections of South America, particularly in the Argentine, and has wrought havoc among the populace. Physicians in the United States know little about it except what they have read of it in reports from Latin-American countries. Dr. Martin describes the symptoms as what the medical fraternity term a severe form of typhoid pneumonia, and he is treating it as such.

ONE DEAD, FIVE HURT IN MARYLAND CRASH

Driver Who Figured in Wreck Near Frederick Held by Police.

HE IS BLAMED IN DEATH

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Jan. 7.—One man is dead, five other persons are injured, one seriously and a second man, one of those hurt, is in jail charged with manslaughter following an automobile accident on the Frederick-Georgetown pike about 4 miles south of here early this morning. Two passenger cars and a truck figured in the accident.

George Hartsock, 39 years old, of this city, was killed. The injured include Mrs. Hartsock, who suffered bruises about the body and face, and a niece, Margaret Perkins, 8 years old, who is in a critical condition with a fractured skull. W. E. Davis, 63 years old, of Kemptown, and James K. Robinson, 21 years old, were hurt slightly in the wreck as was Herbert Morningstar, of Mount Pleasant, who is in jail.

In addition to the charge of manslaughter, Morningstar is charged with unauthorized use of an automobile and larceny.

Police Given Report on Wreck.

According to the report made to police at the Frederick City Hospital, where the victims of the crash were brought, Mr. and Mrs. Hartsock and their niece were driving to Frederick from Baltimore. About 4 miles from this city, it is charged, their car was sideswiped by that driven by Morningstar who was driving to Baltimore.

The impact of this collision turned the Hartsock machine completely around and it crashed into a truck, owned by Davis and driven by Robinson. Both these autos upset pinning the occupants underneath and causing injuries to four and the death of Mr. Hartsock.

A passing motorist picked up the victims and brought them to the hospital here. While they were being received, it is alleged that Morningstar made his escape. He was arrested a few hours later at the home of a relative just outside of Frederick.

Automobile Stolen, Is Charge.

Morningstar suffered bruises about the back and shoulders. The automobile he was driving, police said, had been stolen previously from a gasoline filling station in Frederick.

No date has been set for the preliminary hearing of charges against Morningstar pending the outcome of injuries to the Perkins girl.

Chesapeake Bay Seal Shot at Worton Point

Special to The Washington Post.

Chestertown, Md., Jan. 7.—What is believed to be the first seal ever seen in the Chesapeake Bay was shot and killed this morning on the country estate of Mrs. Jesse D. Maxwell, widow of the former automobile manufacturer, at Worton Point, near here, by a farm laborer, Benjamin Lively, who was returning from a ducking trip.

He saw a black head rise from the water near shore and then the seal flapped its way 30 feet up on the shore before Lively brought him down with his ducking gun. The animal weighed 85 pounds.

The seal is 52 inches from nose to tail, is a male animal and is believed to be one of the gray seal variety whose habitat is in New England waters.

ARLINGTON GROUPS FIRM ON OIL STAND

ANSWERS GRANT LETTER

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Acting on a second letter received from Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant regarding the proposals of the Sun Oil Co. to the Federal Government, the Arlington County Civic Federation, representing 28 civic organizations in Arlington County, with but one dissenting vote last night again went on record as opposed to the establishment of the Sun Oil Co.'s storage plant on the Lee highway overlooking the Potomac River at Rosslyn. The meeting was held in Lyon Park.

The letter of Lieut. Col. Grant follows, in part:

"Recognizing your interest in park projects for the preservation of the Palisades and Valley of the Potomac River and special interest in the project of the Sun Oil Co., the National Capital Park and Planning Commission does not want to take any action without being sure it is for the best interest of the county at large and ask your opinion.

"The Sun Oil proposal is to dedicate to the United States upon passage of the Cramton bill or other similar legislation a strip of land at the foot of the cliff wide enough for the proposed parkway.

"The proposal is dependent upon the commission's withdrawing its opposition to the construction of a pier some 205 feet out into the river and the building of a tank farm at the top of the hill on the Lee highway."

The letter further states that the Sun Oil Co. proposes to give the land to the Government without cost, which would probably constitute a precedent for the location of similar piers on adoining property. The solution proposed does not, of course, alter the proposal to put tanks at the end of the existing commercial development on the Lee Highway in what has been zoned for residential use by the Arlington County Zoning Commission.

The special committee which made the report following the reading of the letter was composed of Julian D. Simpson, chairman; L. C. McNemar, and Harry A. Fellows.

L. C. McNemar, reporting for the legislative committee, announced that assurance has been given by Delegate Hugh Reid, representing Arlington County in the General Assembly of Virginia, that the bill giving the voters of the county the right to vote on a change of form of government will be introduced at this session of the Legislature.

Keith A. Brumback, president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, headed a delegation composed of Charles Eliot, representing the National Capital Park and Planning Commission; Guy N. Church, of Falls Church, from Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce; Henry C. Morris and Ashton C. Jones, from the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, who left for Richmond, Va., last night. There they will meet State Senator Frank L. Ball and Delegate Hugh Reid today for a conference with Gov. Harry F. Byrd and Gov.-elect John Garland Pollard.

The conference is being held to discuss the needed approaches to the National Capital and for the uniform development of the metropolitan area of which Arlington County is a part.

The committee will also make plans for a joint meeting to be held in Arlington County the afternoon of January 17 at which it is hoped to have Gov. Pollard, who will have taken office before that time, and former Gov. Byrd, with members of the General Assembly present. At this joint meeting, which representatives from Alexandria and Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will attend, it is proposed to make a tour of this section of northern Virginia to better acquaint Gov. Pollard with the needs of this section of the State.

President J. C. McClellan, of the Virginia Highlands Citizens' Association, announces the following appointmnt of standing committees for the year: Finance, J. Lee Price and J. W. Ross; entertainment, A. D. Davis, Mrs. E. W. Beckwith and Mrs. Myrtle Wilson; public improvements, Roy Beckwith, J. Lee Price and J. F. Gill; membership, Mrs. Pauline A. Smith and Charles T. Thorpe; public safety, S. C. Cross, R. E. Howes and O. W. Reynolds; zoning, H. L. Harris, J. Lee Price and C. W. Lee; voters' registration, A. D. Davis, G. F. Allwine; publicity, L. J. Hinman.

Roy Beckwith and A. D. Davis have been authorized to appear before the State Highway Department with a view to having the contract for the paving of the Washington-Richmond highway so amended as to include concrete culverts at the intersection on Frazier avenue and the highway instead of the sheet metal pipes called for in the contract.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at the Washington Golf and Country Club at 12 o'clock with President Dr. R. N. Sutton presiding.

The newly elected officers of the Sons and Daughters of Liberty will be installed by the deputy, Mrs. Elizabeth K. Taylor, at the meeting to be held in Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Those to be installed are: Mrs. Mary E. Good, councilor; Mrs. Elsie V. Crux, associate councilor; Mrs. Effie E. INFANT FATHERHOOD ADMITTED BY YOUTH

Farm Hand Held for Alleged Aid to Child's Mother in Abandoning It.

ARRAIGNMENT DUE TODAY

Garnet William ("Buck") Mayhew, 18-year-old farm hand, was arrested yesterday at his home in Derwood, Md., by Detective Sergt. John W. Wise and booked at the Detective Bureau on a charge of being an accessory to abandonment of an infant boy.

The arrest was made on a warrant issued by Assistant District Attorney Charles Murray at Police Court after Mrs. Nellie Pearl Ernest, 19 years old, of Gaithersburg, Md., admitted to the detective that she was the mother of the infant and implicated the Mayhew youth.

The infant was found abandoned in an automobile at Thirteenth and V streets northwest on December 30 and is being cared for at Children's Hospital, where he is known as "Robert V. Gordon."

Mayhew, according to the detective, admitted that he was the father of the child and that he accompanied Mrs. Ernest to this city from his home, on the outskirts of Rockville, in the early morning of December 30, when the infant was abandoned.

Mrs. Ernest, reported to have been estranged from her husband for more than two years, was arrested at the Derwood farm on Monday by Detective Wise and Policewoman Mary Gainey. The arrest resulted from an anonymous letter received by police.

Mayhew and Mrs. Ernest will be arraigned in Police Court today. He was lodged in the Third Precinct last night while Mrs. Ernest was in custody at the House of Detention.

VIRGINIA ASSEMBLY NOMINATIONS MADE

Senate Democratic Caucus Votes Soluda Senator Seat With G. O. P.

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 7.—The Virginia General Assembly, oldest law-making body in America, got under way tonight with the nomination of J. Sinclair Brown, of Roanoke, as speaker of the House of Delegates, and the unseating in the Senate Democratic caucus of Senator R. H. Stubbs, of Saluda, after he admitted he had bolted the party ticket twice within two years. The delegates' caucus, which always is held the night before the sessions gets officially under way, went along smoothly as scheduled, leaving the only sensational act of the day to the Senate Democrats, who caucused only for the selection of pages, its organization holding over.

The unseating of the Saluda senator came without warning, when, after the meeting started, he was the first upon the floor. Senator Saxon W. Holt, of Newport News, floor leader of the Senate and president pro tem, challenged Senator Stubbs and the Saluda senator replied.

Senator Stubbs said he had voted against Gov. Smith in 1928 and for President Hoover. Then, on invitation of the party, he said he returned to the primary and voted for G. Walter Mapp as gubernatorial nominee. In the general election, which followed he again bolted and voted not for Governor-elect Pollard, but for William Mosley Brown, the anti-Smith-Republican nominee.

Seated With G. O. P. Members.

"I have nothing more to say," said Senator Holt, and the vote was unanimous to seat Senator Stubbs with the other two Republican members of the Senate.

In the House caucus all went quietly and as scheduled. After Mr. Brown had been nominated for the speakership—an action tantamont to election, as there are 93 Democrats to 7 Republicans in the House—other officers were renominated without opposition. James A. Bear, of Roanoke, was reelected chairman of the caucus and Wilson W. Vellines, the only new officer, was made caucus secretary.

Actual convention of the Assembly will bet under way at noon tomorrow, when the officers nominated tonight will be elected and Gov. Byrd will read his message, in which he will render an account of his atewardship. Aside from a bill to increase the governor's salary from $5,000 to $10,000 or $15,000, which must be completed before next Wednesday, nothing much is expected until after Gov. Pollard assumes office January 15.

The air is filled with politics pertaining to the election of four judges to the State Supreme Court of Appeals bench, with none of the some 37 aspirants showing marked advantage over the others. Justices Louis A. Epes and Henry W. Holt, appointes of the governor, will be reelected without opposition, but the other two places may go to any of a dozen men.

Dark Horse Seen by Some.

Judge Flody H. Roberts, of Bristol, is reputed to be strong, having been pledged, it is understood, the entire delegation from the Ninth District, while C. H. Morrissett, tax commissioner, is talked of by some as the dark horse of the race. He is understood not to be seeking the place and some members say he will not be elected because he can not well be spared from his present office.

Judge Joseph W. Chinn, of Warsaw; Judge H. B. Gregory, of Roanoke, and Judge E. W. Hugins, of Chase City, all are mentioned as strong candidates. Judge O. L. Shackelford, of Norfolk, and Judge G. L. Browning, of Orange, are strongly backed, it is said. There are talks of coalitions in the making, but as yet it is in all formative state.
